PRESIDENT ASKS ACTION AGAIN ON NEUTRALITY ACT

Joins Hull in Plea to Congress.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—President Roosevelt restated his position on legislation to revise the neutrality act in a brief message to congress today. The message was interpreted by both friends and foes of the proposed legislation as a recognition of defeat so far as action at this session of congress is concerned.

Cordell Hull.

The President himself merely sent a covering note transmitting a 3,000 word statement by Secretary of State Cordell Hull in defense of his original six point program to repeal the existing arms embargo and otherwise revise the neutrality act.

The President referred to the 12 to 11 vote of the senate foreign relations committee postponing all action to revise the neutrality act until the next session of congress. He indorsed Secretary Hull's exposition of the administration's war policy program.

Text of Roosevelt Note.

The text of the President's message follows:

"To the Congress of the United States:

"I am advised that by a vote of twelve to eleven the senate committee on foreign relations has deferred action on peace and neutrality legislation until the next session of the congress.

"I am appending hereto a statement from the secretary of state which has my full approval, and which I trust will receive your earnest attention.

"It has been abundantly clear to me for some time that for the cause of peace and in the interest of American neutrality and security it is highly advisable that the congress at this session should take certain much needed action. In the light of present world conditions I see no reason to change that opinion."

Puts It Up to Congress.

The general opinion in congress was that the President thus restated his position for the sake of the record. His supporters and opponents agreed that he was placing the responsibility for the defeat of his war policy program upon congress, while serving notice on the nations of Europe that his position had not changed.

Senate neutrality advocates called the message a "swan song." Administration leaders in the senate privately asserted that the President's war policy program is dead so far as this session is concerned.

Senator George Norris [Radical, Neb.], who supports the President's war policy program "in order to help England and France lick Hitler," mournfully declared: "I like the message, but I don't know whether it is going to do any good."

Barkley Praises Message.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] called the message "clear, forceful and right," and said it "ought to receive the overwhelming approval of the country."

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, called Secretary Hull's argument "unanswerable," but refused to speculate on the effect it might have in congress.

"Those of us who support the recommendations formulated for the elimination of the embargo are convinced that the arms embargo plays into the hands of those nations which have taken the lead in building up their fighting power," Mr. Hull said. "It works directly against the interests of the peace loving nations, especially those which do not possess their own munitions plants.

"It means that if any country is disposed toward conquest and devotes its energy and resources to establish itself as a superior fighting power, that country may be more tempted to try the fortunes of war if it knows that its less well prepared opponents would be shut off

PICKETS ROUTED IN NEW BATTLE AT MINNEAPOLIS

14 Hurt When They Attack Police.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—[Special.]—One man was killed and fourteen other persons were injured tonight in a clash between police and about 4,000 WPA pickets at the scene of similar rioting Monday in which a policeman was beaten so severely he died.

The battle was the second one today at a WPA sewing project where women have continued working despite the WPA strike against the new 130 hour work rule. Six persons were injured in the earlier clash today.

As a result of the repeated disorders State WPA Administrator Linus Glotzbach late tonight ordered all WPA projects in Minneapolis shut down. Gov. Harold E. Stassen has called strike leaders to meet him at the capitol in St. Paul tomorrow morning for a conference.

Woman and Boy Wounded.

A woman and boy were among five persons slightly wounded by gunshot in the clash tonight. Police used riot guns and tear gas when they were forced to run a gantlet of bricks and stones hurled by pickets as they escorted women from the project.

Three policemen and five civilian men were overcome by the numerous clouds of gas which police loosed on the rioters. Another policeman was wounded in the head by a brick.

The man killed was Emil August Bergstrom, believed to have been one of the WPA pickets. He was struck in the head by a gun charge.

Those wounded by gunshot were Lynn Thompson, 14 years old, shot in the hand; Mrs. Frances Douglas, wounded in a leg; Don Berg, newspaper photographer, shot in the finger; Sam Litinski, 40, who received a leg wound, and John Solberg, also shot in the leg.

Mob Rushes Police Lines.

The WPA mob gathered tonight in the street adjacent to the building at 2d street and 2d avenue North, at the edge of the business district, which houses the sewing project.

Appearance of the women workers emerging from the building was the signal for a howl from the crowd and a general surging toward them. Booing and shouting, the mob rushed past armored police cars and broke through police lines.

A barrage of sticks and stones was hurled at the police and the women. Pickets arranged themselves on either side of the frightened women and their escorts. From roofs of nearby buildings and other vantage points the pickets showered the police with missiles.

After firing their riot guns and loosing numerous gas bombs, the armed escort cut back around a corner of the sewing project building and escaped.

Attempt to Upset Car.

A mob of about the same size as participated in tonight's disorders was waiting at the building for the change of shifts at noon. Police reenforcements had been sent to the scene when it was learned the crowd was assembling.

The first gas barrage was loosed during the noon riot when pickets attempted to overturn an armored police car. There had been numerous skirmishes with officers and pickets had been letting air out of police car tires. As the disorders mounted, a number of gas bombs were released from three armored cars.

Coughing and choking, the WPA strikers retreated. In the stampede to get away from the fumes, they trampled underfoot one of their own number, a woman. After the confusion had subsided, police found Margaret Shoenfeldt, 23 years old, suffering from a stab wound she apparently received in fighting at the entrance of the project building.

Project Previously Shut.

The policeman who died after Monday's rioting was Patrolman John B. Gearty, 46 years old. He died in a hospital after he had been slugged by WPA pickets as he was escorting women from the sewing project.

Police closed the project after Monday's disorders. A few persons worked yesterday, however, and today a total of 212 women drifted back to their jobs in small groups. Word of their return quickly spread among the strikers and they gathered at the project. The clashes occurred at each change of shifts.

Auto Bombing Murder Jury Is Deadlocked

BY WARREN BAKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Carmi, Ill., July 15 [Saturday].—The jury deliberating the fate of Alice Austin and Ted Simmons, accused of the auto bomb murder of her husband, Earl, last March 20, near Cave-in-Rock, appeared hopelessly deadlocked early today. The jurors began their deliberations at 6:15 p. m. Chicago time yesterday. Should a verdict be reached it will be sealed and delivered to Judge Blaine Huffman at 9 a. m. today.

State's Attorney Ivan Elliott of White county, speaking last for the state, made the demand for the death penalty. He asserted that the alibi story of Mrs. Austin and her boarder, Ted, left forty-five minutes in which Ted and Ira Scott, confessed murderer, could have placed the bomb that blew up Austin's truck with him in it. Elliott told the jury he could have done it in twenty-five minutes.

Attacks State Witness.

Prosecutor C. S. Conger of Carmi opened the state's arguments by declaring that there was only one person to gain; only one who desired Earl's death; only one who thirsted for revenge, and that was Alice. He termed Scott, who testified against Alice and Simmons, a "poor, twisted-minded, moronic boy."

State's Attorney C. E. Soward of Hardin county urged the jurors to bring in a guilty verdict with a penalty that will be a warning.

Alpheus Gustin of Harrisburg, in opening for the defense, pooh-poohed Scott's testimony. He said there are plenty of other people who might have wanted to collect Earl's insurance. Boos from the spectators brought the filing of exceptions by the defense during Gustin's speech.

Testimony Reviewed.

Stewart Pearce reviewed the testimony of the twenty-seven state witnesses, and pointed out to the jurymen that any of them who is married and carries insurance on his wife, has a motive for her death. He said the state called Scott, its own witness, a moron, and said that in this case the jury finds only a "half-wit" accusing Simmons and not one witness against Mrs. Austin.

Mrs. Austin sobbed loudly during the address by her chief counsel, James A. Watson of Elizabethtown, who quoted the Bible on throwing the first stone.

FARMERS BEG LABOR; COURT ORDERS WPA RELIEF LIST BARED

Cartersville, Ga., July 14.—(AP)—Superior Judge John C. Mitchell today gave the Work Projects administration a week to produce its Bartow county relief job list. If the list is not presented, the judge said, he will send W. J. Greene, area engineer, to jail for contempt of court.

The court cited Greene for contempt after he declined yesterday to give the relief list to a grand jury investigating farmers' complaints that they were unable to get laborers.

Judge Mitchell agreed today to delay sentence when Greene's superiors explained he could not release the list without permission from Administrator F. C. Harrington in Washington.

PRINCESSES MAY GET A LAMB IF BUTCHER IS KIND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., July 14.—A black lamb wearing a floral wreath around its neck and called Lusitania was on its way to England today, a present for Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose. The lamb is the gift of Mrs. Roza Brown, of Kirkland Lake, Ont., 82 year old widow of a Boer war veteran.

Mrs. Brown, who is reputed to spend $200 a year on cable messages to the British royal family, was at the pier to see her present taken aboard, and left final instructions to feed it coffee and cream. She was disappointed that the animal had been put in the care of the ship's butcher.

Umbrella Man Chamberlain Cuts Nazi Toy Sale in Britain

BERLIN, July 14.—(AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, whom Nazis accuse of trying to encircle Germany, now is called a big competitor of the German toy industry. An industry report published in Bergwerks-Zeitung said English made "Chamberlain with his umbrella" toys were selling so fast in Great Britain they were helping to ruin Germany's toy trade there.

Duke of Kent Endangered as Plane Skids on Takeoff

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—The Duke of Kent had an anxious few moments today when a plane in which he was a passenger skidded in a boggy patch in attempting to takeoff from Dyce airdrome in Scotland.

Father Divine 'Buys' Newport Society Castle

New York, July 15 [Saturday.]—[Special.]—Father Divine, Negro whose followers look upon him as God, announced early today that he and his flock will move in on Newport, R. I., summer home of eastern society.

After an interview at his home with Mrs. Angela C. Kaufman, owner of the Castles in Newport, Father Divine announced that he and his followers will take possession of the property and use it for whatever purpose they see fit.

Father Divine said the property will be held in escrow for the time being, "until any little disturbances have been obviated.

This, obviously, was a reference to two suits filed here Thursday, which questioned Mrs. Kaufman's title to "The Castles." Both suits filed by the Countess Dorothy Child Filipponi, former secretary and fourth wife of the late Richard Washburn Child, author and diplomat.

The countess asserted that the Newport mansion, long the Child summer home, actually belongs to her. She said she entered into an agreement last Dec. 16 to transfer title to Mrs. Kaufman in return for an agreement in which Mrs. Kaufman was to give back a half interest. Mrs. Kaufman was to promise to furnish and operate the home as a hotel, dividing the profits with the countess. Mrs. Kaufman denied the countess' version of the transaction.

Blast Traps 36 in Coal Mine; 9 Men Get Out

BULLETIN.

Providence, Ky., July 15 (Saturday).—(Special.)—Three more of the miners trapped in the Duvin company pit by an explosion last night made their way three miles through tangled wreckage and gas fumes to the mine entrance early today and were brought to the surface. They are Dennis Walker, Ernest Johnston, and Douglas Cates. They are track workers and were not in the section of the mine in which 27 others were cut off. Of the latter, Walker said it was almost certain twenty are dead from monoxide gas. The other seven, he said, might have a chance for their lives.

Providence, Ky., July 15 [Saturday].—(AP)—Lives of thirty soft coal miners were endangered early today by an explosion last night 185 feet beneath ground and two and a half miles back from the mine shaft through which the men entered a few hours before.

Six men in the depths at the time of the blast came to the surface a short time after the explosion. They are:

William Reynolds, Ray Baker, Roscoe Higdon, Ed Mayes, Joe Thomas, and Henry De Priest.

The company announced an official list of thirty names of men still in the mine.

No Word from Rescue Squads.

No word came from the rescue squads recruited quickly to attempt to reach the men still trapped, although they had been down for hours. More rescue workers arrived and they were sent below in shifts of ten. The only report above ground was that the way had been cleared about a mile from the shaft in the direction of where the entombed men were believed to have been working.

Reynolds was able to walk when he came out, but W. F. Hume, secretary of the Duvin Mining company pit where the blast occurred, said he was not questioned as to the plight of comrades because of his condition.

State Mine Inspector John Daniel, on his way here, reported to Gov. A. B. Chandler at Frankfort that his information was that carbon monoxide gas had formed as usual after the explosion and that he [Daniel] feared for the lives of the men still in the mine.

Governor Orders Action.

The governor said Daniel told him: "I do not want to paint a dark picture, but our experiences have been that few survive in a case like this."

Chandler told him: "Well, go ahead and spare no expense in doing anything you can for them."

Daniel said there was some hope in his reports from the mine that the explosion had not wrecked the ventilating system. The inspector said the men may have had a chance to barricade themselves against the spread of the carbon monoxide, but he did not know whether they had the time.

The men who came up were reported to have been working only about half a mile back from the shaft at the time of the blast.

Hunt Convict in Collegian's Murder

VICTIM IS FOUND SHOT TO DEATH NEAR FOX LAKE

Identified as Kansas U. Graduate.

Policemen of all Chicagoland communities were searching last night for Jack C. Russell, desperate convict who escaped Tuesday from the state prison at McAlester, Okla.

He kidnaped two men in his flight and, if police theories are correct, tortured and murdered one of them.

Russell, once called the Singing Cowboy, is known to have boasted in prison that he would come to Chicago to kill his wife, Mary, who lives on the south side. Mrs. Russell was instrumental in having him arrested eighteen months ago. Her home is being kept under police guard.

Body Found in Field.

The slaying victim has been identified by a relative as William Scott Hamilton, 23 years old, a graduate of the University of Kansas. His body, with a bullet hole in the head, was found early yesterday in a field three miles northeast of the village of Ringwood in McHenry county. Ringwood is about five miles west of Fox Lake.

The body was clad in underwear and there were burns on the chest and abdomen indicating that the victim had been subjected to burns before being slain.

It was an unfortunate coincidence that threw Hamilton in the path of the fleeing convict.

Russell's escape was made with absurd ease. The warden in the Oklahoma penitentiary, where Russell was serving ten years for robbery, permitted him to go to McAlester, accompanied by only one guard, to have his eyes tested. While in McAlester the guard, Henry Riddle, let the prisoner go to a hotel room on the excuse of making a telephone call.

Flees with Guard's Guns.

They went together into the room. There the guard was overpowered by the prisoner and tied up with a bed sheet. Russell walked out with Riddle's pistols.

"I'm Chicago bound," he said. "When I get there I'll kill the girl who put me in stir."

Near the hotel he met R. E. Brown, a McAlester photographer. A quick flash of a pistol and Brown was cowed. He let the convict get into his automobile, obeyed orders, and drove out of the city.

Early Wednesday morning, outside Pittsburg, Kas., Russell released Brown. Then, standing beside a road, he halted a man driving a new blue coupé. Again he displayed his weapons and again his victim—this time Hamilton—let him in. They drove on.

Salesman on Route.

How Hamilton happened to be there was explained last night by his relatives in Arkansas City, Kas. He was a salesman for a milling company in his home town and had left on Monday to make his rounds. Pittsburg was one of the towns where he called on the trade, and he was there Tuesday and Tuesday night.

He supposedly was on his way to Joplin, Mo., when he was kidnaped. The police have no theories as to the route the convict followed to the Chicago area. Sherif Lester Edinger of McHenry county and other investigators have a plausible explanation for the murder. They believe Russell killed Hamilton to get rid of an inconvenient witness and to get his clothing and the car.

"Billy Hamilton never was in trouble," said his uncle, R. F. Scott of Arkansas City. "He was a hard-working young fellow who finished the law course in the university last year. It was just his hard luck that he was kidnaped."

Identified by Relative.

Two clews led to the identification, which was confirmed early today by T. E. Quigley, 2450 Flournoy street, grand uncle, who viewed the body in Woodstock. One of the clews was a ring of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity which Hamilton had joined while studying at the University of Kansas. The other was a wrist watch, engraved "Billy S. Hamilton." The watch was still running, but on central standard time, indicating to police at the outset the victim was not from Chicago.

The relatives had mentioned the jewelry in broadcasting a message asking that a search be made for Hamilton. Chicago police put the message and the watch clew together and quickly reached a decision that the slain man was the Kansas salesman. A little more searching pointed to Russell as the probable slayer.

The body was found about 7:45 a. m. yesterday by Marvin Staines, a farm boy.

Russell is no stranger to the police here. They recalled that in December, 1937, his wife came to the detective bureau.

"I want you to arrest my husband," she said, "because he's threatening to kill me."

Detectives said they could not interfere in domestic affairs.

Wife Causes Arrest.

"All right," said Mrs. Russell. "Let him alone. But they want him in Oklahoma for some robberies. They call him the Singing Cowboy because he always sings to the people he robs."

That brought police action. Russell was arrested. He denied everything, even his singing ability. But Oklahoma police announced they wanted him and he was held. He obliged with a song at a bureau showup when convinced he wouldn't be released.

"Just tell Mary I'll get her yet," he said as he was being started to Oklahoma.

MOUNTED POLICE OPEN UP PATH IN C. I. O. PICKET LINE

Cleveland, O., July 14.—(AP)—Twenty mounted police cleared the way through a C. I. O. automobile workers' picket line of about 100 men today to permit nonstrikers to go to work at General Motors corporation's Fisher body plant here.

A. E. Stevenson, secretary of the C. I. O.'s Cleveland industrial council, reported he suffered a wrist cut when knocked down by a police horse, and Tom Martick, company inspector, was said by a company spokesman to have been cut by a flying brick as he went into the plant.

Agree on Settlement Basis.

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—(AP)—Negotiators seeking to end the General Motors strike turned today to the existing contract between the corporation and the United Automobile Workers' union for a basis of settling the ten day old dispute.

The corporation agreed to accept the present contract as groundwork for settlement negotiations. In return, officials of the U. A. W.-C. I. O. agreed to shelve, at least temporarily, a demand that the U. A. W.-C. I. O. be recognized as sole bargaining agent and to negotiate under the present contract.

A. F. L. CHARTER IS TAKEN FROM 'ACTORS' UNION

New York, July 14.—[Special.]—The American Federation of Actors, of which Sophie Tucker is president, lost its American Federation of Labor charter tonight after being found guilty by its parent body, the Associated Actors and Artists of America, of misusing relief funds and mismanaging its affairs.

A new union, the American Guild of Variety Artists, with Eddie Cantor as temporary president, was immediately chartered by the parent body to organize actors in the federation's former jurisdiction of vaudeville houses, night clubs, and carnivals.

Miss Tucker, whose union refused to enter any defense to the charges on the ground the parent body had no power to hold a trial, described the parent body's action as "very funny" and said the federation would seek relief in the courts Monday. In the meantime, she said, the federation would continue its affairs as usual.

GARMENT UNIONS ENJOINED FROM PICKETING PLANT

A temporary injunction restraining the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union and six locals from picketing the F. and S. Garment company, 1514 Milwaukee avenue, was granted yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

Attorney Samuel S. Stegel, representing Charles Ferdinand, proprietor of the company, offered an affidavit stating that an employé, Constance Malecka, was struck Wednesday by a picket. The union had described the picketing as peaceful. Fifteen employés of the company were in court to say they did not belong to the union and did not wish to join.

PICKETS DRIVE WORKERS FROM ARMY AIR BASE

East St. Louis, Ill., July 14.—[Special.]—More than 500 WPA strikers gathered today near Scott field, the new central army aviation base, and threw bricks and other missiles at workers. The strikers succeeded in keeping all but 150 of the 1,750 WPA men regularly employed at the field from going to work.

Saville Grover, a worker at the field, was cut by flying glass when one of the strikers threw a brick through the window of his automobile. Regular army troops did not move against the strikers but patroled the edge of the government property armed with riot clubs.

SMITH, 3 OTHER L. S. U. BIGWIGS ARE INDICTED

Charges Range from Bond Forgery to Theft.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baton Rouge, La., July 14.—Dr. Clarence A. Lorio, friend of the late Huey P. Long and one of the political bigwigs of this parish [county] was indicted by the parish grand jury on charges of joint embezzlement of Louisiana State university materials.

Dr. Lorio is a state senator, president of the state medical society, chief physician at the university and visiting physician for the Greenwell Springs Tubercular sanitarium. He also is a physician and surgeon for the state penitentiary. His salaries for his various state jobs total $10,800. He was one of the attending physicians who was with the Kingfish when he died after being shot in the capitol in September, 1935.

Three others also were indicted in a batch of twenty-eight true bills. This list included Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of the university who resigned and fled. He was reindicted on counts including forgery, on notes, bonds, and board records.

Caldwell Is Named, Too.

George Caldwell was indicted on charges of embezzlement of university material, value of $2,099. Caldwell recently was forced out as construction superintendent at the university after Gov. Earl K. Long had disclosed that he had been voted a 2 per cent cut on construction costs by a resolution which Long said was a spurious one put on the records by Dr. Smith.

E. N. Jackson, business manager of the university, was indicted on a charge of joint embezzlement with Caldwell of university property worth $480 and with knowingly receiving embezzled property in that amount.

Dr. Lorio was named in two indictments. One indicted him jointly with Caldwell on charges of embezzlement of material allegedly diverted to Lorio from the university, worth about $240. In a second bill Lorio was indicted on charges of knowingly having received property embezzled from the university, in the same amount.

Politicians Are Stirred.

Among the politicians, the grand jury's action was reported to have caused trepidation. Lorio is a political power in the parish. His indictment was regarded as an indication that the jurors have started to tear the lid off.

Dr. Smith, who is in his prison cell in the parish jail, was involved in twenty-three true bills. Before he had been under indictment charging him with embezzlement of $100,000 of university funds.

The new indictments, charging forgery and tampering with the university records, involve something like a million dollars, according to the estimates of the office of District Attorney Dewey Sanchez.

In one group of ten true bills, Dr. Smith is charged with forgery in connection with a series of university bonds aggregating $214,000.

Accused as Bond Forger.

In two bills he is charged with forging the name of the late Gov. O. K. Allen to a spurious issue of bonds to the amount of some $475,000. Part of these bonds are alleged to have been put up as collateral in Smith's plunging in the stock and wheat market, and later were ordered withdrawn by the brokers when a cloud was found on them.

In a group of eleven other bills, Dr. Smith is charged with forgery of the minutes of the university board. This group of bills relates to the use of facsimile signatures on $475,000 of bonds. It charges tampering with the minutes pertaining to a university loan of $100,000 from the City National bank and the minutes pertaining to a $300,000 loan from the National Bank of Commerce, New Orleans.

Another charge is forgery of the minutes raising Smith's salary [raised from $13,000 to $18,000 including bonuses] and raising the salary of Jackson.

Police Fight WPA Rioters; One Dead, Dozen Hurt

Minneapolis police, in armored cruisers, discharged tear gas grenades through slots in sides of their cars to disperse a mob of pickets surging toward women leaving their jobs in WPA sewing project last night. One man, believed to be a picket, was shot to death, and more than a dozen persons were injured.

WPA WALKOUTS ARE OUTLAWED, PRESIDENT SAYS

Warns: 'Can't Strike Against Government.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—President Roosevelt today branded as illegal the strike of 90,000 relief workers against the new WPA wage-hour regulations.

"You cannot strike against the government," the President said at his press conference. And to give his statement emphasis he gave special authorization for direct quotation of his declaration.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed himself in complete agreement with Atty. Gen. Frank Murphy, who yesterday asserted there must be no strikes against the government.

Mr. Roosevelt was reminded of the strike of workers on government owned barge lines at St. Louis, Mo., and was asked whether Tennessee Valley Authority workers might walk out legally.

Says He Does Not Know.

He answered frankly that he did not know. Inasmuch as these organizations are subsidiary corporations of the government, he said, he could not say off hand how far their workers could go.

Asked if he would contribute to the discussion of the difficulty of maintaining the prevailing wage scale as compared with the 130 hour a month requirement of the new relief act, Mr. Roosevelt replied that such a discussion would take an hour. He said there are many angles and many pros and cons of geography, trade, and the like.

Two hours later Mr. Roosevelt lent a sympathetic ear to a committee of American Federation of Labor officials, headed by William Green, president of the A. F. of L. The committee lodged a protest against the new WPA scale and called for restoration of the payment of prevailing wages.

Promises to Study Recommendations.

Despite his pronouncement outlawing the WPA strike, the President promised to explore several recommendations left with him by the labor leaders concerning the walkout. Green would not reveal the nature of the recommendations.

"We discussed matters quite fully," Green reported. "One thing stood out in the discussion, and that was that above and beyond all else the union wage scale must be maintained."

At WPA headquarters it was said that the number of striking workers is hovering about 90,000. Discharge slips for those who were idle five consecutive days have been entered against about 20,000 workers.

Strike Ordered in Pennsylvania.

Other developments on the strike front were:

Department of justice officials, at the request of the WPA, sent agents to St. Louis., Mo., Minneapolis, Minn., and other strike centers to investigate reports that striking workers have attempted to intimidate and coerce others on the rolls to join in the protest movement.

In Pennsylvania the state federation of labor ordered a strike of 25,000 skilled laborers, members of the A. F. of L., employed on WPA projects in the state.

BOTH SIDES WILL ASK RECONSIDERATION IN OREGON BOMBING CASE

Portland, Ore., July 14.—[Special.]—The Oregon Supreme court will be asked to reconsider its recent decision ordering a new trial for Jack Estabrook, former secretary for the Portland warehousemen's union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate. Petitions for the reconsideration are to be filed by both defense and prosecution, Arthur Benson, clerk of the Supreme court, announced today at Salem.

Estabrook was convicted of complicity in the bombing of a Washington county beer tavern. The state Supreme court reversed the conviction, however, on the ground that a state's attorney should not have questioned a character witness regarding her religious beliefs. The defense will request the Supreme court to dismiss the case instead of ordering a new trial. The petitions will not be considered until the Supreme court reconvenes in September.

Estabrook was tried three times. Juries in the first two trials failed to agree.

VOTE WAGE-HOUR CHARGES AGAINST 4 CHICAGO FIRMS

Federal Jurors 'Also Name 7 Officers.

Four Chicago companies and seven of their officers were indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday on charges of violating the federal wages and hours law. The indictments represent the first criminal prosecutions under the law in this area.

List of Firms Hit.

Those indicted were:

The Chicago Macaroni company, 2170 Canalport avenue, and Fred Matalone, president; Steve Matalone, secretary, and Joseph Matalone, vice president.

Feature Frocks, Inc., 3301 Chicago road, Steger, and its president, Philip Cohen.

Clare, Ltd., millinery manufacturers, 710 Jackson boulevard, and Julius Kantor, president.

Home Foundry Manufacturing company, 3122-24 5th avenue, and Meyer Rapaport, president, and Herman Rapaport, secretary.

The indictments charge the corporations and individuals with failure to pay the minimum 25 cents an hour wage required by the law, failure to pay time and one-half for overtime work, and falsification of work records or failure to keep the records.

Face $10,000 Fine.

The defendants are accused of engaging in these practices while shipping their products in interstate commerce. Conviction of a first offense carries a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine on each count.

The indictments were returned before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who issued bench warrants for the arrest of the defendants.

Gifts to Crime Commission Deductible on Tax Returns

Notice that contributions to the Chicago Crime commission are deductible from federal income tax returns was sent to the commission recently by the treasury department. The commission, in a plea for funds, says its finances are at their lowest point during the vacation months of July and August. John D. Swigart is chairman of the finance committee. The commission is headed by Bertram J. Cahn. Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin is operating director.

450 CITY SEWER WORKERS STRIKE OVER WPA RULE

Four hundred and fifty sewer workers engaged on city projects were called out on strike at 5 p. m. yesterday in protest against a WPA order that skilled workmen must put in 130 hours a month to earn $85.

About a hundred of the workers were employed by the city and the rest by WPA. All have been drawing full union wages.

Notification of the strike was given the board of local improvements by Peter Fosco, a member of the Cook county board and head of the Sewer and Tunnel Miners' union. He told A. J. Schafmayer, an engineer for the board, that the Chicago Building Trades council had ordered the walkout.

Soon afterward a flying squadron of union men, supposedly representing the council, made visits to three sewer projects and summarily ordered the men to lay down their tools and get off the work.

Four men suspected of having urged WPA workers to walk off a sanitary district sewer project at 128th and Laflin streets, Calumet Park, were questioned by police and released when the business agent from their union promised to see that they stayed away from WPA workers. The men were Tony Cedelia, 2058 Polk street; Genole Bilatto, 1511 Polk street; Philip Palmor, 832 South Claremont avenue, and Joseph Vicondi, 611 South Loomis street.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Chief J. L. Sullivan.

Chicago's second annual Police and Fire Thrill show was unfolded for the first time yesterday in a continuous performance. The fire fighters, the police units, the athletic contestants, the drill teams and the musicians spent the afternoon learning their cues and streamlining the sixteen colorful events that are being crowded into a little more than two hours.

When, at last, the din had ceased and the powder smoke had cleared away, the official observers declared the 1939 show 100 per cent better than last year's.

Exciting Opening Planned.

The opening of tomorrow's spectacle will be exciting—and noisy. Instead of the conventional entrance of marchers, followed up by slowly rolling fire apparatus there will be a burst of exciting sound. The great fire engines will speed in with motors thundering, sirens shrilling, and bells clanging. With them will be police motorcycles streaking around the field.

Only when these big machines have ringed the cinder track will the marchers appear. The only fire engines that will be held to the footmen's pace will be the horse and hand drawn pieces, dating from 1837 to 1907.

Listeners to the Tomorrow's Tribune program on radio station W-G-N last night had a foretaste of the show's thrills when Chicago's chief of detectives, John L. Sullivan, described the heavy armament that will be used by his men in the hijacker chase and gun fight—the climax of the spectacle.

Expect 75,000 Spectators.

Meanwhile, trafic engineers of the Chicago park district were completing their plans for handling the 75,000 spectators expected. Five major parking spaces have been set aside. The engineers emphasized, however, that the early birds will get the choice spots. The areas available will accommodate 11,400 automobiles, but this is only by utilizing Columbus drive, between Monroe and 11th streets. The spaces and their capacities follow:

Between Leif Erickson and Columbus drives, from Soldier field drive to approximately 21st street—5,000 cars.
The lot just east of Soldiers' field—3,000.
Areas east and north of the Field museum—900.
On Northerly island—1,500.
Along Columbus drive, between Monroe and 11th streets—1,000.

North siders who come early will be able to turn east off Columbus drive, through the Court of Honor just north of Soldiers' field and have access to either the lot east of the field or the one east of the Field museum.

Court to Be Closed.

They must come early, however, for when the flow of pedestrians into the Court of Honor becomes heavy enough to create a hazard or blockade, the court will be closed. This may happen at any time after 1 p. m. The north side cars then will have to go south to approximately 19th street and use the south parking space.

Park guards will be on duty to assist in parking and to facilitate clearing the lots at the end of the show. Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer, urged that motorists lock windows and doors of their cars.

There will be no ticket sale Sunday, except at the field. All ticket booths will open at 10 a. m. and forty entrances will be opened at noon. The show begins promptly at 2 p. m. but will be preceded by entertainment and band music and singing by the park police quartet.

Out of Town Guests Arrive.

As plans went forward yesterday, the first of the several hundred out of town police and fire chiefs who will be guests of the show began arriving. The first to come traveled probably the longest distance. This group was led by Fire Chief J. Ray Pence of Stillwater, Okla., secretary of the International Drillmasters' association.

Six hundred of these—the first to request tickets—will be guests tomorrow night of W-G-N at the broadcast of Harold Stokes' popular program, "Your Sunday Night Date."

Chief Pence brought seven student firemen from the Oklahoma A. & M. college, the first institution of higher learning to offer a course in scientific fire fighting.

INQUEST CLOSED IN APRON CORD DEATH MYSTERY

A coroner's jury yesterday closed the inquest into the death of Mrs. Adele Fox, 24 years old, with the report that the jurors were unable to determine whether Mrs. Fox had committed suicide or had been slain. She was found strangled June 10 in her home at 116 South Honore street. An apron cord was looped around her neck.

Capt. Martin McCormick of the Warren avenue station said he believed the woman ended her own life. He said that twice before she had attempted suicide. Dr. Jerry Kearns, coroner's physician, said he did not believe she had ended her own life.

During the inquest Mrs. Jessie Sotonoff, 1834 Monroe street, a sister of the dead woman, accused Mrs. Fox's husband, Salbert, of killing her. Police, however, said Fox had been subjected to lie detector tests and that they were certain he was not involved.

SHOOTS HIMSELF TO DEATH.

Cyril Porubcansky, 71 years old shot and killed himself last night in his home at 1139 16th street. Maxwell street police were told he had been in ill health.

WISCONSIN BOARD CALLS A HALT ON PICKETING ABUSE

Decision Issued Under New Labor Law.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 14.—The Wisconsin employment relations board today ordered the C. I. O.'s United Radio, Electrical and Machine Workers' union to stop mass picketing at the Allen Bradley plant and to cease intimidating employés. It was the board's first decision under a new state law permitting employers to bring charges against labor unions.

The board found the union guilty of unfair practices. Its order, contained in an interlocutory decision, restricts the number of pickets permitted at the main plant to fifteen at a time, with not more than six on any of the three streets the plant faces, and forbids the picketing of homes, calling offensive names or threatening employés with physical injury or property damage.

Union Plans Demonstration.

As an answer to the board's ruling Fred Wolter, president of the union, called a mass picketing demonstratoin at the plant for Monday morning.

"We do not propose to allow the Wisconsin employment relations board to succeed in its rôle as a strike breaking agency," he said.

The strike at the Allen Bradley company, manufacturers of electric equipment, has been on since May 10. The company has continued production with nonstriking workers. There have been numerous clashes on the picket line and workers have complained of damage to their autos and homes.

Hearings have been held since June 19 before the labor board, Henry C. Fuldner, Milwaukee chairman; Lawrence E. Gooding, Fond du Lac, and R. Floyd Green of La Crosse, all of whom were present.

Board May Go to Court.

If the union does not obey the order, Gooding said, the board will ask for a court order to enforce its decision.

The board in its decision explained that the transcript of all testimony has not been made, but that the decision was issued because it was apparent that the union and its officers and members have been guilty of unfair labor practices outlawed by the statutes and that they intended to continue the practices.

"The continued violation of the law may cause serious injury to the company and damage to the employés and the public," the decision stated.

Legal Picketing Defined.

In its order restricting the pickets to six on any street facing the factory the board stated: "The pickets are not to obstruct or in any way interfere with entrance or egress from the plant. They are not to obstruct free and uninterrupted use of the streets, sidewalks or public roads. They are not to threaten employés or customers. They are not to try to prevent any one from entering the factory and they are not to jeer at, revile, or call any one entering the plant vulgar or offensive names.

"The pickets are to be maintained solely for the purpose of notifying the public, employés and prospective employés that a strike is in progress, and are limited to a number sufficient, in our opinion, to let a reasonable person know that a strike is in progress."

Bill Passed by Coalition.

Enactment of the law under which the board proceeded, known as the peace employment bill, was one of the first acts of the current legislature. For the first time in years, a coalition of Republicans and Democrats has control of the legislature over the La Follette Progressives.

The purpose of the law, its sponsors say, is to give equal protection to workers, employers and the public. It forbids secondary picketing, defines a labor dispute as a controversy between an employer and a majority of employés, and permits either employés or employers to ask for a determination of collective bargaining units and to bring charges of unfair practices.

Mother Loses Fight

Patricia Tetzloff as she appeared in court yesterday.

Patrcia Tetzloff, 10 years old, will continue to live with her foster-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schiller, 44 South 20th avenue, Maywood, despite efforts by her mother to void the adoption by which Patricia was given to the Schillers last November.

Patricia was in court yesterday and told County Judge Albert E. Isley of Newton, Ill., that she liked both her own mother, Mrs. Gertrude Tetzloff of 2101 South 4th avenue, Maywood, and her adopted parents and had no preference. Judge Isley then ruled that there had been no violation of a pre-adoption agreement by which the Schillers were to permit Mrs. Tetzloff to see Patricia. He said he thought the mother had regretted the adoption and changed her mind, but that the adoption should stand.

INDICT FORMER WPA EXECUTIVE AS JOB SELLER

New York, July 14.—[Special.]—Emanuel B. Tishman, one-time $3,600 a year special assistant to Lieut. Col. Brehon B. Somervell, local WPA administrator, was indicted by the federal grand jury today on charges of conspiring to sell WPA jobs. Four others, including Charles Gordon Smith, who once headed the WPA staf of guards, were also indicted.

Tishman was fired by Somervell in December, 1938, after an investigation by WPA disclosed evidence of an alleged job selling racket.

United States Attorney John T. Cahill obtained the indictments, which accuse Tishman and the other four of peddling WPA jobs between March, 1936, and last December, for sums ranging from $50 to $300. Julius Jacobson and Aaron Mehler, former WPA guards, and Samuel Kurtz, a Brooklyn barber, are co-defendants.

COURT RULES OUT ELECTION HELD BY LABOR BOARD

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, in a decision handed down yesterday, ordered that the national labor relations board permit employés of the Falk corporation of Milwaukee to vote on an independent union as well as the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate, in choosing a bargaining agent.

The company, which manufactures steel products, has 1,400 workers. Last March the court upheld the labor board in removing the independent employés' union as bargaining agent.

WPA STRIKERS OF STATE TO BE REFUSED RELIEF

Expect 25,000 Will Be Ousted from Rolls.

BY WILL O'NEIL.

Charles E. Miner.

WPA strikers will not be given direct relief when they are discharged by the Work Projects administration. The Illinois Emergency Relief commission made this decision yesterday shortly after Charles E. Miner, Illinois WPA administrator, estimated that 25,000 striking relief workers will be cut off the WPA rolls if the present strike continues.

Miner's office reported last night that 6,864 strikers had been dismissed. This means that they not only lose their WPA jobs but also their certificates showing they are entitled to such jobs. WPA officials have stated that strikers cannot regain their jobs without being reinvestigated and recertified as eligible for WPA by the IERC.

Federal Relief Law Cited.

The question of relief for WPA strikers was asked of the commission in a letter written by J. P. Rea, president of the Franklin county board of supervisors. The IERC ordered the following reply sent to him:

"Inasmuch as the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1939 of the Congress of the United States provides [WPA] employment opportunities for such persons who are in need and eligible for relief, until such opportunities are exhausted there is no justification for a local governmental unit to spend additional tax money to grant relief to those persons."

Strikers are protesting against a provision of the new WPA law requiring them to work 130 hours a month and a requirement that each person who remains on the WPA roll for eighteen months must be automatically discharged at the end of that period. Miner told the commission that the latter rule will force him to discharge 50,000 relief workers in Illinois before Sept. 1.

65,000 Jobs to Be Open.

These discharges, added to those expected through the ousting of strikers, will mean about 65,000 WPA job openings in Illinois next month, Miner asserted. The present list of persons certified for WPA numbers only 42,000 people and only 77 per cent of these may be expected for work, he said.

The IERC stopped certifying reliefers and other eligible unemployed persons for WPA jobs last February. At that time the waiting list of certified applicants to WPA jobs totaled more than 90,000. Miner asked that certification be started at once throughout the state so eligible persons will be available to fill the job openings next month.

The IERC instructed its staf to prepare a plan for state-wide certification to be presented to the commission at a meeting next Friday.

After Miner left the meeting Neil H. Jacoby, who was acting as chairman of the commission, asked why 24,000 of the 42,000 certified and eligible persons in the state are in Chicago.

"Because there is a shortage of projects on which to employ them in Chicago," replied Carl H. Martini, IERC certification officer.

HIGH WAVES PREVENT DIVING TO DETERMINE DAMAGE TO SQUALUS

Portsmouth, N. H., July 14.—[Special.]—Heavy seas today prevented navy divers from resuming salvage work on the submarine Squalus and learning how much damage had resulted from yesterday's mishap which shot the craft above the surface and then plunged it back to the ocean floor.

Rear Admiral C. W. Cole, commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, said a heavy ground swell and a falling barometer would delay diving indefinitly.

Meantime, it is not known how badly the ship is tangled in the torn net of lifting gear from which it broke yesterday, whether the three big pontoons still attached to it have been smashed, or whether the forward compartments of the submersible, previously dry, now are flooded.

Tired salvage workers came ashore for their first night off since the Squalus sank on May 23, taking twenty-six men to their deaths.

ACCORDING TO THE RECORD—

By CALEB

THROUGH war and peace, peace and war, the Arts advance unpausing. Not only have they added new classics to the old, but their riches have been indefinitely multiplied through an ultra-modern magic called reproduction. In music particularly, the Merlins of electricity and acoustics have accomplished marvels.

For proof, take at random any selection from the stock of phonograph records in our fourth-floor Wabash radio section. Such as Arthur Rubinstein—interpreting, with the London Symphony orchestra, Tschaikowsky's magnificent Concerto No. 1 in B-flat Minor. Listen—critically. The resounding chords of the piano build up, and up, and up. Suddenly appear towers of soaring sound—and from their invisible parapets flutter pennons of airiest melody. Then, beautiful beyond belief, outspreads a whole panorama of summer scenes and songs, along whose glimmering ways our spirits adventure into a Never-Never land of enchantment.

The last lingering tones of piano and horn, harp and violin, diminish into an enchanted silence. This is the rapture we mean—a sheer fulfillment never realized for lovers of music until the perfecting of the modern "higher-fidelity" record. A record that science and indomitable purpose developed at the very moment when Radio's arrival threatened the phonograph industry with extinction.

At first, record-makers admitted the threat looked final. Peak sales of discs fell from a single year's "high" of fifty-five millions to a "low" of little more than one-half million. Here, surely, was the stroke of doom. But wait . . . Radio and the sound screen did, for a season, supplant the recordist's role. But in uncovering a menace, they also consummated a miracle; for both of these new entertainment media re-popularized Music as it had never been done before! Whereas the lovely song or sonorous symphony you heard on screen or radio was no sooner given than it was snatched away . . . the modern recording artist restored both to your possession in permanent beauty, for unlimited playing.

Thus has more and more good music—memorably stimulated by studio, stage and screen—been immortalized for the home in whole libraries of electric recordings, and modern electric instruments for their rendition. The fact that the record business is vigorously growing, we consider a tribute to the national fondness for fine music quickened by finer reproduction.

BRITAIN ENROLLS 35,000 YOUTHS IN CONSCRIPT ARMY

New Soldiers Report to Camps Today.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—About 35,000 British youths will be mustered tomorrow into this country's first peace-time conscript army. The youths, who are 20 years of age, will report to camps to begin six months of compulsory military training under the law passed several weeks ago. Those reporting tomorrow will represent the first batch of the 200,000 youths affected by the law. The remainder of the 200,000 will be called up gradually.

The larger proportion of those reporting tomorrow will spend their initial period with the colors at regimental depots, which have been vacated by regular soldiers. They will remain at these depots two months for preliminary instruction.

Bar Rudeness and Sarcasm.

A comprehensive scheme of training has been prepared. Accompanying it are instructions dealing with the character of training of the various arms, with suggestions as to the procedure best calculated to gain the required efficiency standard in the limited time available.

"The militiamen," it is declared, "are at an impressionable age, and results will depend largely on the example set by the regular army. Instructors must avoid parrotlike repetition. They must demonstrate that the instructor of the comic papers and films, who relies on rudeness, bullying, and sarcasm, has no place in the army today."

The commanding officer will point out to the conscripts that discipline in the service is not that of the music hall sergeant-major. He will explain the need for discipline, and the reason for prompt and implicit obedience, says the Daily Telegraph.

No Punishment for Ignorance.

There is to be no relaxation of essential discipline, but subordinate commanders are not to place men on "charges" for offenses resulting from ignorance or minor military irregularities. Serious charges are only to be brought before the commanding officer, and then only when a sentence of detention is involved.

It is definitly laid down that there must be no segregation of social classes in barrack rooms.

The militiaman with no military knowledge will be trained scientifically and progressively. All details of military life will be explained to him, since it is important that he should understand what he is doing and why he is doing it.

HUSBAND SHOOTS ESTRANGED WIFE AND DAUGHTER, 18

Peter Barkos, 47 years old, yesterday shot and wounded his estranged wife, Catherine, 58, and their daughter, Mabel, 18, in the family grocery at 2161 Lake street.

The couple had appeared before Master in Chancery Isidore Brown earlier in the day. Brown warned Barkos to stay away from the store pending settlement of his wife's suit for separate maintenance. Mrs. Barkos said her husband followed her to the store after the hearing.

She said Barkos started shooting when she and the daughter remonstrated with him for taking money from the cash register. Barkos said he returned to the store to get some clothing and that the shots were fired accidentally while he was taking the gun away from his wife. The mother and daughter were taken to County hospital. Barkos told police he has been living in Oak Lawn. Police seized him in the store.

GETS 1-20 YEARS FOR FAKE PLEDGE TO SELL PAROLE

Frank C. Cirafici, 4752 Barry avenue, president of a shoemakers' protective association, was sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge James M. Fardy in Criminal court on a charge of operating a confidence game. Cirafici was arrested in April on complaints that he had taken money on his false promises to obtain paroles for inmates of the Joliet penitentiary.

Cirafici was indicted on the complaint of Stanley Kroll, 697 Milwaukee avenue, who said he had paid $461 to the defendant on a promise his son, Henry Kroll, would be released from prison, where he is serving a one year to life sentence for robbery.

SWISS NAZI CHIEF SENT TO PRISON FOR REVOLT PLOT

ZURICH, Switzerland, July 14.—(AP)—Dr. Alfred Zander, Switzerland's "Little Fuehrer," today was sentenced to a year and a half imprisonment for "attempts against the internal security of the Swiss federation." Zander, who is 34 years old and is known as the "Swiss Adolf Hitler," is head of the largest and best organized of the three Nazi-type parties in Switzerland. He and several of his lieutenants, also on trial, were accused of plotting to set up a Nazi dictatorship in Switzerland and of espionage for Germany.

Observe Bastille Day

Monique Stantis, age 4, looking at French Consul Rene Weiller's medals at reception on Bastille day, French national holiday.

Chicagoans of French birth or descent gathered in Pilsen park, 3100 West 26th street, yesterday to observe the 150th anniversary of the taking of the Bastille.

In France Bastille day is a national holiday. It is similar to the American Fourth of July, in that it commemorates the beginning of French liberty. The razing of the ancient Bastille, fortress and prison, on July 14, 1789, marked the first great victory of the French revolution.

Chicago's observance yesterday was sponsored by the French war veterans of Chicago and French and Franco-American societies of the area.

The festivities started late in the afternoon. At 7 p. m. there was a reception for René Weiller, French consul general in Chicago, followed by dinner, dancing, and games. In the morning Consul Weiller and Mrs. Weiller held a reception in the consulate at 919 North Michigan avenue for members of the consular corps and the French colony.

AUSTRIAN BEAUTY NAMED AS LURE OF NAZI SPY RING

Linked with French Political Leaders.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 14.—An Austrian countess whose beauty appears to have been appreciated in many quarters was the lure of the Nazi espionage and propaganda ring which the French general staff is now trying to smash, according to this evening's newspapers.

Police have not yet disclosed the name of the countess nor the names of two German princesses who also are said to be implicated in the plot. Several newspapers identified her by the initials "O. B." She is said to have escaped from France recently, apparently dodging arrest by a few hours.

Moved in High Circles.

According to one unconfirmed but seemingly reliable version, it was by trailing the Austrian beauty through aristocratic salons — including some frequented by the wives of cabinet ministers—and the bachelor flats of gallant notabilities of the French business and political world that investigators collared the two unnamed Germans whose arrest was reported yesterday. The Germans are now held in Cherche Midi military prison.

One of those with whom the countess worked particularly closely was the paymaster of the German propaganda ministry in Paris. Records of large payments to several Frenchmen were found, it is said.

Police also found traces of correspondence between the German agent and a number of French journalists, writers, politicians, and social celebrities.

Check Bank Accounts.

On the basis of this correspondence the general staff has reason to suspect that not less than 150 men and women, most of them prominent, may have been receiving financial payments, or at least suspicious favors, from the German government.

The activities and particularly the bank accounts of these 150 suspects now are being minutely checked, and further arrests are expected, if they have not taken place already. According to one report, two more prominent French journalists were arrested this morning.

[Yesterday the arrests of Louis Aubin of the newspaper Le Temps and Julien Poirer of Le Figaro were disclosed.]

It is impossible to verify any of these reports, because police and military authorities still have sealed lips, but there is a widespread belief in well informed circles that these lips are going to be unsealed within the next few days.

FIVE ARRESTED IN LAKE COUNTY HANDBOOK RAIDS

Three alleged handbooks were raided and fourteen pinball games seized yesterday by a squad led by Sherif Thomas F. Kennedy of Lake county. Three men were arrested in the rear of a tavern in Fox Lake, where handbook equipment was seized. They are William Higgins, 14 Lewis avenue, Waukegan, and Albert Derbris and Edward Peno, both of Fox Lake. William Ray, alleged operator of a handbook at Belvidere street and Green Bay road, west of Waukegan, and Eugene Scornavacco, 413 Funston avenue, Highwood, said to operate a handbook on route 202, east of Half Day, also were arrested. All were freed on bond and will be arraigned July 22 on gambling charges.

MILLION CHEER FRENCH, BRITISH SHOW OF MIGHT

Army Invincible, Daladier Says on Bastille Day.

PARIS, July 14.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier proclaimed tonight the strength of the French army after France and Britain joined on the 150th anniversary of the French revolution in a massed parade of their land, sea, and air forces.

The French army "is capable of breaking any attacks that can imperil our country," the premier declared in a world-wide Bastille day broadcast.

"Our reborn aviation is united to the aviation of a great, friendly people who would protect our soil as we would protect theirs if it became necessary for us to resist attack."

British planes flew in formation with French planes this morning during a great parade of 30,000 of France's finest troops with 450 especially picked British soldiers.

First Joint Display Since War.

More than 1,000,000 persons saw the demonstration, the first joint display of military might by the two powers since the world war. It was reviewed by President Albert Lebrun, Daladier, British War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha, and the chiefs of staff of the army, navy, and air forces of both countries.

Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of President Roosevelt, was among Lebrun's guests.

Daladier spoke later in a downpour in the amphitheater of the Trocadero palace on the banks of the Seine at a solemn evening ceremony uniting the empire in celebration of the revolution which began in Paris 150 years ago today with the fall of the Bastille.

Natives in Colorful Uniforms.

Fifty feet below the huge flag draped platform from which the premier spoke sat native rulers, sultans, and princes from all the empire. Flanking them were rank after rank of native troops in their colorful uniforms.

After Daladier finished his warning of France's armed might and pledged her efforts for peace, President Lebrun read a brief message to the empire. Replies came from picked civilians in France and her possessions, including the commander of the Liner Normandie midway between France and America.

Great as were the cheers which greeted Daladier's proclamation of the strength of France's army, there was even louder approval of his declaration that France wanted only peace.

Applause Delays Him.

He was forced to wait several minutes for the applause to die down when he said in measured tones:

"We menace no one. We dream of no conquest. We desire only peace among all people and we have the firm will to concentrate our efforts to protect it in that loyalty and that spirit of human collaboration which alone can save civilization."

In the first display of air power in the morning's parade, 100 French and fifty-two British planes appeared; they were followed by a fleet of 250 French aircraft, including fifty-seven fighters purchased recently in America.

The 450 British soldiers in the parade along the Champs Elysees had a place of honor behind students of military schools and after them came the cream of the French army.

Colonial Troops March.

There were troops of all colors and parts of the empire — Moroccans, Spahis, Algerians, Tunisians, Senegalese, Zouaves, and Indo-Chinese.

Parisian firemen exhibited for the first time the city's new rolling bomb shelters — heavily armored trucks sealed against gas and with enough room for fifty persons.

Every city in France held its own parade and celebration. A detachment of American bluejackets from the cruiser Trenton marched in the Le Havre parade and received an ovation.

MISS BRICE SUES MOVIE CONCERN AND 3 ACTORS

Fannie Brice, comedienne, filed suit yesterday in Superior court asking $750,000 damages from the Twentieth Century-Fox Film corporation; Tyrone Power, Alice Faye, and Al Jolson, film actors; officials of the Twentieth Century corporation, and eight theater companies.

Miss Brice charged defamation of character, use of her life story without permission, and invasion of privacy. The charges are based on the production and screening of the motion picture "Rose of Washington Square." An injunction to halt showing of the picture also was asked.

The suit, filed by Attorney Eli E. Fink, alleged that the story parallels Miss Brice's life. The hero of the film, the suit charged, is arrested and imprisoned in a fashion similar to the arrest and imprisonment of Jules [Nicky] Arnstein, Miss Brice's former husband. Two songs which Miss Brice introduced, the suit alleged, are sung by Miss Faye. They are "My Man" and "Rose of Washington Square."

WIFE WHO NEVER WENT OUT BEATS MATE TO DEATH

Green Bay, Wis., July 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Matt Weldner, a wife who complained that her husband "never took her out," tonight confessed she clubbed her 54 year old husband to death, Henry J. Bero, police inspector, said. Weldner was found dead in his bed early today.

Inspector Bero said Mrs. Weldner insisted her mind was a blank from the time she went into the basement in her nightgown to get a weapon. It was a pike pole of the type used by paper mill workers but the steel hooks had been removed.

BRITISH AND JAPS OPEN PARLEY AS TENSION MOUNTS

40,000 Riot at Embassy Gates in Tokio.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 15.—[Saturday.]—Anglo-Japanese negotiations to settle the Japanese blockade of the British and French concessions in Tientsin started at 9 o'clock this morning in an atmosphere charged with anti-British feeling.

The Japanese press and public clamored for a showdown with Great Britain on the whole far eastern problem. The British embassy repeatedly has announced that the talks must be confined to Tientsin and that Britain cannot discuss its foreign policy with any country. The Japanese have demanded that Britain stop assisting the Chinese government against the Japanese invasion and also that the British help the Japanese set up a new order in Asia.

Mob Gathers at Embassy.

Climaxing anti-British demonstrations throughout the country, 40,000 yelling and singing demonstrators surrounded the British embassy yesterday afternoon. They jeered and shouted anti-British slogans and distributed inflammatory handbills until they were dispersed by 200 policemen.

The embassy demonstration was a sequel to two mass meetings, one in Hibiya park and the other at Sanno. The demonstrators carried banners which read: "Down with Britain, cancer of new east Asia."

The demonstrators marched in orderly fashion toward the embassy, where the majority started fanning themselves. The heat was intense. Police surrounded the embassy and all seemed tranquil until two trucks bearing the emblems of Tokio city and packed with local politicians arrived.

Pose for Pictures.

The politicians started posing for group photographs at the embassy gates. The street was filled with cameramen, on foot, on step ladders and atop trucks. The scene was turned into pandemonium when the paraders started shoving in an effort to get into the group pictures.

Police called for reserves and only with great difficulty succeeded in dispersing the demonstrators, who were trying to break down the embassy's iron gates. Men climbed the gates and hit the hands of policemen who sought to bring them down.

Staff members of the embassy left rooms facing the demonstration when missiles were hurled at the windows.

Bomb British Consulate.

SHANGHAI, July 14.—(AP)—Bitterness in British-Japanese relations grew today when unidentified persons hurled two hand grenades into the British consulate at Tsingtao, where violent anti-British demonstrations began three weeks ago. Windows were broken, but no one was injured.

The consulate, which British officials said had been under a virtual state of siege since July 3, was stoned Monday and Wednesday by a group which the British said were Japanese-inspired.

Travelers arriving from Tsingtao said property of the American Standard Vacuum company was damaged in the anti-British demonstrations, which spread from the consulate to the Hongkong Shanghai Bank building. The company's offices are in the bank building.

Representatives of the Japanese consulate were reported to have visited the Standard officials and apologized for what they called a "mistake" and arranged for repairs.

BRIDGES' COUNSEL CALLS 2 EXPERTS ON COMMUNISM

San Francisco, Cal., July 14.—(AP)—Two Stanford university professors, identified as experts on the doctrines of Marxism, were subpenaed today at the request of defense attorneys in the deportation hearing of Harry Bridges, Australian born leader of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The university men are Harold Chapman Brown, professor emeritus of philosophy, and Walter Thompson, professor of sociology.

Just before today's session ended, Richard Goldstein, defense attorney, charged that John L. Leech, Los Angeles house painter and former communist who is a government witness, had been offered $10,000 to brand Bridges a communist. Goldstein produced photostatic copy of an affidavit, purportedly signed by Leech, and relating the alleged $10,000 offer.

Upon the demand of government counsel, James M. Landis, who is conducting the hearing, ruled that the charge will not be accepted in evidence until the original of the affidavit is produced.

Leech previously had testified he signed a statement under duress and threats by a group of communist party members, in July, 1937.

JAPS CLOSE DOOR ON CHORUS GIRLS; FACE COLD TRIP

YOKOHAMA, July 14.—(AP)—Sixty-three chorus girls, mostly Americans, were forced to sail for Honolulu today with the prospect of spending at least nine days on the open decks. They had neither tickets nor cabins.

The girls, members of a troupe touring the orient, arrived yesterday on the liner Empress of Japan, but police would not permit them to land, giving a variety of reasons.

Meanwhile, the liner's accommodations were taken up and the police refused to permit the girls to wait for another boat. The situation will be further complicated for them at Honolulu because some are of Australian and British nationality and lack visas to enter American territory.

AMERICA RENEWS EFFORTS TO FREE DAHL, 20 OTHERS

Flyer Still Prisoner of Gen. Franco.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 14.—A new effort will be made Monday to free American war prisoners still held in Spain, the American embassy told THE TRIBUNE today.

Harold Dahl.
[Acme Photo.]

Among the twenty-one held is Harold Dahl, Champaign, Ill., flyer, who has been confined to the military hospital at Salamanca since 1937. Seventy-one others have been freed since the war ended late in March.

A member of the embassy staff will go to Burgos on Monday for an interview with a Spanish representative to thrash out the question of what is to be done with the remaining American prisoners.

Say Dahl Is Lucky.

THE TRIBUNE was informed today that Dahl's case is being considered on a par with the others, although he and ten others are considered by the Spanish to have committed crimes beyond the mere fact of fighting for the Republicans [Loyalists].

Dahl should consider himself lucky, the Spanish say, since he originally was sentenced to death at a Spanish court martial. The sentence was commuted to life imprisonment after his wife, Edith Rogers, won wide publicity by a direct appeal to Gen. Francisco Franco to save her husband.

Bitter Toward Them.

Most of the foreign war prisoners already have been freed, but a considerable number remain. The Spanish feel more bitter toward them than toward Spanish prisoners, since they were not forced into the war but came to Spain especially to fight against the Nationalists.

American representatives here have been making periodic efforts to get the American cases settled. The last representation was made two weeks ago.

EX-WASHINGTON FIGURE IS SLAIN; WOMAN SEIZED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, Canal Zone, July 14.—A woman, 30 years old, separated from her husband, was under arrest tonight after the early morning shooting of Madison Love, 33 years old, formerly prominent in Washington social and athletic circles. Love, an employé of the West Indies Oil company, was leaving the fashionable Union club after a Bastille day ball, when four shots blasted from a nearby automobile. Two missed, but a third struck his left hand and the fourth struck him in the left side. He died en route to a hospital.

Mrs. Eileen Watson, estranged wife of Robert Watson, a Canal Zone surveyor for the American Bureau of Shipping, was taken into custody. Police said Mrs. Watson, with another woman, was driving by the club in a car when the shooting occurred. Mrs. Watson was quoted by police as saying she had been a close friend of Love's but that recently they had quarreled.

Love attended Devitt preparatory school at Washington and later the Naval academy, leaving Annapolis before graduation. He was the son of Maj. H. K. Love of Silver Spring, Md., socially prominent for years in Montgomery county of that state.

PRESIDENT SENDS A BASTILLE DAY CABLE TO LEBRUN

"On this great anniversary which the people of France are celebrating today, I take pleasure in tendering to your excellency, on behalf of the people of the United States and in my own name, sincere congratulations and earnest wishes for the continued peace and prosperity of the republic."

BERLIN, July 14.—Germany has worked out a new plan for a so-called economic league of nations which it hopes to use to impose the rule of the axis powers on the whole of southeastern Europe and the Baltic states.

As matters stand now the Germans, in conjunction with Italy, plan to summon representatives of Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, Slovakia, Hungary, Greece, Bulgaria, and the Baltic states to an economic conference some time during the next few months.

The purpose is to prepare the creation of an economic bloc of most favored nations which will exchange their goods on the barter basis and by financial means. An attempt will be made to coördinate the different currencies to simplify the enforcement of the economic unity in eastern Europe which Germany seeks.

Schacht Helps Plan Along.

While the smaller European countries are trying to retain a certain amount of independence in their relations with Germany, the Nazis figure that the new economic plan will compel them to reveal their cards and show clearly whether they are ready to coöperate as closely with Germany as she desires. Germany's outstanding economist, Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, is coöperating on this plan.

The plan is to include provisions for what the Germans call three cornered dealings, thus sanctioning officially the barter or resale of imported goods, which a number of exporting countries have resented.

For instance, when Germany sold coffee she had bought in South America to Scandinavia she obtained for herself foreign currencies which formerly went to South America. A number of traders resented this most strongly. Now this system is to be developed to its full potentialities.

Hope for Customs Union.

German financiers hope they eventually will succeed in compelling the small countries to adjust their currencies and local regulations until one can speak of a customs union, but this matter is spoken of softly. German politicians and economists know that the small nations remember that Bismarck cemented the Prussian rule in Germany through his customs union and will shy at the idea.

Schacht is expected to present his suggestions for this plan when he calls on Adolf Hitler in Berchtesgaden at the end of July.

FRANCO AVOWS SPAIN TO STAY NEUTRAL IN WAR

LISBON, Portugal, July 14.—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco declared in an interview published in Diario de Noticias today that Spain would remain neutral in event of war—"if her territory, honor, and vital interests are not affected."

The leader of Nationalist Spain said Spain did not want war but did not fear it, adding:

"I refuse to believe there will be war; I cannot find one question which may not be settled by diplomatic, pacific means. Danzig is not worth a war. Poland could gain nothing by war. If the axis wins, she is annihilated; if the allies win, Russia would never forget her old possessions. In any case war would be fatal for Poland."

Franco emphasized that the new Spanish régime was "neither Italian nor German."

CHICAGO WOMAN AND DAUGHTER, 14, DIE IN OHIO CRASH

Mrs. Benjamin Rifkin and her daughter, 14 years old, of 1242 East 46th street, were killed yesterday when their car struck an abutment in the Lincoln highway, near Beaver Dam, O. Mr. Rifkin, who was driving, was seriously injured and is in the community hospital in Bluffton, O.

Benjamin R. Smallwood, 46 years old, an investigator for the federal alcohol tax unit, died last night in the Marine hospital of injuries incurred Wednesday when his car struck a post at Canal and 20th streets. He lived at 7133 Harvard avenue.

Oliver Martin, 45 years old, colored, of 4025 South Park way, died yesterday of injuries incurred earlier in the day when he was struck by a taxicab in front of 4237 State street. The driver was David Goodstein, 6438 Maryland avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 432 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan 1. Of these 335 were killed in Chicago, where 11,135 were injured in the same period.

LAKE SEARCHED FOR TWO AFTER BOAT CAPSIZES

Coast guardsmen were searching the lake off Indiana Harbor last night for two young men who are believed to have perished after their home made sailboat capsized.

Those missing are Edward Peacock, 6743 State street, and Harry Howell, 423 East 69th street. Both are 18 years old. A third member of the sailing party, George Sykes, 22, of 6330 Keating avenue, saved himself by swimming ashore.

"We were on our way to the dunes," Sykes said. "When the boat turned over the others told me to take an inner tube and swim in, and said they would cling to the boat. It was about a mile to shore and when I got there I couldn't see anything of the other boys. They must have drowned."

Peacock, an orphan, lived with his grandparents. Yesterday was his birthday and a party had been planned in his home for last night.

$19,000 VERDICT WON BY WOMAN IN COFFEE BLAST

A jury in the court of Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday awarded Miss Eva Brooks, 34 years old, of St. Louis, $19,000 damages against the Hill-Shaw company of Chicago. The verdict was for burns and other injuries incurred by Miss Brooks two years ago when a glass coffee maker manufactured by the company exploded in her restaurant. Miss Brooks testified that nervous shock had caused her to give up her restaurant, which she had operated in St. Louis. The company contended she had been careless and had used the coffee maker improperly. Judge Barnes set Sept. 15 for a hearing on a motion for a new trial.

SPEED TRAP FINES IN SHANTY TOWN TO BE REFUNDED

Citizens Irate Over 'Law' Enforcement Officers.

Motorists who have been arrested and assessed fines for trafic violations in the alleged speed trap operated by officials of Stone Park, a shanty town at Mannheim road and North avenue, will be refunded their fines.

Oscar Morissett, village police magistrate and a WPA laborer, made this announcement last night at an indignation meeting of residents in the village hall. Earlier in the day Assistant State's Attorney Irwin B. Clorfene had ordered village officials to appear Monday at the state's attorney's office with their books and records of fines collected from motorists.

Clamp Down on Policeman.

Howard Thomas, village president, also told the townspeople who are aroused over unfavorable publicity about Stone Park, that the activities of Byron Tuttle, the village policeman, would hereafter be confined within Stone Park and not on state roads.

The troubles of Stone Park, located in Proviso township, began after its incorporation as a village two months ago. Soon the alleged speed trap was established. Tuttle was put to work to provide revenue so the village could pay its magistrate and provide cinders to put on the village streets.

$156 in Fines Collected.

Tuttle's activities came to a sudden halt several days ago when attorneys for the Chicago Motor club notified village officials they had no right to make arrests on state highways. Morissett said last night he had collected $156 in fines and costs and that $67 had been turned over to the village clerk.

"I've been informed that I acted illegally," Morissett said, "and I have taken back the $67 and I am refunding all the fines."

Just how Morissett will repay the fines to motorists was not explained.

During the meeting several residents expressed indignation over the unfavorable publicity about the village. One resident resented the term shanty town.

"All our troubles started when we incorporated," he said. "Anyway there are some good homes in Stone Park. They're not all shanties."

Village President Thomas said the situation was a headache to him and that he would be glad to resign as soon as things are straightened out. He said he would seek an opinion on the village's rights from the attorney general.

DROP CONCEALED WEAPON CHARGE IN LABOR FIGHT

Charges against Fiore Buccieri, a suspected union terrorist accused of carrying a concealed weapon, were dismissed by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Jury court yesterday for lack of evidence. Buccieri was arrested June 8 when a slingshot was found in his car. Embalmers and undertakers had complained that Buccieri, as an organizer for the Embalmers, Funeral Directors, Morticians, and Assistants' union, local 21303, had threatened to break the windows in their business places.

Buccieri pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge and was fined $5 on July 2 and the charge of carrying the weapon was dismissed. Members of the Funeral Services association protested that they had not been notified of the trial date, and the charge was reinstated. Yesterday Defense Attorney George Bieber brought out that the slingshot was locked in an automobile trunk when Buccieri was arrested and that a slingshot does not come under the terms of the concealed weapon law.

Autoist Arrested

LOUISE SNYDER.

Reckless driving charges against Louise Snyder, 23 years old, 4038 North Ridgway avenue, a night club singer, and Lester Gilbert, 4131 Sheridan road, a night club pianist, were continued to July 18 yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli in Safety court.

Both were arrested early yesterday when Miss Snyder was driving Gilbert's car home from work. She was found without a driver's license. When the police prepared to take her to the station, Gilbert started up his car and a short time later he was arrested by the same squad.

A charge of driving while intoxicated against Miss Lillian Herzer, 35 years old, 2123 Humboldt boulevard, a teacher in the Foreman High school, was dismissed for lack of evidence. Miss Herzer's car was alleged to have struck an auto driven by Park Policeman Frank Clay a week ago and she was arrested by the Warren avenue police.

HORNER ALLOWS PARK, SANITARY BILLS TO BE LAW

Gov. Horner yesterday permitted pegged levy bills for the Chicago Park district and the Sanitary district to become laws without his signature. The park bills peg expenditures at $10,500,000 each for 1939 and 1940, and $10,250,000 for 1941. The sanitary district would be held to an expenditure of 6 million dollars annually.

The governor signed a bill fixing the salary of the superintendent of employment of the Sanitary district at not more than $5,000 annually, instead of $4,000.

During the day he received and referred to Attorney General John E. Cassidy for a constitutional opinion the Vacco bill to legalize a lottery to provide low cost housing. The governor has ten days from yesterday to sign, veto, or file this measure without his signature. Cassidy's opinion is expected to be prepared by early next week.

ST. LOUIS JOINS DRIVE FOR DIRECT OCEAN AIR ROUTE

Plan Would Make Chicago Port for West.

St. Louis, Mo., yesterday joined the growing campaign to make Chicago a terminal of trans-Atlantic air routes.

The plan, if carried out, will in effect bring most of the United States west of New York state 500 miles closer to Europe. This will be done by creating a direct air line between the jumpoff stations in Newfoundland and eastern Canada with Chicago. The route would slant northeastward across Canada, saving passengers the necessity of traveling southeastward to New York in order to go northeastward to Europe.

Pledges City's Support.

"There is a large poundage of mail out of St. Louis to Europe and most business firms are very much interested in a direct connection to Europe through Chicago," George Parker, chairman of the air board of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday. "If the establishment of such a route would facilitate movement of air mail to Europe, we would do everything we could to bring about such a route."

Officials of St. Louis and other midwestern and western cities are studying the proposal.

To expedite the creation of Chicago as a trans-Atlantic terminal, efforts are underway to make Chicago airport an official port of entry with a customs house to handle the admission of passengers and baggae. Mayor Kelly and the Chicago Association of Commerce have independently appealed to authorities in Washington.

Appeals to Perkins.

The latest appeal was made yesterday by Oscar G. Mayer, president of the association of commerce, to Secretary of Labor Perkins. "Chicago ranks among the leaders in the nation as an air transportation center," he said. "Our businessmen who find it necessary to visit foreign countries are utilizing the splendid air transportation facilities that are available. The number of passengers in and out of Chicago airport from and to Latin American countries is impressively large. There is a substantial passenger movement between Chicago and Canadian points.

"With the establishment of regular service between the United States and Europe we anticipate a healthy flow of passenger trafic between Chicago and that continent, similar to that now taking place between the United States and the Far East."

2 Army Reserve Officers Killed as Plane Crashes

Bethpage, N. Y., July 14.—[Special.]—Two army reserve officers were killed when their basic training plane crashed today in a meadow west of the picnic ground and polo field of Bethpage State park. They were Maj. Paul C. Durbin, 45 years old, of Flushing, Queens, and Lieut. Allen W. Lewis, 28, of Brooklyn. The plane, made by the North American Aviation corporation, fell an hour after it took off from Mitchel field with Maj. Durbin at the controls.

HITLER HAS TWO DAY PARLEY WITH DANZIG NAZI DISTRICT CHIEF

MUNICH, July 14.—(AP)—Danzig's importance to Reichsfuehrer Hitler was emphasized today when it became known that he had kept Albert Forster, Danzig Nazi district leader, overnight at Berghof, his Obersalzburg home near Berchtesgaden.

Albert Forster.

Forster arrived at Berghof yesterday and immediately went into conference with Hitler. Since then they have had plenty of opportunity to discuss when and how the free city is to return to Germany—as the Nazis say it will.

Observers recalled that Konrad Henlein, then leader of Czecho-Slovakia's Sudeten Germans, who were agitating for union with Germany, visited Berghof last Sept. 1 and that soon thereafter the intensive Nazi drive against Czecho-Slovakia got under way.

C. I. O. ORGANIZER AT STOCKYARDS SHOT IN HIS AUTO

Herbert March, a district supervisor for the Packing House Workers' organizing committee, a C. I. O. affiliate, was attacked by assassins late last night and shot in the left shoulder. It was the second attempt made on his life within a year. Last Dec. 1 three men fired upon him, but failed to score a hit. March is 28 years old and lives at 1542 West 59th street.

March was driving east in 58th street last night when, near Ashland avenue, two or three men riding in a dark car drew alongside his automobile and fired a shot at him. The bullet crashed through a side window and struck him in the shoulder.

He dropped to the floor and his car rolled up on the curb and hit a tree. The gunmen, probably thinking they had killed March, sped away. March was taken to the Southtown hospital by Policeman Joseph Jarboe. Police found a loaded pistol in his car.

March was on his way home from C. I. O. headquarters at 4758 South Marshfield avenue when he was shot. Police said the shooting probably was due to labor trouble. Delegates from various C. I. O. unions throughout the country whose members work for Armour & Co. are scheduled to meet tomorrow to consider a nation-wide strike vote against Armour's. The unions demand a wage contract.

Retail Liquor License Deadline Set for Tuesday

The deadline for getting retail liquor licenses was set yesterday for next Tuesday by City Controler Robert B. Upham after a conference with James P. Allman, police commissioner.

SENATOR PITTMAN'S WAR WITH JAPAN.

Another danger to American neutrality is threatened in the resolution sponsored by Senator Key Pittman of Nevada. It would authorize the President to impose an embargo on Japan, prohibiting the export of arms, munitions, oil, gasoline, iron, steel, and scrap metal. Senators opposed to such an unneutral intervention are organizing to defeat the proposal.

This embargo would be a hostile act. It would apply to Japan alone and would invite any retaliation with which Japan could strike back. If not the equivalent of a declaration of war it would be the probable preliminary to one. If the President found that China and Japan were at war, as in fact they are, an embargo applied against both belligerents would not discriminate. It then could not be declared unfriendly and unneutral.

It has been the contention of the American government since the Manchurian affair that Japan has violated the nine power treaty by which China's territorial integrity was to be protected. But the United States did not agree to defend China. The treaty has been broken. It is now virtually a dead letter. It is too late for the United States alone to undertake to justify a hostile act by reference to any treaty obligations.

If America throws its weight openly against Japan economically it is making war against that country. Then it may expect to be led to other extremes as Japan cares to force the issue. If Japan's retaliation should be an invasion of the Philippines the United States would be forced into war or into humiliation. Once we begin the thing we cannot control the event. That is for Japan to decide.

If we do not want war with Japan over China such resolutions as Senator Pittman's should be pigeonholed. One of these almost wars will bring a real one.

THE EVIL GENIUS.

A number of romantic writers, including Mr. H. G. Wells, have played with the idea that Mars might be inhabited by creatures of much greater intelligence than the people of this planet. In creating the people of Mars the writers have pictured them as using their intellectuality, their superior technical development, and their vast knowledge of forces unknown to the immature people of the world for evil purposes, at least for purposes which the inhabitants of this planet regard with terror. The greater knowledge was malevolent. A radio version of Mr. Wells' idea of this evil not long ago caused a Sunday evening panic for thousands of listeners who have become so accustomed to miracles and other unbelievable performances that they could accept the landing of monster Martians as veritable news.

We don't have to go to Mars now to find great intelligence and skill used for evil purposes. The Nazis and the Fascists have produced the phenomenon here on our own globe. It is probably true that intelligence considered as the achievement of the free and unfettered mind is of necessity lower in these countries now than it has been for many years. But German and Italian skill and knowledge probably are at the high peak of the history of those people. The ability to use resources, make machines, and utilize the elements and natural forces is greater now in all countries than ever before. It is probably highest in America, but here there is no malevolence.

Necessity under the dictators has driven knowledge and skill at top speed to produce mechanisms and compounds for vicious purposes. Technology has raised a structure within which terrifying forces are confined. They are used to reduce the inhabitants of the two countries to a low, humble condition in which the worth and dignity of the individual has disappeared with his freedom of thought and action. He has become the victim of a powerful thing called the state. His knowledge and skill go into the creation of a terrifying thing for which he is supposed to exist. His paramount obligation is to it. It is all and he is nothing except as he is a will-less part of it.

The great Moloch which is devouring the best part of its own children also uses the knowledge and skill to terrify the outside world. The literary horrors of invasion by a superior breed of people from Mars whose natures did not include compassion have become the horrors in dread of which people of this world now are forced to live. Man's genius, directed by the dictators who profess contempt for compassion and for humanity, has been so utilized as to evoke almost universal fear. Knowledge is used for evil and what should help man in his progress to better things, to a fuller command of his destiny, now stuns him and makes him walk in greater apprehension of tomorrow.

People cannot forever live in apprehension of what their own genius will do to make them miserable instead of happy. Knowledge which is applied to cause despair and injury is too illogical to have the long continued sanction of any people. It is unendurable, we may at least hope, that people should live in dread of what the chemist will next discover or the machine maker next invent.

MONUMENTAL MR. ROOSEVELT.

Representative Dewey Short, Missouri Republican, said that Mr. Roosevelt did not need the Hyde Park library memorial; he had the monumental public debt. The house of representatives was considering a proposal of Mr. Roosevelt to give "twelve acres more or less" on his Hudson river estate for a library building to be built by public subscription and to contain his papers. A condition was that the nation undertake the perpetual upkeep of the institution. The Democrats in the house regarded the offer as a most generous one and passed the bill. The Republicans saw the proposal in a different light and some of them made observations and remarks upon Mr. Roosevelt's glorification of himself.

He will be the country's most monumented President, with or without the third term. He will leave more impressive masses of steel and concrete than any ten imperial builders of all history. He will have a greater collection of buried gold and silver than all the maharajahs of India and probably more extensive ruins than have ever been excavated in Mesopotamia, Asia Minor, or the African desert. Grand Coulee alone would have satisfied almost any Roman emperor and TVA would have been regarded by any Pharaoh as the reward of a successful life.

The Democrats in the house thought their Republican colleagues were unnecessarily partisan in suggesting that many distinguished men have been modest enough to permit memorials to their fame to arise in due order and time from the gratitude of the people. They have not preëngaged the future. They have not asked for a bond and contract or a law; they have not supervised blueprints or engaged the architects. That is measurably true, particularly in our own simple republican experience, but the imperial mind has seldom bothered with the scruples and modesties of the smaller ego.

The Roman emperors celebrated themselves thoroughly, first destroying the marble and bronze of their immediate predecessor and then filling the land with their own statues, graven images, and edifices. Mr. Roosevelt is not the ordinary man of the White House. He has ruled a continent, changed its laws, fed hot dogs to royalty, admonished dictators, and surveyed the world from Olympus. He once invited the public to pay $250 for his autograph in a book and it is not at all strange that he should invite a grateful public to build him a library and a generous nation to keep it up forever.

George Washington may have had no other expectation than that eventually Mount Vernon would be in the possession of some other Virginia planter. Even the papers he left related chiefly to planting tobacco, hunting foxes, and improving his stock.

THE SCHNEIDER CASE.

A New York court has sentenced Jacob Schneider, an official of the fur workers' union, to three years' imprisonment for a merciless assault on an elderly member of Schneider's own union. The man was seized on the street, taken to Schneider's office, and when he refused to give information concerning the fur concern of his son-in-law, against which the union was conducting a strike, was beaten to unconsciousness.

Schneider is a communist. He was ordered deported in 1932 for advocating the overthrow of the United States government by force. The finding was approved by the then secretary of labor, but in 1935, under the Red-fostering régime of Mme. Secretary Perkins, the labor department canceled the order.

Even apologists for the C. I. O., defending it against the charge that it is dominated by communists, conceded that the fur workers are one C. I. O. union that the communists control. Schneider was a leader in their seizure of that union. His record, produced in court before he was sentenced, showed that he was known to police as an industrial racketeer in 1931, was accounted by them one of the leaders of communistic violence in the fur industry, had been arrested frequently on charges of felonious assault, and had once before been sentenced to prison, but got a reversal of the verdict in an appeal. In San Francisco the labor department has at last started the hearing at which Harry Bridges, another C. I. O. communist, is required to show cause why he should not be deported as an undesirable alien. The deportation warant for Bridges was issued years ago. Mme. Secretary Perkins has been sitting on it since, and the present hearing was ordered reluctantly in response to congressional indignation so intense that she was threatened with impeachment.

The information on Schneider comes at an opportune time. It shows that the Bridges case is not an isolated one. Schneider, like Bridges, is an alien radical who has been permitted to use American labor unions as instruments of civil disorder. The labor department, which through its immigration bureau is given the duty of policing these enemies of America, has under President Roosevelt become their protector.

Editorial of the Day

NIEMOLLER.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

Churches throughout the world observed what might be termed "Niemoller Sunday" on July 2 when they paid tribute to the Rev. Martin Niemoller, German Protestant minister, who marked the third anniversary of his imprisonment in a Nazi concentration camp July 1. Prompted by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, churches in this country observed the day as a tribute to a courageous spirit, and a challenge to Nazi doctrines.

Martin Niemoller's only offense was his courage to stand out against Hitler and to defend religious liberty against the inroads of the Nazi teachings. Arrested and imprisoned for eight months before being brought to trial, Niemoller was set free only to be arrested again at the express orders of Hitler and placed in a concentration camp. He has often been offered his release on condition that he accept the Nazi creed, but has consistently refused. Through three years of persecution his spirit has remained unbroken.

Christians and Jews alike are interested in Niemoller's fight against the forces of oppression in Germany because they see in him a cause around which they may rally. He is a greater force, both in Germany and the world at large, while in a concentration camp than he could possibly have become had he remained free.

ECHOES IN AN OLD HOUSE.

That proud old house that has a winding stair
Must ever hear soft footfalls echoing,
Although no shadow falls nor anything
Denotes that more than memories are there;
And though dust dims the rail of ebony
And hides the lustre of French hunting scenes
(Wall paper rich in grays and gentle greens),
Age marks each newel post reluctantly.

It is as if within the span of years
Called Time sure footfalls ever echo on:
Love's last tread in the night—the first at dawn;
The proof beyond the mind, above men's fears,
That love lives on and it can have no ending—
Forever glowing—ever more ascending!

Was George Washington a Dictator?

Discovered: An inscription of George Washington's period which calls the Father of His Country a dictator.

Queen Mother Mary of Great Britain recently presented to the museum at Sulgrave Manor, the English home of Washington's ancestors, a French snuffbox bearing a profile portrait of Washington. Around the lid are the words [in French]: "George Washington, Commander-in-Chief of the Anglo-American Army. Elected Dictator by Congress in February, 1777. Born in Virginia in 1733."

The box seems to have been made about 1800.

"Pluck Out the Heart of My Mystery."

The mystery of Shakespeare's plays, over which scholars have racked their brains for a century or two, can be cleared up as soon as any one is willing to part with $50,000. How come? Well, listen to this:

"I guarantee to prove," proclaims Arthur W. Sanborn of 124 West Newton street, Boston, Mass., "that at least five plays in the Folio of 1623 were not written by William Shakespeare of Stratford. I can identify the disguised author beyond a reasonable doubt. The entire evidence does not exceed 4,000 words; it unmasks the Shakespeare mystery, and then unmasks a mystery within the mystery.

"I am offering this evidence for sale at $50,000, any claims that the terms of the guarantee have not been satisfied to be adjusted by arbitration."

This fellow apparently means business. Any takers? Or what are you bidding for literary mysteries this year?

BROOKFIELD BALLAD—XI.

And now, by way of something new,
They're giving concerts in the zoo;
So our dumb brothers, bird and beast,
May join with us in music's feast.
And when they're taught, next thing they know,
We'll give them each a radio,
So when they're bored with food and fleas
They may tune in on recipes
And sponsored ads the whole day through
Until it's dark, just as we do,
And then till dawn they'll have the chance
To share the blessings of the dance.
And from each station's swing-mad rites
They'll hear how humans spend their nights.

Euphony in Street Names.

Here are the twenty-five Chicago street names which I consider the most euphonious. Who can offer a better list?

Agatite, Cabrini, Carondolet, Castello, Clarinda, Dominick, Emerald, Escanaba, Florimond, Hermosa, Huguelot, Infula, Jonquil, Kongee, Larretta, Leoti, Loleta, Macalester, Marmora, Massasoit, Monticello, Natoma, Oliphant, Sacramento, Terra Cotta. Maxellus.

[He's using an old street guide, and some of his selections have been changed, thus: Clarinda to Pearson, Florimond to St. Paul, Infula to Schreiber, Kongee to Kenton, Larretta to Carpenter, and Macalester to Lexington.]

Victims of the Juggernaut.

Speaking of the names of forgotten villages in Chicago, who can remember Almira, South Lynne, Constance, Parkside, Brookdale, and Englewood-on-the-Hill? Or West Ridge, which was Rogers Park's neighbor? These are rare items, sire.

MAKE YOUR CHILD A GOOD CITIZEN.

THE greatest fun in the world is in watching a baby grow. The development of a human body from a helpless few pounds of protoplasm and the birth of a new mind with the faculty to translate thoughts into actions is marvelous indeed.

Graduation from dependency is the chief objective of life. No one of us would choose to remain an infant always. Gradually more and more is accomplished until after a while the little one not only can dress himself but will make an effort to find his own food. After he has passed his second birthday he can be given certain specific duties which must be completed if benefit is to follow. As proficiency is acquired more intricate stints may be assigned. Thus he is led step by step from an atmosphere of absolute protection into one of self-reliance. There is no better means of inculcating method and orderliness. The boy or girl who grows up without some chores to perform has missed much.

At about 18 months the youngster must begin to mingle with those of his age, preferably of both sexes, and simple lessons of courtesy—of give and take—can be taught. But this characteristic cannot be fostered overnight, and many parents neglect essential early training which makes the older child an agreeable companion.

Between the ages of 2 and 5 the emotions demand our greatest concern. Oversolicitude, yielding to every whim and desire, is but the sowing of tares for behavior difficulties in days to come. When a family quarrel fills the air of the home with thunder and lightning, grownups who assert that Johnny is just too young to understand are deluding themselves. The chances are that Johnny comprehends far more than father or mother is willing to admit. A mark is left upon his sensibilities which may amount to a scar. These episodes may be imitated at the most inopportune moments. It is the power of mimicry—inherent in each of us—that preserves the customs of past generations. The tot who indulges in tantrums now and then is only reproducing an act which he has observed—perhaps frequently.

Why is this period so vital? Because it is the one in which the foundations are laid for normal, emotional response or quite the reverse. Serious adjustment problems may find their origin in this interval if self-control is not acquired.

When the stage of questioning comes, "What is that and why?" every one in the family must try to be truthful. Memory is long. This is essential if we would avoid a break of faith in adults at a later date. With the advent of school days, the child encounters satisfying answers to natural curiosity. Ideas are directed into proper channels and reasoning evolves. More pupils fail because they never learn how to study than because they lack intelligence. This requires a degree of concentration which will resist the call of a neighbor lad, "Come on out and play."

As the boy progresses through the grades we must make certain that the tasks of each day are within his ability. All of which leads us to the principle that children must not be stimulated to exertion—mental or physical—beyond an average capacity. No matter how brilliant Junior may be, let him take his normal course in school. A wise teacher will give him plenty of outside reading to keep him busy. Skipping a class because he "knows it all" may inaugurate disinterestedness which will never be overcome.

Many a parent will exhibit proudly a report card filled with "A's," failing to reckon with the havoc which the "push" has worked upon the nervous system. We can encourage scholastic achievements but we have no right to expect perfection at the expense of well-being. A capable student who gets an "A" occasionally, a few "B's," and a "C" or two, who—at the same time—is well liked by his companions and who is neither a prig nor a bully, will go far.

It is utterly silly on the part of any one to attempt to lay down specific rules for child training. There is none that will work. Every youngster is an individual unto himself—bearing the traits of scores of ancestors. Parents—if they are honest [and most of them are]—can recall their own youthful difficulties and from their experience guide their progeny.

SHRUBBERY TO BE TRIMMED.

Chicago, July 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Hermosa park at Belden and Kilbourn avenues is a playground well attended by all the youngsters of the neighborhood, but they must take their lives in their hands to reach it. Kilbourn avenue carries heavy trafic at a high rate of speed. A block beyond the park there is a "Go Slow: Children" sign but none at the playground and, to make matters worse, high bushes in the parkway prevent a child from seeing an oncoming car. I am certain all residents of the vicinity will appreciate what you can do to make this locality safer for our children. C. A.

The commanding officer of our Accident Prevention division reports that the only sign regulating trafic on Kilbourn avenue in that vicinity is at Palmer street, a through street, and that there are no trafic signs at Fullerton avenue. Further, bushes on the southwest corner of Kilbourn avenue and Palmer street and on the northwest corner of Kilbourn and Lyndale avenues have grown to such a height that motorists are unable to observe the children until they have stepped off the curb and into the street. Request is this day being sent to the commissioner of public works that the bushes be trimmed.

COERCION FOR THE MEMORIAL.

Effingham, Ill., July 13.—The letter in your column entitled "Ask Jobholders for Roosevelt Memorial Gifts," is about six weeks late, but better late than never.

I am an employé of the Illinois state highway department. We were asked to contribute to this fund about six weeks ago and did so, as did all the other employés of this district, or at least enough of them contributed to raise around $100. There are ten districts in the state and we are only one department in one state, so one can readily see the possibilities—and Roosevelt saw them.

We were given to understand, as we have been with every donation asked by the New Dealers, that if we did not give there would be a record of the fact. It was worded something like this: "You will receive a personal note of thanks from Mr. Roosevelt for your contribution."

Some day there is going to be one of their sitdown strikes on this sort of coercion. The highway department has already lost many of its most valuable men for no other reason. Probably other departments have suffered likewise.

We were opposed to contributing for two vital reasons: First, the method of collecting reeks, and, second, we would like to forget, rather than remember, what Roosevelt has done for the country.

FED UP.

SOFT BERTHS IN WPA.

Chicago, July 10.—The list you published of WPA persons getting $1,200 a year or more is not at all complete. The small batch of names you offer can't even serve as an "appetizer." I, myself, know eleven people personally who get anywhere from $125 to $300 and more a month; not one of them was in your list.

I did, however, recognize five of the names in your listing. One of them came from Kansas City to take his job here, another from Columbus, O. I note you have "Chicago" as their home address. And real WPA Cæsars they are, too, especially when a layoff is imminent. They are then at their best—austere, authoritative, fierce of eye.

The public is entitled to the truth about the WPA. It is the poor devil in the lower salary brackets who is getting the worst deal. Layoffs are not made on the basis of need. V. S.

THOSE NEARBY ISLANDS.

Chicago, July 13.—Your fine editorial, "The Islands and the Debts," reveals a clear vision of what democratic justice should be. For complete solidarity in the democratic world all democratic nations must solve just debts one way or another. As to Britain and France: The transfer of their islands near America to America affords the swift, plausible solution of their many billion dollar debts to us resulting from the world war.

I am surprised that some of those pig headed Roosevelt hating congressmen haven't fought for the proposal instead of leaving everything to the President and the public press. As you truly suggest, we intensely need and would have to claim these islands to insure full national defense of this country. Better get them NOW. SPOTLIGHT.

PEDDLERS AND VENDERS.

Chicago, July 11.—The latter part of June brought wholesale arrests of ice cream venders for not having licenses. The majority thereafter complied with the city ordinance and paid $10 for the second half of 1939, while still untold hundreds of peddlers not only roam the streets unmolested but laugh at the others for being played for suckers and get away with it. How about it?

INTERESTED.

JAPAN AND THE OPEN DOOR.

Chicago, July 12.—President McKinley when instructing the American commissioners who were negotiating the treaty of peace with Spain in 1898, said, "We seek no advantages in the orient which are not common to all. Asking only the open door ourselves, we are ready to accord the open door to others." Yet despite this pronouncement, the American government made American produce duty-free in the Philippines and imposed import duties upon non-American goods. Likewise, there is no open door in continental United States or in any of its possessions. All other nations have also placed varying degrees of restriction upon equality of opportunity and trade within their borders.

Japan adhered to the doctrine of free trade longer than any other major nation. Even as late as 1937 72 per cent of her imports were duty-free. By 1936 76 foreign countries were discriminating against Japanese goods, and Japan's share of the world trade was only 3.69 per cent, ninth among the trading nations.

China has never benefited by the principle of the "open door" which was imposed upon her without her consent. Her trade has remained almost stationary while that of Manchukuo has become almost twice as large in value since 1931.

Since the principle of the "open door" is urged as applying to only one portion of the world and in such a manner as to injure a nation which is already being heavily discriminated against, is there any wonder that that nation declares that the "open door" is inequitable and obsolete? LES B. FAYRE.

DIRT IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 11.—I agree with the letter of "Shamed Chicagoan." I have lived in New York City all my life and it has been a source of wonder to me just why Chicago is the dirtiest major city I have ever seen. Rubbish, dirt, and paper fly all over the city uninterruptedly. Where is every one's civic pride?

I spent all of June in New York City and when I left my mother's home the screens had not yet been put up, whereas here they are a necessity. Chicago is my home now, so do not mistake this for cranky sarcasm. IRA L. WAGNER.

MOTOR CARS AND SLEEP.

Chicago, July 12.—Why do not automobile manufacturers make the seats of automobiles adjustable for use for sleeping? One model uses the rear seat only. But with a small additional cost hinges could be put on front seats and, used with the rear, be convertible for sleeping.

There would be many buyers of lower priced cars with this feature.

WOULD-BE BUYER.

LEANS TO THE CHICAGO WAY.

Chicago, July 11.—A couple of years back Chicago police were bitterly criticized for action taken in one of our steel strikes. Yesterday in a strike at Minneapolis a police officer was killed. As a citizen of Chicago, if such contests must be held, I favor the methods of our police department.

None of us wants bloodshed. All of us have respect and a desire for government conducted with some semblance of peace and order. The respectable leaders of organized labor, who have the real interest of labor at heart, should immediately eliminate from their ranks the maniacs who believe themselves stronger and more powerful than our government.

Labor has done considerable good for the working man in the past. It will do more good for him in the future. Its right to exist is just as essential to the welfare of this nation as that of capital.

PREFERS DOMESTIC NEWS.

Chicago, July 11.—THE TRIBUNE has congratulations coming in the fact that I picked up the final edition this morning and for the first time in months there was not a bit of foreign news in the first three pages.

The public [I am anyway] is fed up on threats and warnings by different countries. Every day and every edition the papers are full of threats by Hitler; threats by Mussolini; threats by Japan.

Of course these threats are of international importance and a guy like Hitler might put them in force any minute, but when he does that's time enough for all those first page headlines.

Let's shove Danzig back to the fourth page for a while and put the United States national news back on the first few pages. J. T. R.

SOME "WILD" PAINTINGS.

Chicago, July 12.—In a recent letter in THE TRIBUNE Charles F. Kelley, assistant director of the Art institute commented on your art critic's comments. I don't know about Miss Jewett's specific criticism, but I will aver that some of the pictures I have seen done by students and others were so awful ["wild" is right] that I now avoid visiting the Art institute.

If blotches of paint thrown on paper are art, then what I have seen there is art. G. M. V.

A DUST BOWL HERE.

Chicago, July 12.—Today at 1 p. m. I took a walk over to Grant park on Balbo drive. At one stage I was unable to see across the street for dust from the soft ball diamonds. How about calling it the "Dust Bowl" instead of Grant park?

"For 'Mind your own business'," she flashed.

Vladimir Golschmann, conductor of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, who is directing the Chicago Symphony orchestra at the Ravinia Music Festival for two weeks, is just back from Paris, where he conducted the Paris Philharmonic in four concerts, two of them at the Abbey of Royaumont, a 900 year old convent near Paris. Golschmann said that the abbey is rapidly becoming one of the most important music centers of the continent. A series of concerts is being presented there under private auspices, and the programs are adapted to the atmosphere. Bach best suits the ancient Gothic edifice.

"Every one in Paris is prepared for the worst," the conductor said. "Every one has a gas mask. I had one, too. Outwardly there is an amazing calm, but the nervous tension can be sensed."

ANSWER TO WORD PUZZLE.

Conundrums I've never been able to spurn;
No exception was the riddle of Dr. Byrne.
The first three, in order, are I, in, and nil;
Lain and Latin for four and five should fit the bill.
Then six and seven are talion and elation,
The whole topped off by our good old relation.
These are my names for the blanks in the story,
And I hope my very blank verse doesn't bore ye.

Error Department.

(Or maybe Bow and Error Department.)

A few days ago The Tribune published a picture on its back page of that mighty hunter, Herman Goering. He was in full regalia as chief forester and was shown pulling a bow and arrow.

It was a fine sight.

It seems a shame, however, that he had the arrow on the wrong side of the bow.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Further proof that the world is composed of the haves and the have-nots: Most women spend time, money, and honest effort cultivating or simulating curly hair. But there are those who have so much curl they are willing to spend time, money, and effort getting some of it out.

For this last group, the women with kinky or frizzy hair, there is a treatment that we always think of as a "permanent in reverse." No machinery is used, but the hair is softened with a solution and stretched to the point where it is wavy but not kinky. The straightening will last just about as long as a permanent does, with the individual's rate of hair growth the important factor. As hair grows out from the scalp, of course, it will have to be subjected to the straightening process.

This hair flattening treatment, as given in a local salon, begins with a shampoo and ends with one. The straightening solution is applied painstakingly to every strand and in the application the saturated hair is stretched gently but firmly. It doesn't hurt a bit. When it's all over the hair that was frizzy is softened sufficiently to take a wide wave.

Women with naturally curly hair sometimes have no kinkiness all over the head, but are troubled with perhaps one section that simply won't lie flat or take a wave where it's wanted. These sections of hair can be subdued by this new process.

This same flattening solution can be used—though the method of application is different—for "relaxing" an unruly permanent.

This is not a little preparation you can use at home. Its successful use requires the skill of a professional beauty operator. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Gay Week-End for Debutantes.

For a third week-end in this busy month the debutantes and their beaux will be in a whirl of parties. It will center this time around Miss Barbara Buchanan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. De Witt W. Buchanan of Lake Forest, who are giving a supper-dance tonight at the Shoreacres club for their daughter. The party will be Miss Buchanan's formal debut.

The week-end's gayety will not be exclusively for debutantes, for there will be dozens of other parties for all ages, but Miss Buchanan's party will be the one big "young" dance tonight, and there will be a number of small dinners preceding it.

Miss Buchanan will give one at home for the Lake Forest buds, their escorts, and her house guest, Miss Nancy Russell of St. Louis, a former classmate at Dobbs Ferry.

Miss Frances and Miss Marion Munson will give a dinner at Mrs. D. Mark Cummings' home, in which they are visiting; Mrs. Freeman Hinckley will entertain for her post-deb daughter, Miss Eleanor McClurg, and the James B. Forgans will give a party for their debutante niece, Miss Sidney Meeker. Mrs. Forgan is arriving at home today from a trip east.

The Misses Munson will leave on Monday for Edmonton, Canada, to join their father, Curtis B. Munson, and his wife, who is Mrs. Cummings' daughter. Miss Marion Munson is a debutante.

Gives Picnic Tonight for Eastern Guest.

Some of the subdebutante group will go to Geneva tonight for a picnic Mrs. George W. Overton is giving for her youthful guest, Lisbeth Derby, daughter of the Roger Derbys of New York. Miss Derby stayed with Mrs. Hammond Sturgis and Harriet Sturgis in Lake Forest for the first part of her Chicago visit. George Overton Jr. and Miss Derby's brother are roommates at Harvard.

The William J. Kellys, who have taken the Hermon D. Smiths' Lake Forest house, will give a paddle tennis and buffet supper party tonight for Mrs. Harry Baxter [Mary Dern] of Washington, who is visiting them.

Some of the young married people who are friends of the junior Charles S. Deweys and of her brother-in-law and sister, the Garfield Kings, will welcome the Kings back from their honeymoon at a small dinner in the Deweys' new Lake Bluff home tonight. Mr. King and the former Miss Kay Goodman are staying with his parents, the Charles Garfield Kings, at their Dundee home until fall.

Miss Edith Harrison has invited some of the post-debutantes and their beaux to a garden supper at home in Lake Forest tomorrow night. Her younger sister, Miss Caryl, will make her debut at a tea-dance in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field are giving a small luncheon at home tomorrow for his aunt and her cousin, Mrs. Thomas P. Lindsey, and Mr. Lindsey, who are en route from Southboro, Mass., to Seattle. The Lindseys are arriving tomorrow morning and will be on their way in the evening. The Fields will go east Aug. 1 to visit his mother, Mrs. Algernon Burnaby, at York Harbor, Me.

Luncheon Parties at Arlington Today.

The Post and Paddock club at Arlington Park will be the setting for numerous luncheon parties today, among them a family party Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz are giving. John Hertz Jr. has come from New York. His sister, Mrs. Robert Levy [Helen Hertz] already is visiting her parents, and Mr. Levy is expected today.

Others who will be luncheon hosts are Robert F. Carr, Charles H. Schweppe, John Behr, Mrs. Oliver S. Picher, and Mrs. Charles Pearce. The featured race will be the Lassie stakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce A. Baker [Betty Quigley] are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first child, a daughter, on Wednesday at St. Anne's hospital near Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Fetzer Jr. are giving a dinner this evening for Robert S. Burns, Mrs. Fetzer's brother-in-law, who came from California to attend the christening yesterday of little Valerie Seeley Smith. Mr. Burns is the baby's godfather. The Junior Kinney Smiths are her parents.

Benefit for Lake Bluff Orphanage

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Harold A. Hartog [Nancy Doering], left, and Miss Patricia Wilson were two of the many pretty young women who enjoyed the garden party given recently at Belorme in Lake Forest for the benefit of the Lake Bluff orphanage. Belorme is Mrs. Harry M. McIntosh's estate and it is opened once every summer to raise money for the orphanage. It will be open again next Monday for a party for the benefit of the student fund of the Illinois Opera guild. Mrs. Hartog is leaving early in August to return to her home in Paris, France.

Simple Clothes Are Favorites of Midsummer

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Midsummer finds Chicago women selecting smooth, simple clothes for daytime wear. The dress usually is of dark checked cotton, a dress that is cut to look like a suit—flared skirt and short fitted jacket with elbow length sleeves.

Jacket necklines are high, round, and usually without a collar. Sometimes a spanking white piqué collar and cuffs cool a Scotch plaid outfit. Sometimes sheer white collars and cuffs accent a dark sheer, but usually during the hot weather all such extras are banished.

The whitest outfits worn for spectator sports events are the sleek sharkskin clothes—one piece dresses, long coat dresses, and two piece effects that look like suits. Dull white crêpe costumes of sheath dress matched to a long coat make cool afternoon outfits that are equal to staying in town for dinner and an ice cooled movie.

With these midsummer clothes you use the coolest of accessories—cypress green costume jewelry of fragile leaves, dark green cartwheel hat, white bag lined with green, even a white compact to match the white fingernail polish. These are especially good with a strong sun tan.

Some of the most unusual daytime dresses are of dull, cool green contrasted with bamboo beige in gloves and hat, with the bag and footgear the same green as the dress. Copper is another summer success with beige accents—so is dubonnet and amethyst. No wonder bamboo beige is so popular—it goes with practically every color and it looks as cool as white and is twice as subtle.

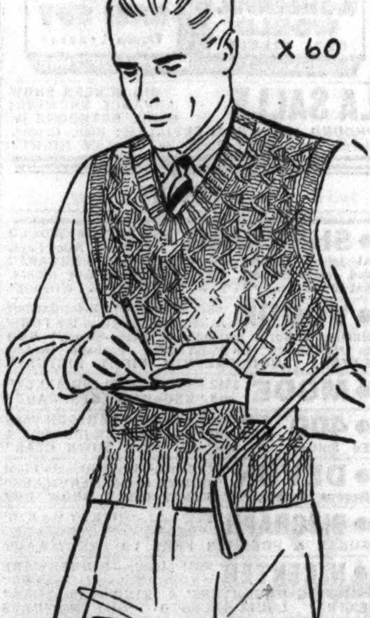
Sharkskin, because it is so dazzling white, needs but little contrast, but chartreuse, delphinium blue, old gold, grape, and dubonnet red provide pickups for all white costumes of sharkskin.

Summer hosiery colors start the popularity list with neutral beige. Then come sultry shades of copper. Both beige and copper can be matched with gloves and some of the big, simply fashioned straw cartwheels also come in tones of flattering beige and glowing copper.

White dotted materials still rate high as neat, cool looking outfits. This summer you can find any shade you ever wanted. Gold, yellow, several shades of green, blue, a good half dozen tones of red, and lots of pastels all are generously peppered with tiny white dots. And if this assortment doesn't appeal try the dots in reverse—light background colors with dark or strong colored dots.

The best finds and buys of this summer are the slender two piece suit dresses of novelty crêpe printed in dots. Some have an amazingly low price mark around $10.

Men Prefer This Sports Sweater Without Sleeves



BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Every man who has seen any one knitting a man's sweater invariably will ask: "When will you make one for me?" And he really means it and secretly hopes he will be asked how soon he wants it. There is a division of taste regarding round, crew, or V neck, just as there is a difference of opinion about sweaters knitted in a simple pattern or done in the ever popular stockinette stitch. The yellow, sleeveless sports sweater illustrated is knitted in a simple zigzag pattern which may be done by the amateur who knows how to do only knitting and purling. Until familiarity with the pattern is achieved, concentration is a necessity. A band of ribbing at the neck holds the sweater firm and a band of garter stitch around the armhole provides an exceptionally neat finish.

For instructions in knitting the man's sleeveless sweater done in the zigzag pattern, No. X-60, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Ravinia Hears '33 Film Work by Prokofieff

BY CECIL SMITH.

As the high point of his second concert at Ravinia as guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Vladimir Golschmann chose to present the first local performance of Serge Prokofieff's symphonic suite, "Lieutenant Kije."

The suite is drawn from music written by Prokofieff in 1933 for a Russian moving picture which has never been shown in this country. The film deals with the life and exploits of a legendary lieutenant supposedly invented by Russian army officers to satisfy orders issued by the czar to a nonexistent officer. Prokofieff's score shows Lieutenant Kije as a frothy, whimsical fellow, not to be taken at all seriously.

It would be a long departure from the truth to call the suite a master work, or even one that is likely to be remembered after its novelty has worn off. The pages of the score hold little of the simple eloquence of the composer's more recent "Romeo and Juliet" music; and the daring of the man who once wrote the bold "Scythian Suite" here degenerates into surface cleverness.

But to a certain extent Prokofieff's tricks are more impressive and more interesting than many a lesser composer's most impassioned message. In the deft brilliance of its fantastic orchestration, and in the reverse English effect of its apparently simple melodies and rhythms, the music passes twenty minutes of a summer evening briskly.

The piece needed a much more brilliant performance than the orchestra was able to give, with the cramped rehearsal schedule that prevails.

Good Morning!

There's a moot question that's always mooting around. It is: "Which is the more important, the actor or the play?"

Of course no player, handed an utter dud in the way of a vehicle can, really, do much about it. But he CAN work wonders with passable material, lending it the sheen of an ingratiating personality—if he has such—and, through his own sincerity, making the incredible seem probable.

That which happens in "Stolen Life" wouldn't be very likely TO happen. But the distinguished performances of Elisabeth Bergner and Michael ["The Lady Vanishes"] Redgrave convince you that it COULD, and that the persons involved would act exactly as do the characters in the story, if it did.

Miss Bergner plays a dual rôle. She portrays twin sisters, Sylvina and Martina. Both fall in love with the same man—a young explorer, who's discovered first by Martina while mountain climbing in Switzerland. For reasons of her own—about which you will learn from the picture—she refuses to introduce him to her family—never telling him that she has a twin. But there comes a day when he meets Sylvina, like Martina in looks but utterly unlike her in underlying characteristics. . . .

Alan McKenzie marries Sylvina. He leaves her to go on a long exploring trip. While he is away strange and terrible things happen. He returns to find awaiting him a girl he believes to be his wife but who ——? See the picture if you're interested in further developments—and I cockily believe that by now I've got your curiosity to the boiling point.

You're going to love Miss Bergner as Martina, and like her little as Sylvina. As for Michael Redgrave—AH—there's a man and an actor for you! A man who knows what the actor must do to BE a man.

The two have a richly able supporting cast, and direction, by Miss Bergner's husband, was the quintessence of something or other. Meaning it was the McCoy. Dialog likewise. Thrills? Aplenty!

As for backgrounds, you're escorted on quite a tour. For you look upon Switzerland, Brittany, the English countryside, Tibet, and Athens. No less!

See you tomorrow.

Sunday Paper Will Announce Party Winners

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by the Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I know tomorrow's TRIBUNE is going to make the children happy. The suspense will be over for all the hundreds of boys and girls who wrote to ask invitations to our Chicago theater party. The list of winners will be printed. The 50 boys and 50 girls who won will receive invitations from me to see a new movie, "Second Fiddle."

Do try to remember those three little items which must be included in every letter. So many of you write letters which would be winners if only you wouldn't forget to tell me your full name, or your age, or even forget your address.

There's no point in weeping over mistakes, and I think any of you who have been disappointed will buck up immediately when you see the second portion of good news I have for you.

It's the announcement of our next party—and I venture to say that there's not a boy or girl in the country who wouldn't jump at the chance to attend. Let me know if I'm right when you write next week!

Good-bye To Vienna

By Olga L. Rosmanith

(Copyright: 1939: By News Syndicate Company, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

An American girl and her Viennese sweetheart, Franz Gruenwald, in a café in Vienna, hear a radio announcement of Hitler's entry into Austria. The girl, Marian Taylor, has been staying in Franz's home, studying voice. Franz fears for his foster-father, Prof. Josef von Plasy, author of a recent anti-Nazi book. He refuses to flee the country and leave his wife, Gisela, and son Johann, who has the mind of a child. Leopoldine, a pro-Nazi woman surgeon, in love with Franz, warns him to send the American girl home. Her brother, Karl, is a Storm Trooper. Von Plasy is taken off to jail to die from shock. In order to take Gisela's money out of the country to deliver to her friend, Emil Wiedermann, in Riga, Marian invests it in rare stamps. Herr Speyer, the stamp merchant, guesses her purpose, but is sympathetic and asks her to deliver a picture to a friend of his in Riga, a Mme. Lonska. Franz loses his job. When Leopoldine secures one for him he accepts it for the sake of his dependents. In Riga Marian learns Herr Wiedermann is in love with Gisela and wants to arrange for her and Johann to come there. Mme. Lonska insists that Marian stay with her. Marian realizes that Mme. Lonska is a spy and that she thinks Marian also is one and that the picture from Herr Speyer was a message in code. Marian returns to Vienna. Franz persuades Gisela to go to Riga and leave Johann until a passport can be got for him. Franz spurns Leopoldine's offer to be his mistress. Next day Franz is seized by the Gestapo.

INSTALMENT XXX.

MALE ADMIRATION.

Leopoldine blew a smoke ring and stuck a slim pointed finger through it. "It has taken you a long time to come and tell me." Her voice was suddenly hoarse and rough—"Why didn't you come and tell me immediately?"

"I was hoping for news any day—any moment. Now I see there is going to be none. I didn't come to bring you the news, but to ask you to help me."

Leopoldine turned on her elbow and burst out laughing in her face, "Excuse me—your American naïveté is so very amusing."

Marian rose. "You mean you can't help me to find him?"

"Sit down. Of course I can find him—if I like. But why should I do so to please you? He is safe. He will remain where he is till you go away."

"You mean you know where he is?"

"I mean only what I say. I can find him if I like. But I don't like. Go back to the States and Franz will soon be free."

Marian had not learned her ideal of love from Herr Wiedermann. It was in her nature. She could be unselfish. "Of course, I will go home if that is your condition. But what guarantee will I have that you will keep your side of the bargain?"

This was an attitude Leopoldine had not foreseen, it was so foreign to her own behavior pattern. She shifted her ground adroitly. "You flatter yourself if you actually imagine your being here makes any difference. Franz and I were lovers before you came. I grew a little tired of him and his juvenile attitude to the Anschluss. He would drop you in a minute if I allowed him to come back. I still care for him a little. I shall probably do so."

Marian's heart turned over although reason told her there was not a word of truth in it. Her unstudied directness again put Leopoldine on her mettle. "If that is the case—I mean if you care for him—I don't have to ask you to help me. You will naturally use any influence you have in order to help him."

"He can wait," countered Leopoldine to gain time. "He needs punishing a little——"

Leopoldine crushed out her cigaret. Now her voice was deliberately lazy.

"I'm sorry you've bothered to come all this way. I could very soon locate Franz, but I'm really not interested. If he has been talking in his usual headstrong way and got into trouble this will teach him a lesson. He would have a great future if he would only refrain from making a fool of himself. Touch that bell and a maid will show you out."

Marian did not touch the bell. She humiliated herself for Franz's sake as Franz had humiliated himself for Gisela's. "If you will only find him and get him free, Fräulein Steinweg, I will promise to leave Austria tomorrow."

Leopoldine laughed. "You talk as if you were offering me an immense bribe I should find irresistible. Your presence here doesn't make the slightest difference to me. Stay, by all means."

Unable to speak again, Marian walked out of the room and found her way down to the street. Leopoldine was passionate with anger because Marian had not shut the study door behind her. She got up and did it with a fierce bang that made the house shudder.

The door opened again and Karl came in. "Who was the adorable blonde?" he inquired without ceremony.

Two thoughts met and fused in the woman's brain. Karl was attracted to Marian. He was as dark as a Turk and blonde hair excited him. And he was a go-getter like herself, ruthless, passionate, irresistible.

"Like to know her?" she inquired casually.

"Why not?" he inquired equally casually, emotional at the thought of having a closer look at that celestially beautiful hair.

"I'll send you to see her with a message. She's excited now because Franz Gruenwald is missing. The usual thing. A little tangle with the gestapo. You can pave your way by offering to help her."

"But I can't help her."

"So much the better. Nobody wants you to. You fool—what would you get out of wasting your time getting another man for her?"

He was violently disappointed. "You mean they're that way?"

"Not really. She's a little touched for the time being—sort of tied up with the Von Plasy family. Your famous technique would soon put that nonsense out of her head."

Karl was suspicious. His overbearing sister was acting so completely out of character. Her usual rôle was to ridicule him when he made a pass at a girl.

"Funny, isn't it, you've no fault to find with her?"

He had given her a key to the trend of his mind. If she praised Marian he would never go near her. She laughed. "I was just cooking up a little amusement for myself. She wouldn't look at you. She's a cocksure American as vain as they make them. If you got as far as a kiss I'd look for two moons shining in the sky. I'm all out of cigarets. Give me one of yours, will you?"

This was more normal and understandable. Karl took half a dozen cigarets from his packet and put them in the box beside the sofa. "All the same I'll take your message just to get a longer look at her."

"Do by all means," she said. "But as for the other thing, it's a waste of time to try."

* * * *

Marian went over the unsatisfactory interview word for word on her way home in the street car. But she could not decide whether Leopoldine knew anything about Franz's whereabouts. Well, she was glad she had gone and cleared the way for the next step. That was the dreaded visit to Herr Bueckel's office. Something of her dread left her as she waited in a crowded waiting room. Other anxious-eyed people had the courage to come here and ask their questions. They were conducted through inner doors to shouting presences one by one.

The man who received Marian was bored and tired. He took her inquiry for Franz as coldly as if she were reporting losing her pocketbook on the street car.

"What relation?" he asked, filling up a form.

"No relation. At least not yet. We are engaged to be married."

"But you are an alien. Do you live here?"

"Yes. No. I mean I'm an American citizen. I don't actually live here. I'm staying as a student."

"Studying what?"

Marian explained patiently.

He said finally: "You had better stick to your music and keep out of these things."

"I don't want to interfere in any way, Mein Herr, but you can understand how difficult it is to bear such anxiety. I ask for nothing—no communication—only to know that he is well and where he is."

"You ask for a great deal, being no relation and therefore having no claim to such information. However, this office has no official record of him."

July 15, 1939.

A strong day for those who are attuned to its vibrations. Make as much material progress as possible.

Those born on the 15th are home loving and domestic. They usually attract the comforts of home and friends to them, and they are generous and philanthropic. A good example of these qualities is found in Rembrandt, the famous Dutch painter, whose generosities finally involved him in financial difficulties.

FOR TRAILER FAMILIES AND OTHER CAMPERS OUT: A cookbook which tells you what to take and how to prepare it. There are menus and recipes for warm and cool weather, picnics, and emergencies. And there's a lot of information packed into this big 25 cents worth of "Meals on Wheels," by Lou Willson and Olive Hoover, Modern Age Books, Inc., New York.

FOR EVERY HOUSEHOLD: A new designed-for-efficiency aluminum saucepan, ⅝ quart size, ideal for making white sauce, meat sauces, for melting butter, and performing all those cooking jobs which call for a small utensil. The same pan comes in larger sizes, too. All are built for hard use, quick heating, and easy cleaning. There are cup gradations on the sides of the pan, for easy measuring. Department stores carry them.

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS ABOUT FOODS: Mayonnaise originally was called "bayonnaise" for its sponsor, the Duc de Richelieu, who came from Bayonne. . . . "Mulligatawny" is derived from two Indian words meaning "pepper water." . . . Pretzels are supposed to have been invented centuries ago by a Bavarian cleric as reward to children who said their prayers faithfully.

Cheese probably is older than any other prepared food except butter. . . . Soy beans contain very little starch, are rich in proteins which compare favorably with those of meat, eggs, and milk, are rich in oil, vitamins A, B, and G. . . . The early Romans used asparagus as medicine. . . . Lettuce was prized by the Romans as a remedy for freckles, insomnia, and toothache.

TIPS ON COOKING BACON: Lay the slices flat, with no overlapping, in the cooking utensil. Cook slowly. Spoon out the fat as it collects. Drain the slices on absorbent paper. They should be flat and crisp, if these directions are followed.

Don't leave uncooked bacon lying out on the table. It should be refrigerated all of the time. Take as many slices from the package as you'll use, and return the rest to the icebox.

TIME FOR CURRENT JELLY: Now's the time to put up currant jelly, currant, gooseberry, raspberry, and cherry jam [tutti-fruitti], currant and blueberry jam, and Bar-le-duc. Recipes for all of these, and many more preserving time delectables, appear in "Mary Meade's Best Jams and Jellies," 23 cents by mail.

ANY LEFT OVER SPONGE CAKE? It's superdelicious when cut into strips, dipped in thin confectioners' sugar icing, and then into finely chopped nuts or coconut. Let dry on wax paper and serve with ice cream or fruit for dinner dessert.

WHOLE WHEAT REFRIGERATOR ROLLS: Make your usual recipe, substituting whole wheat or graham flour for half the flour in the recipe. These are exceedingly good, for a change.

A Reputation Lost Difficult to Reinstate

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I knew a young man for some time before he asked me to go out with him," writes Rae. "In fact, I don't think he would have asked me out had he not met me one night while I was walking with a girl friend. As we passed him and his boy friend, he asked where we were headed for. We told him we were simply going for a walk. They joined us and, after a few steps, my friend suggested we go some place and have some fun. We accepted the invitation. I had always liked the chap, you see. Well, we didn't get home until terribly late that night and a date was made for the following night. Again, we were out later than I ever dreamed I would be, and there was considerable petting, as you may guess, on these parties.

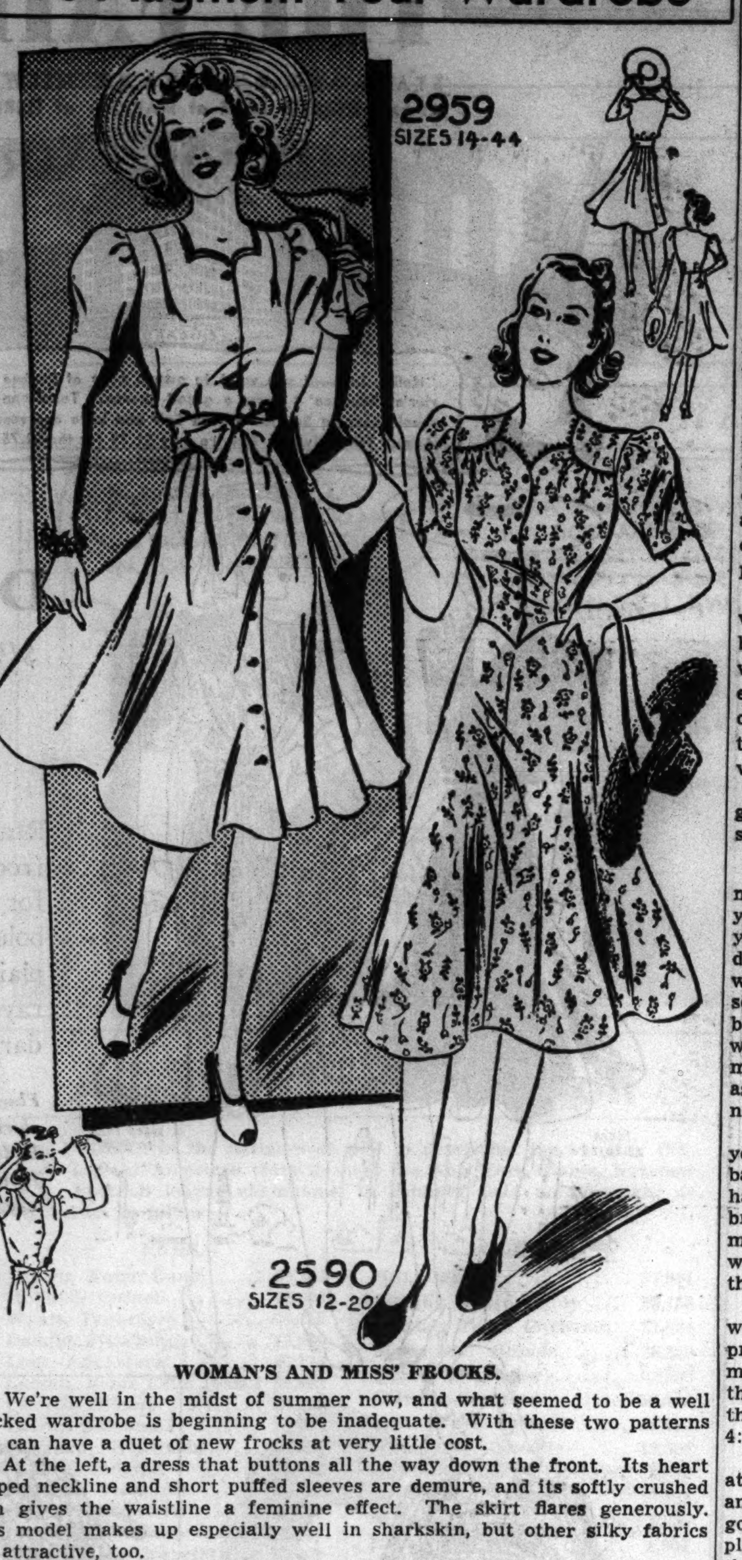
"After a few meetings that followed he became more and more insulting in his remarks and I endeavored to overlook them. I had made up my mind to be aloof when he asked for another date. It didn't turn out a success because he was disappointed.

"He is on my mind all the time now, although I realize he is not the type to depend upon. But I should like to explain to him that I am not what he probably thinks I am because of the two instances reported. I know know that he is capable of better manners and respect for a girl. What I'm trying to say is that we both got the wrong impression of each other which ought to be corrected, but how?"

You got your lesson first hand, Rae, didn't you. We needn't enlarge on that. But whether you can retouch that negative he has of you is another question. Were you in his shoes, wouldn't it be difficult for you to believe a girl's protest that she isn't that kind after demonstrating a couple of times that she was that kind?

Our judgment is that it is better now to cross this off as an experience that never will be repeated, but don't try to whitewash yourself with the particular young man. Let that experience be your future guide with other young men.

To Augment Your Wardrobe



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCKS.

We're well in the midst of summer now, and what seemed to be a well stocked wardrobe is beginning to be inadequate. With these two patterns you can have a duet of new frocks at very little cost.

At the left, a dress that buttons all the way down the front. Its heart shaped neckline and short puffed sleeves are demure, and its softly crushed sash gives the waistline a feminine effect. The skirt flares generously. This model makes up especially well in sharkskin, but other silky fabrics are attractive, too.

Handkerchief linen is the material used for the original of the other dress. Its shoulder detail is emphasized with rickrack braid, as are its sleeves. The bodice is snugly fitted in basque fashion. The skirt, molded at the hips, is flared at the hem. All types of soft flowered materials may be utilized successfully.

Style No. 2959 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4½ yards of 35 inch material.

Style No. 2590 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 35 inch material, with 2 yards of braid.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

In bridge, as in most other walks of life, the two most valuable qualities a player can have are foresight and imagination. South, in the following hand, brought home a difficult five spade contract through the exercise of both these qualities:

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ J 2
♥ A 7 3
♦ Q J 7 4
♣ A Q 10 3

WEST

♥ K Q J 10 5 4 2

SOUTH

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	2 hearts
Pass	Pass	4 spades	5 hearts
Double	Pass	5 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

West's five heart bid was certainly stretching things, but aside from that the bidding was quite orthodox.

The king of hearts was the opening lead and right here, at the first trick, South showed that he knew how to handle freak situations. From West's persistent heart bidding, and East's eventual double of five spades, it was fairly obvious that a bad spade break could be expected. Just how bad it would be there was no way of telling, but of one thing South was certain, and that was that he could well afford to shorten his own trump suit. Perhaps it would not be necessary—but then again it might be. Thus, instead of winning with the heart ace and discarding from the South hand, the heart king was ducked in dummy and South ruffed with the spade three. The lead of a low spade to dummy's jack brought out just how necessary it had been for declarer to use his foresight. West's failure to follow marked East with all four missing trumps, and it was obvious that heroic measures would be required to hold him to the ace and king without also conceding the ten spot. East took the spade jack with the king and returned the ten of diamonds [as good defense as any]. This was allowed to ride to dummy's jack and the deuce of spades was returned. East went up with the ace and led another diamond, the nine spot. Again declarer ducked, winning in dummy with the queen. The seven of hearts was led back and a second superfluous trump was shed by South on a ruff. Now the jack of clubs was overtaken with the queen, and the heart ace was deliberately ruffed with the spade eight, thereby reducing declarer's trump length to a level with East's.

Now a crucial decision had to be made. Did East have another diamond, or not? The diamond deuce had not yet come to light and, since there had been no reason for either East or West to hold it out, the presumption was that East originally had held the 10-9-2. On this reasoning, declarer laid down the diamond ace. When it held he overtook the club king with dummy's ace and played the club ten, discarding the diamond king. Now, with only two cards left in all hands, and the play still in dummy, declarer's Q-9 of trumps formed a perfect tenace over East's 10-4. Declarer could lead either dummy's diamond or club and claim the last two and fulfilling tricks.

It must be noted that declarer's ruff of the opening lead and his successive heart ruffs were absolutely necessary to effect this grand coup. It should also be observed that he was running no risk when he ruffed the opening lead. If West had as many as one trump, then East could have only three and declarer's length was ample to afford the ruff. To make allowance for all four trumps in East's hand was a commendable example of foresight.

Mother Tells Schedule She Found Helpful

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The recent "tired mother" articles brought interesting responses. One was from a man who wanted to know whether I was not going to write about tired fathers—said he'd seen lots of them. I have, too. And I'm thinking about such an article.

Any tired fathers who have something to say on the subject and who think such an article would be salutary might write in to us. Their comments will be welcome, perhaps as a basis for one or more columns on the subject, constituting our own private Father's day.

Another letter was from a city-bred woman who, with her husband, had bought a farm and was running it with her seven children, soon to be eight! Full of courage it was, especially since her husband works in the city and can only come home for visits.

The third outstanding letter is so good that I am giving most of today's space to it.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: Although my own children are now 19 and 15 years of age respectively I often read your column with great interest. I did most of my own work when they were little, and remember my own research in the interest of finding the best working plan for all of us. I would like to tell you of one arrangement that worked out well for me, as I believe it might apply to a large number of people.

"When they were about 2 and 6 years of age, I omitted any morning bath and just washed faces and hands. I then made beds, washed breakfast dishes, and took them to market. I gave them their lunches, washing faces and hands again, and then to their naps.

"I caught up a little on housework, set the table for dinner, and prepared vegetables for the evening meal, rested a few minutes, and when they wakened dressed them and took them out for a walk, returning about 4:30.

"Next I started dinner a little, and at 5 o'clock gave them their baths and put them into nighties and bath gowns. They knew that their hard play was over, but they could sit on the bed or davenport and play with their toys. We then had dinner at six, my husband and I 'did the dishes,' and he read to them or amused them until 7 o'clock when they went to bed.

"This gave my husband and me a nice long evening in which to do what we pleased. I could have a little nap, or catch up on reading or sewing, or we could go out, or entertain. I realize that pediatricians do not like young children to eat heavily at night, but since there was no hard nor exciting play after it, they were perfectly healthy and always slept well.

"Many physicians have told me through the years that they were some of the best nourished children they had ever seen. I did stick to plain cooking and had little difficulty in making them eat. We are, nevertheless, a rather high strung family.

"I discovered a plan that kept my own disposition much evener. I pretended that I was of no 'flesh and blood' tie to them whatever, but was a paid, professional nurse, allowing plenty of affection to be present, kissing of hurts, and so forth, but I detached myself, nevertheless. I could work much harder in this way, especially when we had an 'off' day, and suffered much less fatigue. It works well when they are ill, too.

"In other words I tried for what is expressed so beautifully in Kahlil Gibran's 'The Prophet' in the essay on 'Children,': 'Your children are not your children. They come through you but not from you—. You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth. The archer sees the mark upon the path of the infinite, and He bends you with His might that His arrows may go swift and far—.'

"Thank you for a stimulating, sensible column."

BOOKS

Michael Arlen Still Skilled as a Story Teller

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Flying Dutchman," by Michael Arlen. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.] Published yesterday.

Michael Arlen.

Michael Arlen once wrote a book, called "The London Venture," which brought out all of the most extravagant adjectives of contemporary critics. They described him as the most gifted young writer of his day. Then came his phenomenally successful thriller, "The Green Hat." In his latest novel he has done something which resembles neither his brilliant first novel nor his fantastically successful second, except in a superficial quality of skill in tale telling and brittleness of wit.

"The Flying Dutchman" is a story about a thorough and consistent and uncompromising bounder, a man of ill will and possessed by hatred of man. He is rich, internationally powerful, and able to foster and finance a fantastic secret society operating over the earth, "an organization to create disorder . . . to provoke trouble."

With an E. Phillips Oppenheim-ish sort of plot from about the middle of the book to the end, and a detailed record of one powerfully bad man's way of life for the whole length of the book, Michael Arlen has played a very nifty game of words, so that you go on reading in spite of your intellectual rejection of what you're reading about. He is still clever, but his cleverness is a faint reflection of the brilliance of "A London Venture," and he is just enough brittler than he was in "The Green Hat" to be ostensibly ironic.

87 Short Stories Cover Wide Range in Pair of Commendable Anthologies

"Fifty Best American Short Stories, 1915-1939," edited by Edward J. O'Brien. [Houghton-Mifflin, $3.]

"The Story Survey," edited by Harold Blodgett. [Lippincott, $2.90.]

For twenty-five years Edward J. O'Brien has been studying and sifting America's short story production, publishing each year in his "Best Short Stories" those which he regarded as having exceptional merit. Now, from the 500 or more stories selected during the period, he has chosen fifty of the outstanding ones. They have been published as "Fifty Best American Short Stories, 1915-'39."

The collection provides abundant fare for the reader who merely enjoys a good story well written. Most of the selections are top notch. In addition, the collection is valuable as a sort of case history, mirroring the changes in the mood and form of the American short story in the last quarter of a century. Represented are all the well known authors one would expect to find in such a volume. Especially satisfying, however, are some of the delightful pieces by lesser known writers.

Although "Story Survey," edited by Harold Blodgett, is ostensibly a college textbook, its sixty-two short stories compose a fine anthology for the lovers of this type of narrative. The collection, too, is more comprehensive than Mr. O'Brien's. Most of the selections are by American authors, from Hawthorne to Hemingway. A group of English stories includes examples from Dickens, Stevenson, Hardy, Galsworthy, Sheila Kaye-Smith, Katherine Mansfield, and others. A third section is devoted to continental authors, represented by such diverse story tellers as De Maupassant, Balzac, Thomas Mann, and Gorki. Analytical notes on each story and thumbnail biographies of the authors make the book particularly commendable to students of the short story. J. C. B.

Exploring Polynesian Art

"Polynesian Venture," by Truman Bailey. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.]

Handsomely illustrated by its artist-photographer author, this record of a rather amazing business trip is corking good summer reading. Author Bailey had an idea, and two trips to the South Seas put the notion across in a very large financial way. This story of how he explored the fertile field of Polynesian art with an eye to exploiting its colorful designs through modern merchandising has its spasms of amateurish writing and overemphasis on the first person singular, but it is always entertaining. Ben Ames Williams' Stories

"The Happy End," by Ben Ames Williams. [Derrydale Press, $7.50.]

Ben Ames Williams is at his best in both the new material and the reprints included in this volume. His homely stories of fishing and hunting are fine reading, even to one who has no particular liking for either of these sports. The binding and illustrations are both de luxe. W. D. O.

A Guide to Argentina

"Introduction to Argentina," by Alexander Wilbourne Weddell. [Greystone, $3.]

Alexander Wilbourne Weddell, the new American ambassador to Spain, is an ingratiating writer. The assignment he gave himself in this book was to present a friendly and not too penetrating study of Argentina, to which he was ambassador for five years. He completed it just before being sent to Spain.

"Introduction to Argentina" is a guide rather than a political or economic treaties, and it probably is just what most cruise passengers will want. Where to shop and what to buy, where and what to eat, data on Mar del Plata, the Argentine Newport, and trips through the mountains and the lake country can all be found, and the information is arranged in guidebook fashion. Jeffersonian Democracy

"Democracy, by Thomas Jefferson," edited by Saul K. Padover. [Appleton-Century, $2.50.]

Jeffersonian democracy has become so common an expression in politics that there is good reason to believe it is often used by persons who haven't the faintest conception of what it means. It has been a mammoth task to collect, edit, and synchronize Jefferson's writings on democracy, but it has been accomplished by Dr. Saul K. Padover in a masterful manner. Every word used in the text of this book is Jefferson's. The volume should be immensely valuable to the student, the historian, and the researcher. It holds great interest for the casual reader. C. Another Unpleasant Hero

"The Open Sky," by L. A. G. Strong. [Macmillan, $2.50.]

Another unpleasant person, though not with the jib cut of Mr. Arlen's hero, is the main character in L. A. G. Strong's "The Open Sky." This man, once doctor, turned writer through a physical aversion to the sight of suffering and through the convenient acquisition of a rich wife, is sent to a primitive island off the coast of Ireland to recover from a nervous breakdown.

When the book ends he has recovered his equanimity, but it hasn't been peace and quiet that have done the trick. Immediately resented as an intruder by the natives, he is blamed for every misfortune which touches the islanders, and he is baffled almost to real madness by their attitude toward him.

Like all of Mr. Strong's work, this novel seethes with subterranean psychological emotion beneath its surface of calm words and simple plot. There may be those who will find those under seas more interesting than the surface of "The Open Sky." But most readers, I think, will see Mr. Strong's most memorable gifts in his background—in the rich, slow tempo of the island life, in the characters who live and have their being as parts of the island's whole rather than as individuals or entities apart from it.

Chicago Scene in Novel

"O Canaan!" by Waters E. Turpin. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

The young Negro author of "These Low Grounds," a first novel of Negro life which won him high acclaim, has deserted the Maryland delta country of its many-generations study for Chicago's south side.

In his new novel he tells the story of one family's migration to the land of Canaan from a quiet Mississippi town. Old Joe, with the form and the force of a giant, and with copper blood in his veins; his weak willed wife, Christine, her black and red blood diluted with white, and their five children, of whom the youngest girl, Essie, emerges as the book's heroine, are the main characters. Their stage gives the reader the impression of being almost jostlingly crowded, like the tenements to which the Benson family comes in Chicago, but actually it includes much detail about a few people rather than a plethora of humans.

Waters Turpin chooses the post-war whoopla days and the ensuing depression as his panoramic years for the Bensons, and gives us a picture of life among Chicago's Negroes. It looks pretty much as if Chicago were indeed the promised land for the Bensons, when the depression clamps down on black and white alike.

"O Canaan!" is interesting as a racial record rather than as an interpretation of Negro psychology.

Short Story Masterpieces

"Tellers of Tales," selected by W. Somerset Maugham. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.75.]

One hundred masterpieces of the short story from the United States, England, France, Russia, and Germany fill these 1,526 pages of the best collection of short tales that we have ever met. W. Somerset Maugham, himself one of the great short story tellers of our generation, has committed only the sin of omission—of his own work. All the other best known moderns are stars in this delightful crown.

An Able Study of the Famous Bronte Family

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"Pattern for Genius," by Edith Ellsworth Kinsley. [Dutton, $3.]

A famous photographer experiments with effects by placing a beautiful living model in a painting of Renoir's and doing it so cleverly that you can hardly tell where the painting ends and the photograph begins. Edith Kinsley has done much the same thing in her fascinating study of the members of the Brontë family.

She uses their own words as found in their novels and letters to bring them back to life, adding her own only to make a fully rounded book. And her own prose is so dramatic, sonorous yet simple, and so lucid that in reading one can hardly tell where she begins and the Brontës leave off.

Oddly enough, it was supposed by their father that Branwell Brontë, the only son, was to be the genius. No especial talents other than the Victorian ones of sewing, cooking, and managing a house were expected from the five daughters, two of whom died while children. Yet today it is Charlotte, Anne, and Emily who are remembered, not their erratic, violent tempered brother.

Indeed, if posterity thinks of him it is because the only portrait in oils of Charlotte in existence was done by him. He might have excelled in music, writing, and painting, for he was gifted in all three, had it not been for his undisciplined nature.

This book is memorable for its recounting of the amazing childhood of the Brontë girls, for its resurrection of the English scene of the early 19th century, and for the sympathetic understanding of the genius and characters of Charlotte and Emily, as well as Anne and the remarkable Maria. It is a story to remember.

WARRING HARLAN FACTIONS TO JOIN IN PEACE PARLEY

Grand Jury Quiz Ordered in Fatal Rioting.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Judge Gilbert.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Harlan, Ky., July 14.—Representatives of the striking United Mine Workers of America and the Harlan County Coal Mine Operators' association will meet tomorrow on neutral ground in Knoxville in an effort to settle Harlan's labor strife.

The plan for a peace parley was announced soon after a special grand jury was called by Harlan county Circuit Judge James M. Gilbert to investigate the clashes Wednesday between the soldiers and the U. M. W. A. pickets, members of John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations.

In the clashes one man was killed and five were wounded, including a National Guard captain. A total of 246 alleged rioters have been arrested as a result of the outbreak. Approximately 200 of these are still in the Harlan county jail, unable to provide bond.

Streets to Be Patroled.

To guard against possible trouble tomorrow when several of the forty-three mines will turn loose a $67,000 pay roll, Gen. Elerbee W. Carter, state commander of the National Guard, also announced his troops will patrol all highways and streets in and near Harlan. If necessary, the general declared, he will close all of Harlan county's eighty saloons, liquor stores, and beer taverns.

Tomorrow also is pay day for the guardsmen. They will have $33,000 to spend. In addition guard officers are distributing $20,000 to local merchants for the troops' supplies. This means $120,000 in fresh money will be circulating through the streets of Harlan in the morning.

Tomorrow's meeting between the operators and the U. M. W. A. will be the first since negotiations were broken off on June 9. The parley was suggested last Saturday by William Turnblazer of Jellico, president of District 19, U. M. W. A. W. T. Cunningham, president of the operators' association, informed Turnblazer that tomorrow would be a suitable day.

Troops Sent in May 15.

Negotiating committees from each side began discussions on May 15, the day Gov. A. B. Chandler sent the troops here in order to enforce the right of nonunion miners to work. The only issue is the closed shop.

All except two of Harlan's forty-three mines are at full production, producing as much coal as they did in the best years. Fourteen have a closed shop contract. The others, including the two that are closed, have not. Only one of those which signed up is a member of the association. Harlan miners are said to average between $8 and $12 a day on a five day week.

Cunningham stressed the point that the plan to resume negotiations was arranged by the operators and the U. M. W. A. before the intervention today of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. Each side received a telegram from Mme. Perkins in which she urged that they get together on mutual grounds within twenty-four hours in the best interests of the public and themselves.

Gov. Chandler Confers.

Gov. Chandler conferred late today in Frankfort with two federal investigators assigned to the Harlan area by Attorney General Frank Murphy and with Kentucky's attorney general, Hubert Meredith. The governor said he would discuss the situation in general with the federal men, Henry A. Schweinhaut and Welly K. Hopkins, tomorrow.

Commenting on the meeting scheduled tomorrow at Knoxville between operators' and union representatives, the governor said, "Good, that's all right." Chandler previously had announced he and Murphy might "get together and try to solve" Harlan's problems. He said he and the attorney general discussed the situation by telephone yesterday.

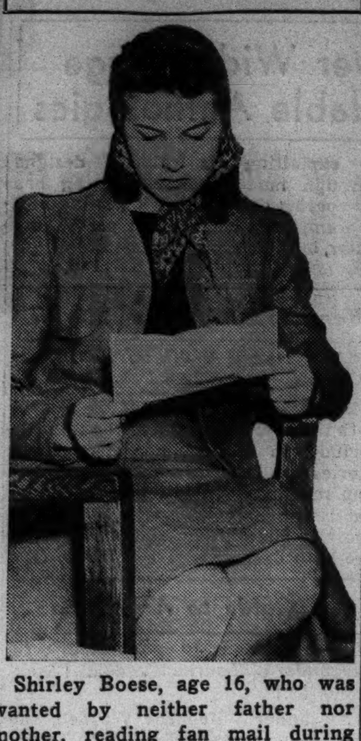
A FRIEND INDEED DOES GOOD DEED ONCE TOO OFTEN

Anthony C. Kotrich, 6850 Riverside avenue, Berwyn, said yesterday that he will think twice before he helps another friend in distress. He helped one Tuesday night and it caused him plenty of trouble.

Kotrich was summoned to a cabin camp near the town of Justice where his friend, Edward Huegel, 316 North Menard avenue, was confined indoors because a couple of girl friends Huegel had picked up stole his pants. On his way Kotrich found the women who tried to thumb a ride with him and took them back to the camp. The camp owner summoned the Willow Springs police while Kotrich sought to induce Huegel to go home. A struggle ensued. It was in progress when the police arrived. They arrested Huegel, the two women, and Kotrich, too.

At a hearing before Justice of the Peace Frank J. Pendel in the Willow Springs highway police station the women, Mrs. Florence Miller, 7322 South Oakley avenue, and Mrs. Helen Whitney, 2535 46th street, were fined $200 each. The fines were suspended and they were placed on probation for a year. Kotrich was cleared, and Huegel was sent home with advice not to get his friends into trouble again.

Read Fan Mail



Shirley Boese, age 16, who was wanted by neither father nor mother, reading fan mail during court hearing yesterday.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Mrs. Edna Elmstrom, Shirley's mother, also reading the mail.

Shirley Boese, 16 years old, who is wanted by neither her father nor her mother, found out yesterday that a number of persons would like to take care of her—including a sprinkling of middle aged men. Shirley spent most of a court hearing reading letters sent her after her story became public property.

Judge Rudolph Desort told her yesterday that she must wait until Sept. 18 to learn what private school she will attend. Meanwhile she will remain with her mother, Mrs. Edna Boese Elmstrom, 8020 Vernon avenue.

Five nights a week, Judge Desort told Shirley, she may remain out until 11 o'clock; one night she may come in at 2 a. m., and on the other night her mother can say whether she goes out or stays home. Shirley's father, Roy, also is remarried. He lives at 4477 Elston avenue.

A PET FANCIER'S WIFE TELLS HOW WOES MULTIPLIED

The married life of Bertha and John Suchy was peaceful and happy from 1910 until 1932, Mrs. Suchy, 50 years old, testified yesterday before Judge John F. Bolton. Then her husband brought home two rabbits and two pigeons. She didn't object when Suchy, a garage owner, took them proudly into the attic of their home at 9027 South Green street.

At first, Mrs. Suchy said, it wasn't so bad. Maybe a rabbit was born now and then, or a few pigeons, but they could always be eaten or given away. But by the end of 1933, when she finally left Suchy to his furred and feathered friends, there were more than 250 rabbits and 200 pigeons, cooing and tramping around overhead, day and night. The noises made her nervous, she testified.

Judge Bolton took the Suchys into chambers and after a conference it was decided that Suchy would withdraw his bill for divorce and that Mrs. Suchy's bill would be granted. Mrs. Suchy was awarded weekly alimony of $5 for a year. Then she went to her home at 5216 Emerald avenue, while Suchy went home to 7817 South Sangamon street, where he still keeps a few rabbits and pigeons. Attorney Victor Frolich represented Suchy and Attorney William T. McNeill was the wife's counsel.

SUSPEND ORDER CENSORING SHORT WAVE BROADCAST

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—The Federal Communications commission today suspended its rule requiring that international broadcasts "reflect the culture of this country" and "promote international good will, understanding, and coöperation."

Acting Chairman Thad H. Brown announced suspension of the rule, which critics had said tended toward censorship, as the commission opened hearings on it.

Brown said the suspension was decreed "pending an opportunity to hear and consider the evidence, views, and arguments to be presented on the issues in this hearing." He read a statement saying the commission "has no desire, purpose, or intention of setting itself up as a board of censorship, and that it does not and will not exercise any such jurisdiction."

Zoo Dresses Up Bolivar and Rollo for Gift Day

Rollo, a baboon, and Bolivar, a Capuchin monkey, are having a sad time these days in the Chicago Zoological park in Brookfield. They are being forced to stay clean and to remain apart from their madcap companions. The reason is that tomorrow they will be given to park visitors as part of the park's new Sunday program. A pair of love birds and a pair of zebra finches are to be given away, too.

PRESIDENT ASKS ACTION AGAIN ON NEUTRALITY ACT

Roosevelt and Hull Pleas Sent to Congress.

from those supplies which, under every rule of international law, they should be able to buy in all neutral countries, including the United States.

Those Dependent Countries.

"It means also that some of those countries which have only limited facilities for the production of arms, ammunition, and implements of war are put in a position of increased dependence."

Mr. Hull insisted that his program was based on a firm intention of keeping this country from being drawn into war. The way to accomplish this objective, he maintained, is for the United States to use its influence to prevent the outbreak of war. The secretary's message declared:

"In the present grave conditions of international anarchy and of danger to peace, in more than one part of the world, I profoundly believe that the first great step towards safeguarding this nation from being drawn into war is to use whatever influence it can, compatible with the traditional policy of our country of noninvolvement, so as to make less likely the outbreak of a major war.

"This is a duty placed upon our government which some may fail to perceive or choose to reject. But it must be clear to every one of us that the outbreak of a general war increases the dangers confronting the United States. This fact cannot be ignored."

Replies to Borah Argument.

With respect to the argument of Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] and other noninterventionists that the sale of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to nations engaged in war is immoral, Secretary Hull said:

"As a matter of fact almost all sales of arms and ammunition made in recent years by our nationals have been made to governments whose policies have been dedicated to the maintenance of peace, but who have felt the necessity of creating or of augmenting their means of national self-defense, thereby protecting otherwise helpless men, women, and children in the event that other powers resort to war.

"In the face of the present universal danger all countries, including our own, feel the necessity of increasing armament, and small countries in particular are dependent upon countries like the United States which have the capacity to produce armaments. Our refusal to make it possible for them to obtain such means of necessary self-defense in a time of grave emergency, would contribute solely towards making more helpless the law-abiding and peace-devoted peoples of the world.

"If such action is moral, and if, on the contrary, sales of the means of self-defense for the protection of peaceful and law abiding peoples are immoral, then a new definition of morality and immorality must be written. This task might be left to the proponents of the arms embargo."

Borah Sees War Peril.

Senator Borah said the foreign relations committee had considered all the arguments of Secretary Hull. "We can't escape the fact that, whatever we think about it, the world situation makes the sale of arms a special advantage to certain nations and a disadvantage to others," he said, "and inevitably will pull us into a European conflict."

Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] said "the President and Mr. Hull have made crystal clear they prefer England and France and their allies in case of war, and they will grant them every aid, and trust to luck that they may overcome their enemies. We might be sympathetic with their desires, but this would not be neutrality."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], a leading neutrality advocate, said the Hull program departed from existing law only with respect to the proposal to repeal the arms embargo and to give the President discretionary power to proclaim combat zones which American ships could not enter.

Another phase of the administration's war policy received a set back today when the senate foreign relations committee delayed action on the Pittman Japanese sanctions resolution and demanded an opinion as to its legality from Secretary Hull. The Pittman resolution would empower the President to impose a uni-lateral embargo on shipments of munitions, oil, gasoline, iron, steel, and scrap metal to Japan. The basis for such action would be Japan's discrimination against the rights of American nations in China in violation of the nine power pact of 1922.

Senator Johnson called the Pittman resolution a "prelude to war."

HOT WATER TANK HURLED INTO AIR BY BLAST; 3 DIE

Burlington, Vt., July 14.—(AP)—Two men and a girl, 9 years old, were killed tonight when a copper water heating tank was catapulted into the air and hurled along the eighth fairway from a burning building at the Lake Champlain club on the lake shore.

With a terrific roar the 6 foot tank, 18 inches in diameter, burst from a small clubhouse. Traveling horizontally, it struck T. Russell Brown, 51, club manager, and Edward H. Thornton, 46, of Burlington, who were standing 15 feet away, smashed into a nearby garage, and then hit Suzanne Kelley, who was standing in a group with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Justin Kelley of Burlington.

It is believed that fire in the building converted water in the tank into steam which blew out both ends of the tank and sent the cylindrical part flying through the air.

MILK DEALERS TO FIGHT MOVE FOR PRICE HIKE

Charge Farmers Plot to Boost Income.

Milk dealers in Chicago announced last night they will fight any effort of producers to force an increase in milk prices. The announcement followed reports that the Pure Milk association, comprising the majority of the producers in the Chicago milk shed, was planning to demand a showdown in the controversy over prices paid to farmers.

Paul Potter, secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers, Inc., said there is no need for the companies to raise existing prices, which are now 11 cents a quart for delivery and 9 cents in stores.

Charges Farm Plot.

"The farmers are trying to stir up trouble by demanding that the dealers pay them higher prices," he said. "They say that the heat and unfavorable conditions have reduced the supply of milk and that they must ask the companies for an increased price. That is not so. There is still enough milk. Producers know it. Dealers are going to resist any attempt to bring about an increase in prices."

Arthur H. Lauterbach, manager of the Pure Milk association, denied that strife between the producers and farmers had reached an ultimatum stage. The association's directors have been meeting daily to consider a solution to the price problem, he said.

Disagree on Farmers' Share.

Lauterbach said that of the 11 cents paid by the customer less than 3 cents goes to the producer. Dealers' representatives refuted this figure, estimating the farmers' price at about 3¼ cents a quart. About 6½ cents goes for labor and the remainder for distributors' expenses.

Lauterbach's association and the Chicago Milk Producers' Council, Inc., which are said to represent about 90 per cent of the milk industry in the Chicago market, brought about by their requests recently a series of public hearings in Chicago to consider a marketing agreement under the direction of the department of agriculture. Thomas E. Courtney, chairman of the council, said yesterday he had been informed the department's decision would be ready in about ten or twelve days.

JOHN D. ALLEN RESIGNS FROM SCHOOL BOARD

John D. Allen, vice president of the Brinks Express company, said yesterday he had notified Mayor Kelly of his resignation as a member of the board of education. Allen was appointed to the board a month ago by the mayor upon the recommendation of the citizens' advisory committee on schools.

Allen said the press of business would make it necessary for him to be away from Chicago a good part of the time and that he would be unable to devote sufficient time to school affairs. His resignation leaves two vacancies. Samuel Levin, labor union official, has been nominated by the mayor to fill one of them.

BODY RECOVERED FROM LAKE.

The body of Joseph Loubek, 55 years old, 2310 South Troy street, was washed ashore last night at the foot of Greenwood street in Evanston. Loubek had been missing since July 6.

LOP 100 MILLIONS FROM VALUATION OF TRANSIT LINES

Engineer Puts Total at $102,000,000.

A 100 million dollar reduction in the valuation asked by the transit lines on their properties was recommended yesterday to the council local transportation committee. The report, made by a private engineer, George E. Goldthwaite, at the direction of the committee and the city's engineering staf proposed a valuation, excluding cash, of $102,000,000 for the combined properties of the surface and elevated lines.

The transit lines' three man negotiating committee on June 26 proposed a value of approximately $200,000,000. The companies' recommendation, made in their proposal for a unified traction franchise, set the valuation figure at $220,000,000, but this included nearly $20,000,000 of cash in renewal funds. The lines also asked for an 8 cent street car fare.

Breakdown of Estimate.

Goldthwaite's figures showed a value of $70,000,000 for the surface lines and $32,000,000 for the elevated lines. His estimates were made on the basis of the original costs of the properties less depreciation. He estimated the worth of the bus company on the original cost basis less depreciation at $5,000,000. Goldthwaite added, however, that in view of the substantial earnings of the bus company, it might be valued at more than $8,000,000. He said the proposed unified transit company, which would buy the bus company, would be justified in paying more than $5,000,000 for the properties.

On the basis of Goldthwaite's figures, the book value of the unified transit company—elevated, surface, and bus lines—would be approximately $130,000,000 including cash resources.

Douglas Has Own Figures.

Ald. Paul H. Douglas [5th] presented his own valuation estimate. Douglas said that on the basis of original cost less depreciation, the combined worth of the surface lines and elevated lines should not exceed $100,000,000, excluding cash.

In Federal court yesterday Thomas Marshall, attorney representing the transit negotiators, said the city has refused to carry on real negotiations for a unified franchise. Marshall was replying to William H. Sexton, city attorney, who told Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson that unless the companies lowered their valuation and modified other franchise proposals, the city would ask foreclosure sale of the properties July 24. The court hearing was continued to July 24.

NEW BID SYSTEM TO GUARD ARMS AGAINST SPYING

Washington, D. C., July 14.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today acted to speed up the defense expansion program and to conceal military secrets from foreign spies.

He signed a bill permitting the war department to purchase plane parts and armament without publicly advertising for bids and issued a proclamation suspending the eight-hour work day in the construction of naval and air bases in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

The President's proclamation paved the way for earlier completion of defense outposts in the Pacific and Atlantic at a cost of $150,000,000. The army and navy high commands at once began planning completion of a string of bases from the Atlantic through the Panama canal to the Aleutian islands, off Alaska.

In the Pacific, speed was ordered on construction of bases at Palmyra, Johnston, and Midway islands, and at Kodiak and Sitka, Alaska. These defenses, linked to those at Hawaii, will form a first line of defense against any attack from the Pacific.

The war department announced the selection of Tampa, Fla., as the site for a 10 million dollar air base and Mobile, Ala., as the site of an 87 million dollar air depot.

ALL-STAR GAME MAKES GRIFFITH A CHANGED MAN

Homer Runs Team Notre Dame Style.

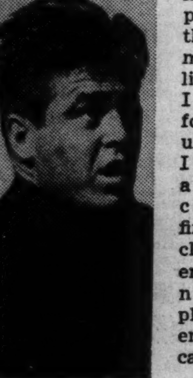
It's Beinor Day

MAYOR FRANK W. BRUGGEMANN of Harvey, Ill., has proclaimed today Joseph Edward Beinor day to further the former Notre Dame tackle's campaign in the Tribune's All-Star football poll. A torchlight parade led by the Thornton Township High school band and several drum and bugle corps and floats will be held in the Harvey business district tonight.

Beinor will be interviewed at noon today over W-G-N from the stage of the Paramount theater in Hammond, Ind.

BY HOMER GRIFFITH.
[Southern California football player and member 1934 All-Star team.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—When I trotted out on Soldiers field one night in the summer of 1934 I experienced one of the most exciting moments in my life. Not only was I to play football for the first time under lights but I was also to be a barking signal caller for the first time and exclusively a blocker, whereas I had nearly all my playing experience as a ball carrier.



Homer Griffith.

The presence of the Chicago Bears, world's professional champions, didn't awe me as much as it should a country boy from Hollywood, however. I had played on two championship teams at Southern California and in two Rose Bowl victories and at the end of my college days had taken part in two games in California against the Bears.

His Voice Gets a Workout.

Being overbalanced with ball carriers on his college All-Star team, Coach Noble Kizer of Purdue decided to make a quarter back, Notre Dame style, out of me for the game with the Bears. Although I had called signals in the past, it had always been in the huddle. I'd never tried to dominate a team with the force of my voice as a Notre Dame quarter back is taught to do and I was sure that the first time I opened my mouth nothing but a thin squeak would come out.

Although I didn't have much faith in my vocal efforts, I gained confidence early in the game when I was lucky enough to get off a fifty-five yard quick kick that went out of bounds on the Bears' 2 yard line. They kicked back to me at safety and I got down to their 25 yard line. Although we fumbled on the first play and lost our scoring chance we knew from then on that we didn't need to be afraid of them because they were world's champions.

Game Is a Draw.

The game turned out to be mainly a punting duel. Our ball carrying star was Joe Laws of Iowa and although we made six first downs to the Bears' three the game ended in a scoreless tie.

Since the first game, the series has developed into something of a scoring race. I certainly would like to be back in Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 30 this year and see if the new crop of All-Stars can carry on the high scoring established by last year's team which whipped the Washington Redskins, 28 to 16.

Besides having the thrill of playing against the Bears, I got a great kick out of teaming up with some of the boys who had been keen rivals of the Trojans in the past. Mike Sebastian, half back, Joe Skladany, an end, and Frank Walton, guard, of Pittsburgh, which had been a 35 to 0 Southern California victim in the Rose bowl, were on our side this time. Our old rival, Notre Dame, supplied three great players, Kitty Gorman, center; Nick Lukats, full-back, and Ed Krause, tackle, and I never associated with three better men on or off the field.

Injury Ends Football Days.

Later I signed with the Chicago Cardinals as a left half back and played alongside of other old rivals, among them the hard hitting full back, Mike Mikulak, who had played three years against Southern California on Oregon's eleven. Before playing in the All-Star game I had received my B. S. degree in mechanical engineering and had a job with the state engineering department.

After the game I went into life insurance which I combined in the fall with pro football. My football days ended in Long Beach, Cal., in 1935 when I suffered a back injury while playing for the Westwood Cubs.

Since then I've been in the automobile insurance business and am now with an insurance adjusting concern in Los Angeles.

ATHLETICS' TWO BIG INNINGS BEAT SOX AGAIN, 7 TO 3

Radcliff Helps Foe with Fielding Lapses.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Athletics, who are supposed to be nice young men not averse to being kicked around by their league members, rose up again wrathfully yesterday and took the recently hot White Sox for another ride. The Sox, apparently in the dumps as the result of being robbed of an eight run lead the day previous, took the rough treatment gracefully and finally folded up under a 7 to 3 beating.

The decision was officially lost by Jack Knott, his third of the year, but the Macks weren't satisfied by shelling the ex-Brownie to cover. They held something in reserve, letting Johnny Marcum, once a member of their troupe, have it in the ninth, three surplus runs scooting home when Sam Chapman drilled a drive into the seats. It duplicated a smash with which Frank Hayes had rounded out a four run rally against Knott in the fifth.

A Rare Day for Ross.

The Sox attack was so feeble that Lee [Buck] Ross, who started, was able to hang on until the finish, and this was a rare experience for the young fellow. It was the first time this season he had gone the route and was his second victory against seven defeats.

Ross' work was so tricky that for six innings he could be squeezed for only three singles, one of which followed a pass and produced a run. The Sox really earned the next run—three hits in the seventh doing the trick—but the run by which they merely delayed the inevitable in the ninth was registered without so much as one hit.

The first three innings were conducted not only scorelessly but speedily. Only one hit dropped into the Sox bag, this a single with which Jack Hayes opened the game. During the same stretch the Macks made various threats, but without success. Siebert singled with two out in the first. Kreevich made a two base muff of Frank Hayes' fly to open the second and a moment later made amends with a shoestring catch of Chapman's liner. Moses walked to open the third and after two were out Johnson singled, but Knott again eluded serious complications.

Two Drives Elude Radcliff.

A pass to Kuhel, his steal of second, and a single by Walker fixed up a run for the Sox in the fourth, but the A's fifth made everything look different. Radcliff lost Moses' fly for a two base hit. After Ambler had sacrificed, Siebert also flied to right and Radcliff lost this one for a double, Moses scoring. Johnson doubled legitimately and Siebert counted. Frank Hayes picked out a spot in the left field pavilion for his season's eighth homer and two more registered, making it 4 to 1.

Marcum Drives In Appling.

The third Sox hit off Ross turned up in the fifth. Tresh singled to right

Earlier Chicago.

An interesting document was brought to light during the celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the Carson Pirie Scott & Co. store in Chicago. The rules for employés of their first store read as follows:

"Store must be open from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. the year round.

"Store must be swept; counters, base shelves, and showcases dusted. Lamps trimmed, filled, and chimneys cleaned; pens made; doors and windows opened; a pail of water, also a bucket of coal brought in before breakfast [if there is time to do so] and attend to customers who call.

"Store must not be opened on the Sabbath unless necessary, and then only for a few minutes.

"The employé who is in the habit of smoking Spanish cigars, being shaved at the barber's, going to dances and other places of amusement will surely give his employer reason to be suspicious of his integrity and honesty.

"Each employé must not pay less than $5 per year to the church and must attend Sunday school regularly.

"Men employés are given one evening a week for courting and two if they go to prayer meeting."

PICARD TO MEET NELSON TODAY FOR P. G. A. TITLE

Henry Beats Metz, 1 Up; Harrison Loses, 9 and 8.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flushing, N. Y., July 14.—Byron Nelson, who holds one big golf championship, and Henry Picard, who never has won one, for all the times that he has been close, will play 36 holes tomorrow for the twenty-second national professional title at the Pomonok Country club.

To own either the American open or professional is the life ambition of every competing pro. To own both at the same time is a feat hitherto accomplished by only one man—Gene Sarazen, who took both in 1922. Tomorrow Nelson has the opportunity to duplicate Gene's achievement. He gained the right by running away from Ernie Harrison of Oak Park, Ill., 9 and 8, in one of today's 36 hole semi-finals.

Henry Has to Work.

Picard, a contender in every tournament he has entered since he made big time golf a serious business in 1933, earned his first national final chance today with a one up victory over Dick Metz, the other Chicago survivor. To say he earned it is pure understatement. If the tall Hershey, Pa., professional were being paid today on the basis of the labors he was forced to by the game Metz, he would have deserved double overtime.

Five up at the end of the morning nine, three to the good at the eighteenth, and four up on the twenty-eighth tee, it seemed that Pic might coast in almost as easily as Nelson did. Then Metz went to work, kept plugging until he stood only one down on the thirty-sixth tee. But the best he could do on the home hole was a half in par fours, after which he smilingly salaamed before Picard.

Picard Pleases Crowd.

Picard, acknowledged one of the smoothest practitioners in the game, this afternoon made two gallery-pleasing gestures. One occurred at the 509 yard thirty-third, where Metz had struck a niblic third up to within a yard. Picard's third was 16 feet away. After hitting the cup on his putt he walked over, and conceded the hole by picking up Dick's ball and handing it to him. They don't do that sort of thing in this league. The concession in this case made Picard only 2 up with three holes to go.

The other Picard move came on the twenty-third when he discovered a strange club in his bag, violating the 14 club law. He immediately told Metz about the surplus, pointing out that he couldn't understand it himself. The club was a sand wedge of a brand different from that Henry carries. Metz asked him to forget it. The committee, of course, did not, eventually discovering that some member, in looking over clubs in the shop during the luncheon intermission, had inadvertently slipped the odd club into Henry's quiver.

Nelson Keeps Up Fast Pace.

Nelson's rout of Harrison was run at the same swift pace Byron, winner of last month's triple playoff for the open, has been holding almost since the tournament started. Even as he maintained that tempo, so did the lanky Ernie, a bit speedy himself until today's slow-down. Byron was 6 up at the intermission, scoring a medal 65, seven under par. In the afternoon he was out in 32 and then halved the 28th to end it. For 156 holes in this show Nelson is 28 under par.

Picard himself is 30 shots below standard figures for the 168 holes he has worked. Henry had a 138, six under, for today's 36 holes, while Metz, back in 67 this afternoon, had 140 for the day.

Harrison 26 Under Par.

Harrison, playing in the first P. G. A. of his life, made a grand showing. He tied with three others for the tournament medal, and for the 157 holes he played in the tournament he was 26 under par.

Nelson and Picard never have met before in the P. G. A. Two years ago, however, they were matched in the final of the $12,000 Belmont, Mass., match play tournament. Byron won

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Twelve horses will run today in Arlington Park's Lassie stakes, America's richest race for 2 year old fillies. From the east, from Kentucky and from Texas these well bred youngsters have come to match their speed for a prize of $31,900, of which $20,820 will go to the winner.

The entry of War Beauty and Jeanne d'Arc, two daughters of Man o' War owned by John Keene of Kentucky, will share the betting support with Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Now What. Though the unbeaten Keene fillies have shown sensational speed, each has started only once and there is a possibility that they may need a little more racing before beating an experienced stake winner such as Vanderbilt's representative.

Kentuckians Confident.

Keene's Kentucky friends entertain no such doubt, however. They're backing these blue grass fillies with complete confidence and are going as far as to predict that the entry will run one-two.

Vanderbilt arrived from the east Thursday night and was out at the stables the first thing yesterday morning to get a look at Now What. This young sportsman has owned some mighty fine fillies but he likes this one even better than Good Gamble, the stake winner he sent to the races several years ago.

"Every one's trying to scare me with those Keene fillies," Vanderbilt said. "They must be pretty good. But I still think a lot of Now What. She's the best filly I ever owned."

Those who saw her win the Demoiselle stakes at Empire City were inclined to agree with Vanderbilt's estimate.

Annie Alone Runs for Nashes.

Other strong contenders which were brought in from the east are Mrs. Payne Whitney's Piquet and C. V. Whitney's Burning Bright. The former is expected to go to the post at about 6 to 1 odds and the latter at about 12 to 1.

Chicago will have a speedy representative in Annie Alone, property of Pat and Dick Nash. This fleet filly surprised the crowd last Saturday by making a runaway of a race in which Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's stake winner, Drury Lane, was the odds on favorite.

In addition to the Keene horses Kentucky will be represented by Hal Price Headley's Cutter. This filly was shipped in several days ago after running in the east. The Valdina Farm of Texas will start two of its fillies, Valdina Nymph and Valdina Gold.

Ah! A Dark Horse.

Pimlico Queen, a surprise entry owned by Frank Garrett of Baltimore, is regarded as a dark horse. She came in from the east with two victories to her credit in the only starts of her career. The field of twelve will be completed by Mrs. E. K. Bryson's Winter Sea and the Millsdale stable's Millgal.

Sonny Workman, Eddie Arcaro, and Maurice Peters will come by plane from the east to ride Now What, Piquet, and Cutter, respec-

FISHING BOOMS IN LAKE OF THE WOODS REGION

Small Mouth Bass Caught by Chicago Angler.

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois fishermen who headed for the Lake of the Woods in Canada and also into northern Wisconsin after the heavy June rains found plenty of excitement and fish, judging from reports from various areas. How the fish of all kinds have been socking lures in the Lake of the Woods is related by Dave Cunningham, a Chicago fisherman, in the following letter:

"Fishing in the Lake of the Woods seems to be better today than it has been for several years. At least that is my impression after a week up there. You will remember the lake that you discovered up here a few years ago and named it Lake Suzanne for your wife. I fished about one week with the guide you had when you discovered that small mouthed bass lake. Actually I had just six days fishing all over the Lake of the Woods. In that time I shipped back to Chicago more than 100 pounds of fish, and returned to the water several times over the limit each day, not including several hundred pickerel [jackfish] ranging from one to five pounds.

Suzanne Has Bass, Too.

"Incidentally, Lake Suzanne still is a wonderful bass lake and known today to very few guides. As I understand it there are less than 10 persons who can find the lake and these guides claim that this is one of the finest small mouth lakes in the country. As you remember, it has a natural bass feeding bottom and a natural rock environment for small mouths. Another thing that interested me during my six days of fishing is the way the bass have increased in the Lake of the Woods. I found it easy to hook more than a limit on nearly every trip."

Supports Different Species.

The Lake of the Woods is big water, capable of supporting many different species of game fish. It's big enough for muskies and large sized ones, too. We found on our fishing trips that the jackfish, as they call pickerel or northern pike, were just a nuisance. Nobody bothers with 'em up there. But they take your bass and muskie lures so you can't help catching them. Lake Suzanne which we found and named when fishing with Keith Hook, a Canadian, produced 33 small mouths for our party in one hour and twenty minutes of casting. On our second visit to the lake we again struck it right and hooked 25 bass [singled hooked lure] in one hour, all of which were turned back.

Mulloy Overwhelms Mako in Spring Lake Net Tourney

Spring Lake, N. J., July 14.—[Special.]—Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., crushed Gene Mako of Los Angeles, second ranking American amateur, in the semi-final round of the Spring Lake invitation tennis tournament today. The score was 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. Frank Parker, holder of the Clifford Hemphill challenge trophy, and John Doeg, former national champion, will meet in the other semi-final tomorrow, the winner to face Mulloy on Sunday. The semi-finals of the doubles tomorrow will send Doeg and Frank Shields against Mulloy and Charles Mattmann.

A Young Girl's Prayer.

Lord, may I have the grace each day
To say some light, enheartening thing—
Some happy little gift of thought
To help another's heart to sing?

I know that I have been remiss,
Letting fly words that sting and smart,
But God! Let me help another soul,
Let me speak from an understanding heart.

And when those pass on before me,
Lord! May I carry on,
May my heart be brightened by memories
And my days on earth prolonged!

So that I can pray for others,
And make life easier for them to bear.
Give me, Lord, an understanding heart
To offer other names in prayer.

BROMWICH, QUIST WINS SINGLES IN DAVIS ZONE TEST

Long Beach, Cal., July 14.—(AP)—Australia swept through the singles matches of the American zone Davis cup play with the Philippines today, but John Bromwich was hard pressed to defeat Felicisimo Ampon, 8-6, 9-7, 6-3. In the first singles match Adrian Quist of Australia defeated Amado Sanchez, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

The Bromwich-Ampon duel lasted nearly two hours and Bromwich had to come from behind to win the first two sets. The 100 pound Filipino youngster, who is less than five feet tall, compared to Bromwich's six feet, two inches, finally faded under the grueling pace and the hot sun.

C. Y. O.-IRELAND FINALE: YOUNG VS. O'SULLIVAN

Cornelius and Patrick Promise Fans a Thrill.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The final bout Wednesday night in Soldiers' field in the international series between the Catholic Youth Organization and the amateur boxing champions from Ireland quite likely will see Cornelius Young, C. Y. O. heavyweight, meet Patrick O'Sullivan. There is no doubt that O'Sullivan will fight for Ireland. He's ready now to step into the ring, and Young, who two years ago won the C. Y. O. and Golden Gloves middleweight championship, is expected to be Coach Paddy Kane's choice at the conclusion of the C. Y. O. training period at Lockport, Ill.

John Lee Breland is the other C. Y. O. heavyweight still listed in the running for the heavyweight berth but Young probably will be chosen to meet O'Sullivan.

Young Much Improved.

Young easily is the most improved fighter on the C. Y. O. squad over his performance last year in the Irish matches when he won the 175 pound international title. Although he weighs only 186 pounds, he hits as hard as any amateur heavyweight we have seen this year.

Cornelius is 20 years of age and he has just finished his sophomore year at St. Norbert's, DePere, Wis., where he is majoring in economics.

In the summer of 1937 Young won his middleweight bout against South America and last summer defeated Dick Hearns of Ireland, who is trainer of the Irish team now in Chicago. Cornelius is a graduate of Tilden Technical High school.

He'll Need Speed, Power.

Young will need all his exceptional speed and power, which he demonstrated yesterday in a workout with Eddie Meleski in the camp at Lewis Holy Name school as his opponent, Patrick O'Sullivan, never has been defeated. O'Sullivan, 6 feet 3 inches tall and well proportioned, is 21 years old. While he started in amateur boxing only a year ago, he has won fourteen consecutive fights.

The C.Y.O. squad probably will rest this afternoon and will make its annual visit to the nearby Stateville prison. The Irish squad also may visit Lockport in the afternoon to see the Lewis Holy Name School of Aeronautics and the penitentiary. Final boxing periods will be held tomorrow and Monday.

Chicago will honor the Irish team at a reception in Garfield park tomorrow evening and on Monday evening at Davis Square, 45th street and Marshfield avenue. Each program will start with a parade at 7 o'clock. The Irish boxers will be presented at each reception.

The visiting team will be among the guests at the Festival of the Gael in Mills stadium tonight. The combined Irish Alliance is in charge of the program.

12 Fillies Run in Arlington $31,900 Stake

tively. They will be brought from the airport in a special plane and will land at the track just before the first race this afternoon. Porter Roberts is coming over from Detroit to take the mount on Jeanne d'Arc. Johnny Longden will pilot War Beauty.

John Hay Whitney, whose Heather Broom will run in the Classic stakes next Saturday, will arrive this morning to watch the Lassie.

With fair weather predicted, Arlington Park is preparing to handle a crowd of 25,000. The Northwestern railroad will operate special trains at frequent intervals, the first leaving the station at Canal and Madison at 12:15 p. m. and the last at 1:25 p. m.

Calexico Wins Glencoe.

The Glencoe purse, which headed yesterday's program, resulted in a handy victory for C. H. Cleary's Calexico. This brown colt, which at one time last spring was considered of Kentucky Derby calibre, had been unable to win since the Keeneland meeting. He was dropped down in class so far yesterday that few of the bettors could find any horse likely to beat him. So he was installed the 3 to 5 favorite in the six furlong dash.

Under Longden's good handling, Calexico drew clear in the stretch to beat C. E. Hagyard's Rude Awakening by three lengths with the Milky Way farm's Rule All six lengths farther back. Calexico ran the six furlongs in 1:12. In the mutuels he paid $3.40, $2.80, and $2.60.

MOON MULLINS—A SUCCESSFUL TRAVELING MAN

GOSH! MOON AN' LORD PLUSHBOTTOM AIN'T HOME YET?
NO! WELL, I GOT NOBODY TO BLAME BUT MYSELF. I SHOULDA STARTED LORD PLUSHBOTTOM OUT IN LIFE AS I DID THE LATE MR. SCHMALTZ.
THE VERY DAY WE WAS WED, I LAID DOWN THE LAW! I FIRMLY FORBADE HIS SMOKING, IMBIBING AND RUNNING AROUND OF A EVENING TO HIS LODGES, ETC.
AND I SUPPOSE THAT WAS TH' SECRET OF MR. SCHMALTZ'S SUCCESS-
IF HE EVER HAD ANY-YAS! BUT I NEVER LAID EYES ON HIM AFTER THAT.

Trustees Delay Naming Illini Athletic Board

"The athletic situation is still under discussion but the consideration is not completed and no announcement can be made at this time."

This was the formal statement issued late yesterday afternoon in the Blackstone hotel by the trustees of the University of Illinois, who then adjourned their regular monthly meeting until next Friday.

The trustees devoted some time yesterday afternoon to discussion of the policies of the director of athletics and athletic board. It had been anticipated that the members of the athletic board, which includes the director of athletics, Wendell S. Wilson, would either be confirmed or rejected by the trustees. The four members, two from the faculty and two alumni, have been continuing without confirmation which under the by-laws of the athletic association should have been done at the March meeting.

Usually Act During Spring.

In the last eighteen years, confirmation or rejection has taken place at the March meeting 60 per cent of the time. On occasion the board did not take up the subject until April or May and in 1935 the athletic board was not confirmed until October.

Members recommended by the president of the university, Dr. Arthur C. Willard, to succeed themselves, are: Prof. Frederic A. Russell, chairman; Prof. Frank E. Richart, who also is the faculty representative in the Western conference for Illinois; J. P. Kratz of Monticello, and W. E. C. Clifford of Champaign. These men name the director of athletics but all must be approved by the board of trustees.

It is believed that the delay in approval of the athletic board is due to the recommendation by the board last November that Robert Zuppke, head football coach, be retired. That recommendation was rejected by the board of trustees Nov. 29.

Trustees Retain Control.

The present athletic board, it is pointed out, might make the same request again but probably would not since the trustees voted 8 to 1 against the recommendation last November. By delaying confirmation of the members of the board, the trustees definitly retain control of the athletic situation for the members could be rejected at any meeting.

Tiny Mite Not Quite Big Enough

with one out, but Steinbacher, batting for Knott, forced him and Jack Hayes flied to Chapman. The next Sox blow started something. Appling singled to right with one out in the seventh. McNair thought he could surprise the Macks with a bunt, but it didn't work. Tresh caromed a single off Ross' shin and Marcum singled to left, Appling scoring. A pass to Jack Hayes loaded the bases, but Kuhel bounced to the pitcher.

The Sox almost had a little fun in the eighth. Walker doubled and Appling walked, but two were out at the time and there were three out as soon as McNair could produce a pop to Siebert.

A's Put On a Finish.

Then Marcum took up his unsuccessful last inning chores. Siebert singled and Johnson walked. There was a pause while Catcher Hayes was fouling out, but a lot of action when Chapman whacked his No. 11 homer into the left field seats.

Tresh and Marcum walked to open the ninth and eventually the former scored on Kuhel's liner to Moses.

Johnny Rigney and George Caster, if the latter can recover from a boil on his chin, will start at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the final of the series.

CUBS OPEN LAST HALF OF SEASON IN GAME TODAY

Lee to Oppose Higbe in Quest of No. 10.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 14.—The Cubs tomorrow afternoon will start the second half of their season against the National league, also the second half of their business with the tail-end Phillies. Big Bill Lee will make his second try for his tenth victory of the season and probably will be opposed by Walter Kirby Higbe, who played the first six weeks of the campaign with the Cubs.

The Cubs will be the first team to start the second half of its calendar, though the team has played two ties, and only five double-headers, one of which still is to be played off. This is due to a remarkable break in weather, said to be unparalleled in major league history. Since opening their season the Cubs have played on every scheduled date, including two exhibitions. No other team ever has shown up at ball parks so regularly on half so many scheduled dates, record browsers say.

If the Cubs had a complete and more classy ball club the fact they are ahead of all the teams in the league in total games played—they've played nine games more than have their friends of tomorrow—their single game routine would be of great advantage in the pennant race. But the team isn't fully manned for single games and one shudders to think what would happen if the lads were thrown against a scourge of double-headers.

The Cubs will even the season series if they can beat the Phillies tomorrow. The Phillies have whipped them a half dozen times this year and were ahead when Hugh Mulcahy and Claude Passeau were thrown out of last night's game for fighting. Mulcahy has won four games this year and lost nine. He has whipped the wilted champs for three of his four victories and lost to them for one of his nine defeats.

ALPERT VICTOR IN LEFTHANDERS' GOLF WITH 163

Sam Alpert of Idlewild Country club yesterday successfully defended his championship in the annual state lefthanders' tournament at Brockwood Country club. Alpert finished his double round in 163, five strokes ahead of his closest competitors, Mahlon Shanahan, Itasca Country club, who scored 86-82-168 and Fred Schenk, unattached, who went around in 85-83-168. Other leading scorers among the twenty-eight who competed:

J. P. Horn Jr., unattached, 84-85-169; Elmer Hoffman, Freeport, 84-86-170; Kenneth Franklin, Glen View, 91-82-173; Carl Kammeyer, Calumet, 86-87-173; Edward Kobart, unattached, 89-85-174; Leonard Wood, Galesburg, 89-85-174; Gene Barnes, Chicago park district, 88-86-174.

SIX GIANTS OF SKY TO LEAD FLEET OF UNITED AIR LINES

Dinner in San Francisco; Breakfast in New York.

BY GUY MURCHIE JR.

W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, announced yesterday that his company will buy six Douglas DC-4 airliners like the newly tested 42-passenger giant that visited Chicago a few weeks ago.

They will cost about $500,000 apiece. Expected growth of the aviation industry between now and 1941, when the new ships should be delivered, has encouraged United to make the investment, Patterson said.

Major Air Lines in Deal.

American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines, Pan American, and Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., were parties with United to a contract with Douglas Aircraft company of Santa Monica, Cal., for construction and testing of the four engined, thirty-three ton ships.

Before the contract is signed several changes in specifications from the present experimental DC-4 are to be requested by United. The passenger cabin must be supercharged. Studies have been completed indicating the practicality of maintaining a cabin air pressure in DC-4's equivalent to that of 8,000 feet above sea level while actually flying at 15,000 feet.

Dine in West; Breakfast in East.

The maximum speed of the DC-4 flying level through still air is 237 miles an hour, while its normal cruising speed [using 61 per cent of its power] is 191 miles an hour. Normal cruising range, with forty-two passengers and 3,000 pounds of baggage and cargo, is 1,425 miles, or half way across the continent. Eight fuel tanks carry 2,050 gallons of fuel.

United expects to use the DC-4 fleet principally for sleeper service between New York and California. Even with two or three contemplated stops en route, it is expected about two hours will be saved in coast-to-coast time. Dinner in San Francisco followed by breakfast in New York will become a scheduled practice.

E. H. Dewey, Artist and Cousin of Adm. Dewey, Dies

Canton, Ill., July 14.—(AP)—E. H. Dewey, 89 years old, a relative of Admiral George Dewey [their grandfathers were brothers] died at his home here last night. Dewey was widely known for his animal pictures which he started painting at 20. They are of prize winning horses, cattle, deer, and pets. Probably his most famous painting was that of "Dan Patch," the famous pacing stallion. Dewey was born near Canton Oct. 30, 1850.

FIVE PLANES HUNT PAIR LOST 11 DAYS IN QUEBEC WILDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., July 14.—Five airplanes were rushed north into the wilds of Quebec and Labrador today to search for Pilot Cliff Frechette and Edward Gaynor, a radio operator. They have been missing since July 3, when they began a 250 mile flight from Sandgirt lake to Moisie Que., on the north shore of the St. Lawrence river. Bad weather hindered the searchers in their work. The two men were flying a plane of Newfoundland Skyways, Ltd. They were returning to the Moisie base after working with an exploration party in the northern Quebec district.

FIGHT ADMISSION OF CONFESSION IN JOB SALE TRIAL

The jury in the Criminal court of Judge William J. Lindsay was dismissed yesterday afternoon while counsel argued over the admissability of a confession by Stephen Idzikowski in the second police job sale trial involving Idzikowski and former Ald. Frank E. Konkowski of the 26th ward.

Idzikowski was an aid of the former alderman. The state sought to introduce a statement in which he declared that he and Konkowski took money on promises to provide jobs in the police department. Yesterday Idzikowski testified that he signed the confession after he had been promised it would be used only against Konkowski and that the state would go easy with him.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Shrubs in Bloom.

July 14, 1939.

TWO flowering shrubs are adding touches of brilliance to the Du-Page county farm this week. Both are in full flower, one almost hidden in a tangle of thornapple trees in the woods and the other displaying its flowers on the lawn of a farm home.

The shrub which is most conspicuous with its beautiful display of blossoms is the dwarf buckeye. It is less than five feet high, but its oversized white blossoms are from six to eight inches long. The flowers are similar to those of the horsechestnut tree—shaped like tall candelabras. When the giant horsechestnut trees were in flower several weeks ago we noticed how their beautiful blossoms dominated whole gardens and spacious lawns. And now the dwarf buckeye, showing similar flowers long after most of the other trees and shrubs have finished blooming, takes undisputed possession of the post of outstanding flower of the week.

The Prairie Rose.

The second flowering shrub which attracted attention this week was not as easily found as the dwarf buckeye.

It is staging its show in the dense growth of a thornapple thicket. One of the men on the farm told us about seeing a prairie rose bush in flower northeast of the Round pond. We wanted to see it, because the prairie rose is rated as one of our most beautiful wild roses. Even after getting his directions, it took about 15 minutes of hunting to find the shrub, but after seeing the display of pink roses we were not sorry for the extra hike. The prairie rose was covered with at least 150 flowers, some of which had climbed 12 feet over an adjoining red haw tree.

Two weeks ago we found another prairie rose bush growing in another part of the farm. Because it was in the open it was at least ten days ahead of the shrub found in the woods. At the height of its flowering season it bore between 250 and 300 attractive pink flowers.

Geese Eat Corn Leaves.

This spring the men on the farm planted twelve acres of corn in a field adjoining one of the ponds. But when they get ready to harvest that corn they may not need their machinery unless the Canada geese lose their appetite for corn leaves. The geese make their headquarters on this pond.

One of their favorite delicacies is fresh tips of corn plants. Ever since the grain started sprouting, the geese have been raiding a portion of the field, and now some of the corn shoots are gone and others stunted.

No effort has been made to restrain the birds' appetites for corn. The men on the farm decided that the geese require a full menu, and it doesn't make much difference if they forage for their food in the fields or it is poured into their feed troughs. As one of the men said the other day, the corn isn't being stolen, it's just being turned into geese.

URGES COLLEGES TO CO-OPERATE IN SPECIAL FIELDS

Dean Klein Seeks End to Waste.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Regional coöperation to provide better research in special fields and to lead colleges and universities to abandon wasteful and selfish practices was discussed yesterday at the closing sessions of the Institute for Administrative Officers of Higher Education at the University of Chicago.

Dean Arthur G. Klein, college of education, Ohio State university, said that small private colleges may band together in coördinated fashion to maintain themselves against the development of the large and public institution. Professional as well as administrative groups, he said, must take an active part in devising plans.

Coördination Sought.

"This means in effect," he declared, "that the scholarly societies and even the accrediting and standardizing agencies in specific fields will be used by institutional administrations to bring about interinstitutional coördination upon the basis of a realistic knowledge of the degree to which any single institution may support specific research and professional activities."

Dr. R. M. Hughes, president emeritus of Iowa State college, said that business, industry, and government now seek the help of the research they once scorned.

"The day is here," he said, "when universities can no longer cover all fields. Each must select the special fields in which it elects to do the work of high distinction. Here it must employ men of distinction and spend large sums of money."

Urges Federal Test Boards.

Fred J. Kelly, chief of the division of higher education of the United States office of education, advocated the establishment of national examination boards in the professions to standardize the work of the state boards. Much confusion exists, he said, in the efforts to maintain the best standards of professional education, and licensing boards in several states are now joining forces in preparing examinations for applicants from all states.

Ernest V. Hollis, professor of education of the College of the City of New York, said that the conclusions and recommendations of studies of the great foundations are the working outlines today of progressive college and university courses throughout the country.

Public Confidence Increased.

"The $55,000,000 that foundations have given to scientific research and diffusion," he said, "has greatly increased public confidence in both science and the foundation as agencies on the one hand to relieve suffering, promote comfort and convenience, and to lighten toil, and on the other hand to create new sources of wealth, and to stimulate further technological advances."

Carl F. Huth, director of the University of Chicago home study department, called attention to the trend toward more extension and correspondence training and said that greater leisure will produce further requests for service. He urged a separate department for adult education, with the universities in the rôle of consultant and concerned with work and services of university grade.

PLANES OF TWO NATIONS TAKE OFF FOR EUROPE

New York, July 14.—[Special.]—Flying boats of two nations sped eastward for Europe today after takeoffs totally devoid of fanfare.

The French plane Lieutenant de Vaisseau Paris left Port Washington, N. Y., at 5:48 a. m. On board were ten men, including Capt. Henri Guillaumet, Antoine de St. Exupery, the French author, who flew as third pilot, and Louis Couhe, a director of Air France Transatlantique.

The plane was scheduled to follow the northern route without a stop to Biscarosse, France. The nonstop flight is being made in honor of Bastille day, today.

At exactly 7 a. m. the American Export Airlines' flying boat took off from the Floyd Bennett airport seaplane base in Jamaica bay for Botwood, N. F. After a brief stop there Capt. Patrick J. Byrne, commanding a crew of five, will head the plane on its second survey flight to Europe.

Adolph S. Ochs, Publisher, Leaves $12,211,422 Estate

New York, July 14.—[Special.]—Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, who died April 8, 1935, at the age of 77, left an estate of $12,211,422 net, it was revealed today in an estate tax appraisal filed today in the state office building. Public bequests of $405,[illegible]0 are made, the largest being $200,000 to Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati. The will named Mr. Ochs' widow, Mrs. Effie Wise Ochs, who died May 6, 1937, and his daughter, as the residuary legatees. The state will collect estate taxes of $1,694,784, the appraisers estimated.

ONE OF QUINTS HAS WEAK EYE; WEARS A PATCH

CALLANDER, Ont., July 14.—[Canadian Press].—Marie, smallest of the Dionne quintuplets, is wearing a black patch over her left eye, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe's idea being to improve her right eye, which he said was weak.

An eye specialist who examines the children each year found that Marie is slightly myopic. Dr. Dafoe said it was common for a child to have one eye weaker than the other.

The patch is placed over the eye for a few hours daily.

CHICAGO BANKS GET CONTROL OF UTILITY SYSTEM

Trustees of Cities Service Units.

Control of the big public utility system of the Cities Service company yesterday was turned over to two Chicago banks. The Harris Trust and Savings bank was made trustee for all of the common stock and most of the preferred stock of the Cities Service Power and Light company. Under a similar agreement stocks of three natural gas distributing systems were pledged with the City National Bank and Trust company.

Harold Eckhart tells bank's plan.

The step results in shifting control of public utility properties of the system from New York to Chicago.

The action is in line with a policy advocated by THE TRIBUNE. This newspaper has urged establishment of corporation control near the area of operations. Although the Cities Service utility system is far flung, it has many operations in the middle west.

Under both indentures the Cities Service company turned over to the trustee the right to vote the stocks pledged and to apply net income to payment of interest on the subsidiary companies' debentures.

Drop Utility Control.

The step was taken by Cities Service company to divorce itself from control of utility properties and thus gain exemption from provisions of the public utility holding company act. Its action followed authorization of the plan at the annual stockholders' meeting last April 25.

Harold Eckhart, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank's trust department, said the bank plans to exercise its voting power of the stocks and to elect the Cities Service Power and Light company's board of directors. It will also collect income and make payment on the company's outstanding debentures, he said.

"This is no false front," Eckhart asserted. "The bank intends to make full use of the powers vested in its trusteeship. We are now checking the situation closely from all angles so the public, the Cities Service companies, and the bank will be fully protected in respective interests."

Seek Approval of SEC.

Eckhart asserted approval of the new arrangement will be sought soon from the Securities and Exchange commission, which administers the public utility holding company act.

The Cities Service system is a 2 billion dollar enterprise. Direct or indirect control of a number of oil companies through stock ownership is its dominant interest. About 60 per cent of its gross revenue comes from oil operations, 20 per cent from electric utilities, 18 per cent from natural gas properties, and the rest from real estate and other activities.

The parent company owns all of the common stock of Cities Service Power and Light company, except directors' qualifying shares, and 121,429 of the 180,769 preferred shares issued by the subsidiary. This majority or undivided interest in the 121,429 shares of preferred stock was pledged to the Harris Trust along with the common shares. The remaining 59,340 shares of subsidiary preferred stock are held by the public.

Several Companies Involved.

Cities Service company is the top holding company of the system. Its electric utility subsidiaries are grouped for the most part under the Cities Service Power and Light company which controls through stock ownership the Ohio Public Service company, Public Service Company of Colorado, Toledo Edison company, Empire District Electric company, St. Joseph Railway, Light, Heat, and Power company, East Tennessee Light and Power company, and Spokane Gas and Fuel company.

The power and light subsidiary, which has assets of 422 million dollars, serves about 2 million customers in fifteen states.

The three natural gas distributing companies whose stock control was turned over to the City National bank operate near Kansas City. They are the Gas Service, Kansas City Gas, and Wyandotte County Gas companies.

October Egg Prices Sag on Mercantile Exchange

Small hedging sales encountered only weak buying in October eggs on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, and the contract dipped ⅛ cent a dozen to 19 cents. Slow moving supplies burdening the spot market were discouraging to prospective futures purchasers. November butter finished unchanged at 23¾ cents a pound in moderately active trade.

McKesson, Big Drug Concern, Shows Profit

New York, July 14.—[Special.]—McKesson & Robbins, Inc., nationwide drug and liquor company, earned a net profit of $1,336,627 during the half-year in which its affairs went through an exhaustive investigation after the suicide of F. Donald Coster-Musica, its president.

This profit was announced today by William J. Wardall, trustee. It covers the period from Dec. 8, when the company was placed in the hands of the courts, to May 31. It compared with the net profit of $271,752 in the corresponding period of 1938.

The report, which also contained the audit by S. D. Leidesdorf & Co., said the corporation was sound. It recommended reorganization. Wardall said the company had not been irreparably hurt by the manipulations of Coster and his brothers.

Inflated 21 Millions.

Assets at the end of 1938 were inflated $21,025,658, "of which about $2,870,000 was stolen and the balance represented by book entries of fictitious assets which never existed," the trustee said. At the end of 1938 assets topped liabilities by $27,296,030, after elimination of false assets. Real earings in 1938 were $1,376,693. In 1937 they were $2,313,662, and in 1936 they were $2,202,390.

Inventories at the 1938 year-end were $31,366,635. They were checked by independent engineers and independent chemists, who reported that "the company's own products are of high standard quality."

As of Dec. 31, 1938, the audit showed total assets of $68,953,095. Current assets were set at $58,963,432, of which cash was $8,368,585 and receivables $19,228,212. This position was relatively the same on May 31. Total assets were $65,775,634 and current assets were $56,293,679. Cash was $9,269,879 and receivables less reserves $18,187,007.

Liabilities Are Reduced.

Between the year-end and May 31 liabilities of the trustee and the consolidated subsidiaries fell from $11,238,237 to $7,800,054 and liabilities of the parent company from $30,418,827 to $29,764,066. The period ended on May 31 brought a surplus of $915,483, including both expenses and recoveries by the trustee, but no debt service.

Net sales of $59,700,681 were shown from Jan. 1 to May 31, against $58,647,606 in the same period of 1938. Gross profit was $9,108,272, against $9,081,282.

It will be only a matter of weeks before securities of McKesson & Robbins will be readmitted to trading on the New York Stock exchange, it was indicated. The common and preferred stocks and the debentures are listed securities, but the exchange suspended dealings in all three issues immediately after the crude drug frauds were made public.

EMPLOYES OFFER CAPITAL TO KEEP FIRM OPERATING

Belleville, Ill., July 14.—(AP)—Three hundred employés had entered an agreement today to furnish $175,000 working capital to the Enterprise Foundry company here in return for assurances that the company would stay in business in Belleville for at least ten years and would make no wage reductions during that period.

For their advances, employés of the company, which manufactures stoves, will receive interest bearing bonds, secured by a mortgage on the company's plant, maturing in five to ten years. The money will be used for development of new business.

Arthur O. Spoeneman, president of the company, and an employés' committee began negotiations about a month ago when workers brought to the management's attention reports that the company contemplated moving from Belleville. Spoeneman assured them the foundry would not be moved provided the company would receive coöperation from its employés.

Most Foreign Currencies Steady in Terms of Dollar

Most foreign currencies were steady in terms of the dollar yesterday in foreign exchange trading at New York. The British pound, guilder, and French and Swiss francs held fractional gains registered early in the week. The Belgian belga rose slightly, however. A price of 35 cents an ounce for foreign silver was posted yesterday by the treasury department for the fifth consecutive day. The commerce department reported, meanwhile, that silver imports were cut in half the week ended July 7. Imports dropped to $1,161,291, from $2,605,323.

NAZIS BUY NEARLY AS MUCH AMERICAN COTTON AS BRITISH

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—The commerce department reported today that Germany, in recent years one of the United States smaller customers, has bought almost as much American cotton this season as has the United Kingdom, normally one of the largest buyers.

Exports to Germany during the eleven months' period ending June 30 were reported at 306,636 bales, compared with shipments of 395,555 bales to Great Britain. During the like period last season, German purchases totaled 644,642 bales, compared to Britain's 1,521,126 bales. German imports during June totaled 15,575 bales, compared with Britain's 9,853.

A sharp decline in exports to Europe was reflected in total American cotton exports of 3,220,309 bales for the eleven months' period, compared with 5,402,709 in the like period a year ago. Last season's exports, although larger than this season's, were considerably below normal.

Stock Market, SEC May Open New Dickers

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—The possibility of important new negotiations between the Securities and Exchange commission and the New York Stock exchange was raised today when William McChesney Martin, exchange president, said that "something drastic" must be done soon to preserve the usefulness of the stock market.

William McC. Martin.

Martin laid before Jerome N. Frank, SEC chairman, a letter disclosing appointment of a "public examining board" to study creation of brokerage banks, as recently suggested by Frank. The function of brokerage banks would be to protect the securities and funds of brokers' customers.

Members of New Board.

Members of the newly appointed board are W. Randolph Burgess, former technical adviser to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and now vice president of the National City bank, New York; Carle C. Conway, chairman of the board of Continental Can company; Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, Chicago, and Roswell Magill, former undersecretary of the treasury under Secretary Morgenthau. Magill, who resigned from the treasury several months ago to return to teaching at Columbia university, was one of President Roosevelt's leading fiscal advisers.

Martin explained that although the new board would concentrate on the subject of brokerage banks, its work would cover other fields.

Expects Public Impression.

"The findings of a group of this sort will carry great weight with the public," he asserted. "It is the most important study of its kind that ever has been undertaken."

He made it plain that the board of governors of the New York Stock exchange, which, he said, was fully behind him, has been gravely concerned at the decline in the volume of business.

MORGAN FIRM'S PARTNERS GIVEN REFUND ON TAXES

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—J. P. Morgan and six other partners of the New York banking house received refunds totaling $844,442 on their 1933 income taxes from the treasury today.

The refunds were: J. P. Morgan, $338,774; Junius S. Morgan, $45,231; Thomas W. Lamont, $138,783; George Whitney, $44,587; R. C. Leffingwell, $80,254; the late Thomas Cochran, $49,138; and the estate of the late E. T. Stotesbury, $147,675.

Most of the refunds were due to the reclassification of losses on unidentified securities transactions as ordinary business losses instead of capital losses. Until congress changed the capital gain and loss tax provisions last year, deductions for capital losses were strictly limited.

In the case of J. P. Morgan and a few of the others, part of the refunds also were due to the allowance of additional deductions for charitable contributions.

Call Meeting to Discuss Coal Prices for Illinois

Minimum coal prices for the Illinois region will be discussed at a meeting to be held at the Morrison hotel on Monday by the consumers' division of the department of the interior, it was announced yesterday. The prices were established by the National Bituminous Coal commission just before it was dissolved recently. More than 100 middle western consumers, largely purchasers of coal for industrial use, are expected to attend the session.

Am. Woolen Raises Prices of Some Summer Fabrics

New York, July 14.—[Special.]—The American Woolen company today announced a five cent boost in the price per yard of tropical worsteds and gabardines.

CONGRESS APPROVES TVA BOND ISSUE FOR UTILITY PURCHASES

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—Congress finally gave its approval today to legislation enabling the Tennessee Valley Authority to buy Commonwealth and Southern utility properties in three southern states.

The house adopted, by a vote of 208 to 145, a conference report embodying a compromise bill. Republicans characterized it as "a surrender" by the house conferees to Senator Norris [Ind.-Neb.], chief senate conferee and "father of TVA."

The legislation was made ready for the signature of President Roosevelt when the senate quickly approved the report without objection. The President had indicated earlier in the week that the compromise was satisfactory.

The compromise reduced the $100,000,000 bond issue proposed by the senate bill to $61,500,000, the house figure, and earmarked the purposes for which the proceeds could be used.

The bill set aside $46,000,000 as TVA's share of the $78,600,000 contract for public purchase of Commonwealth and Southern's Tennessee Electric Power company. TVA is acting in association with Chattanooga, Nashville, and other municipalities in making this purchase.

TRADE VOLUME LITTLE CHANGED, SURVEY SHOWS

New York, July 14.—(AP)—Retail and wholesale trade were barely affected by the normal midsummer lull this week, Dun & Bradstreet said today in its weekly survey of business conditions.

"Although extraneous influences, particularly political news from abroad, continued to affect buyer sentiment," the review said, "sales results of the last few weeks seemed to be uppermost in the minds of retailers who arrived in central markets to make selections.

"Smaller inventories, combined with expectations of continued gains in sales over last year, were being reflected in increased orders for wholesalers and manufacturers. High temperatures of the last week were a boon to retailers who were attempting to close out their summer stocks.

"The amount and size of orders received by wholesalers attested to the increasingly more optimistic attitude prevailing among retailers. Commitments were running farther into the future and the emphasis on better grade goods appeared to be gaining."

ANOTHER SECRET BALLOT ORDERED BY LABOR BOARD

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—The National Labor Relations board, following a precedent it set yesterday, today ordered an election among Armour & Co. employés at Oklahoma City. Although C. I. O.'s packing house workers' union had submitted membership cards to prove its majority claims, the board ordered a secret ballot to determine whether employés want to be represented by the C. I. O. union in collective bargaining.

In a two to one decision yesterday the board departed from long standing policy of certifying unions on the basis of membership cards. It decided secret ballot elections would be more conclusively satisfactory in bargaining elections.

Chicago Corp. Asset Values Are Reduced

The Chicago corporation, largest middle western investment trust, reported yesterday that its net assets as of June 30 totaled $38,665,143. This was equal to $52.18 a share on convertible preference stock and 20 cents a share on the common. Valuation of the common was after deducting the preference stock at its original stated value of $50 a share plus the current dividend accrual.

Richard F. Wagner reports changes.

Net asset values on Dec. 31, 1938, were $60.19 on the preference stock and $1.57 on the common. The announcement said improvement in the stock market since June 30 brought the asset value of the preference stock to $55.63 a share as of July 13, with the common stock valuation rising to 77 cents a share.

Preferred Stock Retired.

Richard F. Wagner, president, reported that during the six months ended June 30 there were purchased for retirement 16,350 shares of the corporation's preference stock. It was acquired at a cost of $580,190, or an average of $35.49 a share.

Dividend arrearages on the preference stock now amount to 75 cents a share. Payments of 75 cents were made in March and June.

Wagner said the corporation has invested $602,250 in the Coastal Recycling corporation to aid in the building of a repressuring plant near Corpus Christi, Tex., for the recycling [or retreatment] of wet gas and the recovery of gasoline distillate from it.

Expect Lower Auto Output to Closing of Model Year

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—(AP)—Ward's Automotive Reports said today that production of automobile plants "would show substantial declines from now on into August as most manufacturers complete 1939 model runs." Production for the current week was estimated at 61,610 cars and trucks, an increase from last week's holiday-reduced total of 42,782. The industry produced 44,510 units this week a year ago.

FAHEY WARNS ON NEW CUTS IN INTEREST RATES

Opposes Contention of New Deal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 14.—Testimony before the monopoly investigating committee took an unexpected turn today when John H. Fahey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan bank board, warned against any further reduction in interest rates which may discourage thrift.

Fahey's warning ran counter to previous testimony offered on behalf of the New Deal contention that saving must be discouraged and that spending, both public and private, is necessary to achieve prosperity.

Professor Theodore J. Kreps of Stanford university, a committee economist, took exception to Fahey's statement. He advocated lower rates, which, he said, would make borrowing of money more attractive and result in the building of more houses. After Kreps' summation the committee adjourned for the summer. Hearings will be resumed in the fall.

Committee Hears Straus.

In addition to Fahey the committee also heard Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing authority, describe the authority's lending activities for slum clearance by local housing authorities.

Advising against reductions in dividend and interest rates paid by savings institutions which would carry the danger of discouraging thrift, Fahey asserted lower construction costs must be realized to stimulate home building. He said rates paid by savings and loan associations and other lending institutions now range from 2 to 3½ per cent.

"There is a serious question," Fahey said, "if the rate of return to savers in most sections of the country can go any lower than 3 and 3½ per cent without discouraging thrift and raising a good many questions of considerable social importance.

Workers Supply Funds.

"The money placed in the strictly savings institutions, which has made possible most of the home building in this country, comes in small amounts from the workers. If the return on their hard earned savings is pared too closely, there is likely to be less inclination to save and a stronger tendency to depend for security on pensions and unemployment benefits."

He said that at least half, and possibly 65 per cent, of the families in the United States cannot afford homes costing more than $4,000.

"The great problem," Fahey continued, "is that of providing better housing for the lower income groups which are able to pay for their homes and do not need public help.'

He told of coöperative efforts of the Home Loan Bank board with lending institutions, the American Institute of Architects, and the producers' council, which represents the nation's leading manufacturers, to assure proper planning, all possible economies, and a sound home.

Cheaper Homes Needed.

However, he said there is still great need for getting a better house than this country has yet seen for $4,000, and perhaps as low as $2,000.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], chairman of the monopoly committee, took exception to a statement by Straus that the USHA was making a profit on its financing of municipal housing authorities and that it was on a "pay as you go" basis.

Straus had claimed a profit in that the USHA was selling 6 year bonds through the United States treasury at an average interest rate of 1½ per cent, and was lending funds to the local housing authorities at 3 to 3¼ per cent.

O'Mahoney observed that this seemed to him only a bookkeeping profit, but Straus claimed the "profit" permitted a reduction in rent contributions which the USHA makes to local housing authorities as a government subsidy.

"Far from treading on the toes of the private building industry, we are providing a cushion for it," Straus told the committee. He said the USHA is lending for housing facilities for families of less than $1,000 annual income for which, he said, private industry has been unable to provide proper housing.

JONES WOULD HELP RAILS TO BUY BACK BONDS AT DISCOUNT

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, newly appointed federal loan administrator, recommended today that railroads be permitted to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for the purpose of buying in their outstanding securities at a discount. Jones, former RFC chairman, testified before the senate banking committee in support of President Roosevelt's new $2,800,000,000 lending program.

Jones said, however, that the roads should make up the difference between the price they paid their bondholders and the securities' par value in preferred stock. Thus, he said, if a road was able to buy in a $100 bond at $30 it should give the bondholder $70 in preferred stock.

"We wouldn't want to lend money to one man to buy a bargain from another," Jones said. Some carriers could reduce their fixed charges by 50 per cent if they had funds to buy in their fixed interest obligations at a discount, he added.

Loans on Corn Add More to Farm Expense

Inquiry yesterday indicated that farmers may incur added expenses in complying with the terms of the corn loan extension announced recently by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Grain men said the available storage space is inadequate for both the new corn crop and the grain that the government proposes to leave on farms for another year.

To encourage farmers to hold the 257,000,000 bushels of sealed corn for another year after Aug. 1, Wallace has offered to pay 6 cents a bushel for storage at the end of the extended loan period on condition the market price is less than the loan rate, plus carrying and storage charges. Farmers needing additional storage facilities will be advanced the 6 cents a bushel at the time loans are extended.

Storage Space Is Problem.

It is this problem of storage space, grain men said, which may snag the program. Last year, when the government offered to lend 57 cents a bushel on 1938 corn, farmers in Illinois and Iowa were forced to build thousands of new cribs to qualify for the 1938 loans, since 50,000,000 bushels were already occupying farm cribs under the extended 1937 corn loan.

Grain men asserted the situation this year will be aggravated. In addition to the 257,000,000 bushels sealed under loans, there were another 268,000,000 bushels stored on farms in Illinois and Iowa alone on July 1, it is estimated. The total carryover at the end of the crop year, it is estimated, will be 550,000,000 bushels or more.

Definite figures on present available storage space on the farms are not available.

Much Space Already Occupied.

The corn crop for the whole country has averaged 2,310,000,000 annually over the last decade. Only about 300,000,000 bushels leave the farms in a normal year. This means that farmers have had to provide storage space for two billion bushels or more. Ordinarily at the end of the season when the harver approaches, the cribs have been emptied and room has been made for the new grain. This season corn held under government seal is utilizing a substantial part of the available space.

What can be done with the estimated 2,570,000,000 bushel new crop while the carryover must still be cared for is puzzling grain men. Farmers could provide some additional space by building more new cribs, but experts say a safe crib costs at least 15 cents a cubic foot, or a little more than the 6 cents a bushel storage the government will allow on loan extensions.

Farmers Object to Expense.

Also, it is reported, many farmers argue that they cannot go on building expensive new cribs indefinitly, particularly since there may be no use for them in a few years.

An alternative is elevator storage, for which there is space for an estimated one billion bushels of grain. But not all of that space will be available for corn. In addition to large amounts of grain now stored in elevators, more space will be taken by the new crops of wheat, oats, rye, and barley.

Kansas City, for instance, has storage space for 62,000,000 bushels, but 34,000,000 bushels already are being stored. It is estimated new crops will fill space for another 16,000,000 bushels, leaving only space for storing 12,000,000 bushels of new corn. Of Chicago's 55,000,000 bushel storage space, room for 16,000,000 bushels is now occupied and another 25,000,000 bushels of wheat, oats, rye, and barley are expected to pour in within the next two months. That would leave space for only 14,000,000 bushels of corn.

URGES NEW STORAGE

Fort Dodge, Ia.—[Special.]—Claude R. Wickard, regional director of the agricultural adjustment administration, today advised farmers to build additional corn storage space to provide for the 1939 crop.

He said the government corn loan program provides a "definite encouragement for farmers to build or purchase additional storage space." In the last year about 9 million bushels of shelled corn were sealed on farms, Wickard said, and it "kept splendidly and proved that properly dried corn can be stored safely for long period."

"In any event," he said, referring to the possibility that farmers will relinquish title to their sealed corn at the expiration of the loan period, "the Commodity Credit corporation is not going to dump this corn on the market. We made a mistake last year when we sold some bargain corn back to producers in the neighborhood."

Convert Edison Debentures to Get Dividend on Aug. 1

An estimated $3,454,400 of Commonwealth Edison company 3½ per cent debentures, due 1958, was converted into stock yesterday, the company announced. This boosted to $16,500,000 the amount converted since June 30 and raised total conversions to $35,387,800 at the close of business yesterday, the last day on which debenture holders could exercise their rights to be eligible for a dividend of 40 cents on the stock Aug. 1. The original issue was $129,431,400, and the balance not converted was $94,043,600.

Senate Approves Boosting Bond Limit to 45 Billions

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—The senate approved and sent to the White House today legislation permitting the treasury to issue up to $45,000,000,000 of bonds. Existing law limits bond issues to $30,000,000,000, although the limit on the total debt is $45,000,000,000. Secretary Morgenthau requested removal of the bond limitation because then, he said, the treasury could obtain more favorable financing terms.

CORN FUTURES SLUMP; LOWEST IN 5½ YEARS

Good Crop Prospect Depresses Prices.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the September delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Year ago.
Wheat	.67	.66½	.70¾
Corn	.45⅛	.45⅝	.61
Oats	.27⅞	.28⅛	.26½
Rye	.40⅞	.41⅛	.51⅜
Soy beans	.68¾	.69⅞	.84¾

Lower temperatures and forecasts of rain caused corn futures on the Chicago Board of Trade to decline about 1½ cents a bushel at one time. They touched a new low since December, 1933. The July delivery sold at 43 cents. A year ago July corn sold around 59½ cents and two years ago it sold as high as $1.29½.

The new low prices reflect prospects for a large 1939 crop. Domestic stocks of corn are now the largest on record.

July corn has lost about 8 cents a bushel since late in May. This drop has been recorded during a period in which almost ideal weather conditions have aided rapid growth of the new crop.

Hybrid Corn Boosts Yield.

The 1939 corn acreage is the smallest in 40 years, but a record acreage, averaging 43 per cent of the corn area in the principal producing states, has been planted with seed of corn hybrids. These are high yield plants. The prospective crop, according to the latest government estimates, may total 2,570,000,000 bushels. This is 28,000,000 bushels more than last year's production and, except for the slightly larger crop of 1937, the largest since 1932.

Speculators who bought corn futures recently hurried to unload as prices receded yesterday. Many stop loss orders were uncovered on the break. Cash houses and shorts turned to the buying side on the decline and a rally occurred shortly before the close which offset part of the early losses.

Closing Corn Trades Lower.

Closing trades were ⅛ to ¾ cent lower, with the July contract leading the decline. Reports of crop deterioration in the southwest were ignored.

Reports from Washington indicating that the government might be forced to take over an estimated 125,000,000 bushels of corn when the loans made to farmers on 257,000,000 bushels mature on Aug. 1 had much influence on trade sentiment.

The loan price was 57 cents a bushel, or 14 cents a bushel above the price at which the July future sold yesterday. Including freight and other charges, traders figured that, based on the prevailing open market price, the government was confronted with a loss of about 25 cents a bushel on the loans.

Wheat Gains; Damage Reported.

Reports indicating the northwestern spring wheat crop had been severely damaged by recent high temperatures resulted in a higher price for that grain. Closing sales on the Board of Trade were ½ to ⅝ cent higher. The rally was helped by rumors that a fair amount of American hard winter wheat had been sold for export.

Announcement is expected early next week that the AAA will subsidize exports of flour to England. No subsidy was paid on shipments to that country during the 1938-'39 crop year as the result of an agreement between the department of agriculture and English mills whereby the latter purchased about 25,000,000 bushels of wheat from the AAA.

FORMAL ORDER NAMES THOMSON C. & N. W. TRUSTEE

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday formally approved a $100,000 bond for Charles M. Thomson as trustee of the Chicago and North Western railway. The court's action followed the approval of Thomson's appointment by the interstate commerce commission on Thursday. Thomson, who is now trustee of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, will take the North Western position on July 20.

Judge Barnes also approved a nine months' budget of the North Western and authorized the purchase of 500 coal cars at $1,450,000 and 300 box cars at $960,000. They will be financed through the sale of 3 per cent equipment trust certificates to be paid off in equal instalments within ten years.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 14.—Apparently showing signs of fatigue after four days of advancing prices, the stock market today settled back to close irregularly lower. Fractional declines were the rule. Trading declined to 543,620 shares from 945,460 shares yesterday and 914,180 on Wednesday.

Selling stimulated by the recent gains and reluctance of the majority of traders to assume positions over the week-end were regarded chiefly responsible for the mild reaction. At no time was selling pressure heavy.

Foreign and domestic developments were said to have little effect on prices as technical factors played the largest part in traders' decisions.

The market opened steady. There was almost complete absence of trading in large blocks of stocks which featured the two preceding sessions. An attempt to start a rally proved fruitless and prices slipped below yesterday's final quotations.

Representative industrial issues, including United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and General Electric, were moderately active and showed only small net changes.

Power and light shares turned hesitant in line with the general list. Rails also backed away fractionally, with interest at a low ebb.

Several specialties moved against the general trend. Loft gained ⅜ point in the best volume of the day to 12⅝, a new peak for 1939.

Aviation shares showed small changes. Coppers declined fractionally. American Telephone lost 1½ points.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 14.—(AP)—The bond market rode an even keel today. Not enough buying developed to buoy prices materially, but on the other hand, traders said, holders generally were reluctant to sell, stiffening values at prevailing levels. Dealings in United States government loans were light, with treasuries closing 1/32d of a point higher to 6/32ds lower.

Ahead part of a point were Bethlehem Steel 3½s, Firestone Tire 3½s, International Paper 5s, Studebaker 6s, Union Pacific 3½s, and Detroit Edison 4½s.

Down fractionally were Alleghany 5s, American Telephone 3¼s of '66, Armour 4s of '55, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s of '62, and Commonwealth Edison Convertible 3½s.

New York City traction lines showed independent strength.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading on the Chicago Stock exchange dwindled yesterday, sales amounting to 29,000 shares. Of the eighty-eight issues traded, forty moved higher, twenty-four declined, and twenty-four finished unchanged.

Commonwealth Edison had the heaviest turnover, 3,600 shares. The stock closed ⅛ lower. Marshall Field, Zenith Radio, Midland Utilities 7 per cent A preferred and 6 per cent A preferred, Berghoff Brewing, and Cities Service gained fractions. Middle West and Kellogg Switchboard declined fractionally. Aviation corporation closed unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks closed mixed yesterday. Some interest was displayed in American National, which rose $5 a share.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Extremely light receipts bolstered the trade for hogs at the Chicago stockyards again yesterday despite the failure of wholesale prices of fresh pork to rise in line with the advance of live costs. The scant supply of hogs weighing 230 pounds down cleared quickly at 5 to 10 cent higher prices, which were highest since Monday. Other hogs were less active but ruled steady to 10 cents higher for the day.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 lbs.]

Commodities

Most silk futures at New York yesterday advanced to new high prices for the season. Spot market activity and high domestic Japanese consumption spurred short covering and new buying, brokers reported. Part of the gain was lost before the close, however, and final prices for No. 1 contracts were ½ cent a pound lower to 3½ cents higher. No. 2 closed unchanged to 5 cents higher.

The domestic copper market was listless. Sales on Thursday were reported at 481 tons, the smallest since early April. Producers maintained prices at 10¼ cents a pound. Copper, tin, and zinc futures at New York closed unchanged, while lead was 0.01 to 0.02 cent a pound higher.

Fourth quarter rubber quotas for exporting countries are expected to be placed at 60 per cent, not including measures on behalf of the barter scheme, Amsterdam advices said. Rubber futures gained 0.03 to 0.09 cent a pound.

Cottonseed oil contracts lost 0.05 to 0.10 cent a pound. Some deliveries again established new five-year lows. Also lower at New York were cocoa, sugar, and hides. Wool tops moved higher. Santos coffee was irregular, and Rio finished unchanged.

ORDER FOUR NEW FAST TRAINS FOR FLORIDA SERVICE

Streamliners to Operate from New York.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Train service between New York and Florida will be improved in the next winter season by three new streamlined Diesel-electric powered all coach trains, it was announced yesterday. A similar train, the Silver Meteor, was placed on the run last year. There are no streamlined high speed trains in the Chicago-Florida service.

The Atlantic Coast line and the Florida East Coast railways announced that each road has placed an order for two streamlined trains with the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, Philadelphia. It is expected that the four Diesel-electric locomotives needed for the trains will be built at the La Grange, Ill., works of the Electro-Motive corporation.

Three Trains to be Pooled.

Three of the new trains will be pooled by the two roads for use in daily high speed service between New York and Miami. The fourth will be used in daily shuttle service between Jacksonville and Miami.

The trains are expected to compete in time with the Silver Meteor of the Seaboard Air Line, which was the first high speed train to be placed on the New York-Miami run. That train completes the 1,388 mile run in 26 hours and 30 minutes, or at an average speed of 52.4 miles per hour.

The shortest route between Chicago and Miami is 1,434 miles and the fastest running time is 31 hours and 50 minutes, an average speed of 45.1 miles an hour, or 7.3 miles an hour slower than the fastest service from New York.

Meet Bus Competition.

All the New York high speed trains in the Florida service are to be of the de luxe coach type in which the riders sleep in their chairs at night. Introduction of this type of train is designed to win back business which the motor bus lines took from the railroads, partly through low rates. One way tickets to Miami in the coach trains cost $23.57 from New York and $23.15 from Chicago.

The Seaboard Air Line is reported to have had immediate success with its twice a week service, netting $4 a mile after all expenses. Success of the Silver Meteor is said to have inspired the other Florida roads to make a bid for the business.

The Santa Fe has had profitable results from its 39 hour and 45 minute all coach train between Chicago and Los Angeles. The Pennsylvania and the New York Central on July 28 will introduce fast all-coach trains in the Chicago and New York service.

Foreign Inquiry Made.

Other activity in the railroad equipment business was reported yesterday. The Iranian railway administration through the American consulate at Teheran has requested bids from American companies on 150 freight locomotives, 22 Diesel switching engines, 1,866 freight cars, and 120 passenger cars.

The I. C. C. authorized trustees of the Denver & Rio Grande Western to issue $290,000 of equipment trust certificates to purchase new equipment.

COTTON

Trading in cotton futures yesterday was somewhat restricted as speculators awaited announcement as to the government subsidy program. Mills were fair buyers of July with the close .02 to .03 cent a pound higher. The new crop months finished .01 to .03 cent a pound lower on the active futures.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told representatives of major cotton trade and textile interests that tentative plans call for a start of the subsidy program next month. Agricultural department officials said it would be from 4 to 6 weeks before a quota could be placed into effect on textile imports. They suggested the possibility of a tariff increase to offset the lowest cotton price to foreign spinners.

Consumption of cotton by American mills in June was 578,000 bales, it was reported by the Department of Commerce. This compares with 605,000 bales in June last year and 443,000 bales in May, 1938.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .08 cent a pound lower with New York 9.77 cents; New Orleans, 9.45 cents, and Houston, 9.30 cents a pound. Prices follow:

TRADE RALLIES SHARPLY FROM SPRING SLUMP

Business activity in June recorded a sharp recovery from the spring slump and reached the highest levels since February and March, Col. Leonard P. Ayres reported yesterday in the Cleveland Trust company's business survey.

The bank's index of business activity, as measured by federal reserve system data, climbed from a low of 92 in April and May to 98-99 in June, Ayres reported. Physical volume of industrial production, which was 31.2 per cent below normal in April, moved up to 27 per cent below normal in June.

Explains Spring Slump.

Ayres cited three causes for the spring recession; war tension in Europe, the April-May shutdown in the coal mines, and a sharp decrease in new corporate financing.

Volume of new financing by businesses in the first quarter was $89,000,000, and in the second quarter it was $151,000,000. These totals compare with $450,000, and $191,000,000 in the third and fourth quarters, respectively, of last year.

Ayres said agricultural prospects at present are good, retail trade, particularly in rural sections, is holding up well, and building construction is making a "distinctly better showing" than it did last year. June automobile production was 310,000 units larger than expected and 64 per cent greater than in June, 1938.

More Autos Repossessed.

The percentage of automobiles sold on the instalment plan and repossessed because buyers failed to keep up the payments was higher than ever before in 1938, topping even the previous repossession peak established at the depth of the depression in 1932.

The latest peak, Ayres said, "was more serious also in the dollar losses per car, which worked out at 59 dollars in 1932 and at 62 dollars in 1938."

PUT DEPARTMENT STORE SALES 2% ABOVE YEAR AGO

Sales of department stores in the week ended July 8 were 2 per cent ahead of a year ago, the Federal Reserve board reported yesterday. The gain was irregular throughout the nation, with two districts reporting no change and three recording declines.

The seventh reserve district, which includes Chicago, was one of the seven districts to record an upturn. It amounted to 4 per cent. An increase of 20.4 per cent in Detroit was largely responsible for the gain. Chicago alone reported a gain of only 0.6 per cent.

In recent weeks the trend of sales has shown a declining ratio of gain over the comparative 1938 week. In the July 1 and June 24 weeks the gain was 3 per cent; in the week ended June 17 it was 6 per cent, and in the week ended June 11 it was 10 per cent.

Companies Get More Time to File Stock Tax Returns

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—The treasury gave corporations today an extra month for filing their new capital stock tax returns. Domestic corporations, which were scheduled to report by July 31, were given until Aug. 31. The deadline for foreign corporations was extended from Aug. 29 to Sept. 29. The extension was granted because the recent tax law, permitting corporations to revise estimates of the value of their capital stock, delayed the preparation of blank forms upon which the returns must be made.

Accuse Mt. Carmel Firm of Patent Infringement

Danville, Ill., July 14.—(AP)—A suit charging infringement of patent rights in the manufacture of sockets was filed in federal court today by Hugh H. Eby, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., against the Meisner Manufacturing company, Mount Carmel, Ill. An injunction was asked in addition to damages.

112 Miles of Rural Power Line to Be Built in Illinois

Springfield, Ill., July 14.—(AP)—The Illinois commerce commission today authorized the Illinois Northern Utilities company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois to build and operate 112.08 miles of rural electric line.

UNION DISPUTE WILL BE STUDIED BY HOUSE GROUP

Washington, July 14.—(AP)—Acting Chairman Ramspeck [D., Ga.], of the house labor committee today assured a witness representing a large industry that the committee would "seek a solution" of the problem of union jurisdictional disputes.

Ramspeck's assurance was given at the close of the testimony of August Busch Jr., vice president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., St. Louis, Mo., brewers.

Busch told the committee that a jurisdictional dispute between two unions, both of which are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, had been going on in his plant for twenty-six years, and that William Green, federation president, told him he "lacks authority" to settle the issues.

Carpenters, millwrights and cabinet makers now are on strike at the plant, he said, because of a dispute over whether they, or the machinists, should do certain work.
